sentences won't cure and to turn loose is but to give him new opportunities to commit crime. Moreover, if the children of lawless parents are not eliminated tomorrow would be eliminated a large degree. Criminal tendencies can be detected early in many of them can be cured. The child made into a healthy, normal being. It is not fair either the child or the public at large something is not done in this.

We have under examination at present time a boy who refuses to go to school, whose parents give him up as 'impossible' to handle. An examination has shown the boy to be a 'mental' case of a type which is prone to commit murder. It is almost certain that this boy some day commit some serious crime, but what is the State doing to save him, but the innocent people about him?

It is certain that our present laws have done but little to crime. The Massachusetts shopaholic hospital has paved the way for other States to follow if they desire to really find a solution for the present deplorable situation. What are the officials of California going to do about it? The answer depends on them.

Posse of Fifty Searches Snow For Lost Girl

RENO, Nev., Nov. 7.—Fighting their way through a blinding blizzard and carefully searching snow banks in the wooded Nevada mountains, a posse numbering fifty tramped and worn men from Battle Mountain were today continuing their search for Amelia Holm, the victim of a disordered mind, who fled, scantily clad, from a limited train on which she was riding into the storm, two days ago.

More than twenty-five square miles of territory has been covered by searching parties latest reports declare, and as yet no trace of the girl has been found. Heavy snows have obliterated trails and there are no surface indications of the direction Miss Holm took in her mad flight. It is feared that she has either succumbed to the ravages of the mountain elements or fallen prey to the predatory animals that infest that region.

Miss Holm was en route to her home in Oakland on the Western Pacific train Wednesday night. She had exhibited signs of great nervousness, members of the crew said, but little attention was paid to her as she walked silently up and down the swaying aisle of the coach.

When the little station of Kampos was reached the porter declared the young woman suddenly ran to her berth, and although attired only in a kimono, seized her suitcase and fled to the platform. Conductor and brakeman followed her, but were unable to overtake the flying figure in the darkness.

Bulletins were flashed to all points in the near vicinity and posses were hastily organized. From Kampos searchers left immediately, but hours later reported no success. Authorities were trying today to locate parents of the girl, who are believed to make their home in the Bay region.

SLOVAKIAN-POLISH WAR IMPENDS AS RUSS SIGN TREATY

By LLOYD AILEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Signing of the Russo-Polish peace pact at Riga may be the signal for another war, involving Poland and Czechoslovakia, according to the belief expressed in diplomatic circles here tonight.

At the Czech-Slovak legation it was reported that a rapprochement between Poland and Hungary apparently is progressing. It was stated that Hungary possesses 140,000 troops and Poland nearly 500,000, all of which would be available as soon as peace was signed. This, it was declared, would constitute a serious menace to Czechoslovakia, despite the latter's affiliation with the little entente, which includes Jugoslavia and Rumania.

The little entente was aimed primarily at curbing Hungary's ambitions. Great significance was attached to the fact Poland refused to take Jönköping's invitation to join the little entente.

On the other hand, the Poland legation here maintained the country's program is wholly peaceable and denied any intent of attempting to occupy the formally disputed territory of Teschen despite the fact Poland still regards Teschen as unjust. Poland is already mobilizing, the legation said, and dropped the hint that Jönköping's conference in Warsaw may result in Poland's affiliation with the little entente.

European officialdom, generally, was said to be anxious, however, to realize the temptation to the Polish military clique to utilize the surplus arms on hand to seize Teschen by force, thus precipitating further warfare.

Rodman to Stay In Command of Pacific Fleet

By UNITED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—No change in the command of either the Atlantic or Pacific fleets is contemplated at present, according to Secretary of the Navy Daniels today.

Reports had been in circulation along the coast today that both Admiral Rodman, commanding the Pacific fleet, and Admiral Wilson of the Atlantic fleet were to be relieved.

WHO CAN SOLVE SAM'S PROBLEM?

For five and one-half hours yesterday morning Sam Beartmo, local restaurateur, busied himself about his range. He juggled "bucks," put them in the water, scrubbed them, fried them, standing up and over hand and eye. He dished out sauce and toast and coffee, cooked steaks and chops.

For thirty-seven years, boy and man, Sam has been perspiring in front of a range hereabouts, but never had he such an ominous feeling before.

Sam couldn't explain the sensation that was vibrating through his nervous system. There was a stillness, a lane of silence unexplainable, as a clear channel in the usual routine noises.

Break time was coming; in fact it was 11:30 a. m. and at hand Sam got ready for the rush and started to hang up the usual breakfast paraphernalia.

"Hey, help!" cried Sam, "you can make your own look of this bet!" "I've served a hundred million short and regular feeds in my time, but this is the first breakfast watch of five and a half hours that I ever put in when no one asked for an order of ham and eggs."

"No, sir, not one single order of ham and eggs."

"Couldn't have been election bets all of them, so why no ham and eggs orders?"

though they be in both houses, will side with the low tariff men and the Progressive element at every stage of the game and assist in making all the trouble they can for the whole Republican party, regular and Progressive elements together.

RAILROAD QUESTION NOT IMMEDIATE DANGER

Fortunately for the incoming administration, the railroad question is not due at the outset of its incumbency. The railroads will operate for a period under the Esch-Cummings act of the last session of Congress through the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The roads are to have opportunity to demonstrate whether private ownership and control can be made a success. Utterances of prominent railroad men very recently have shown that the railway managers realize the quality and value and know that if they fail it means government ownership for railroads, or worse, the nationalization of the carriers through some measure such as the Plumb plan.

The Republican party promised, in its platform and in pledges made in the campaign, to stop extravagance in the operation of the government. There is no question that a portion of the people under the present people now groan was incurred by extravagant and useless expenditures of money during and even after the war.

CONGRESSMEN CONVINCED REFORM IS POSSIBLE

Men in Congress who have looked into departmental affairs are convinced that there is room for reformation which will reduce the expenditures and obviate the laying of taxes in proportion, but it is going to be a heart-breaking task, they admit.

When the late Thomas B. Reed said, "This is a billion dollar country," he made people gasp. It is a fifty billion dollar country now, and Reed's billion looks small in retrospect.

To reduce expenditures and maintain the nucleus of an army, to stop off appropriations and keep down the navy, the pride of the nation; to continue to hold down public buildings, the construction of which is demanded from every section; to limit work on rivers and harbors when the rapidly growing commerce of the nation demands work and yet more work in this way of improvements—all to the end of reducing taxes—is a task, the magnitude of which is fairly appalling.

It is hardly necessary to dwell at length upon the question of foreign policy with which the new administration must deal. The country is election weary, anything at all with respect to foreign policy, it meant that the voters desired to adhere strictly to the admonition of the Fathers, "Friendly relation with all nations, entangling alliances with none." This sentiment of the people will be accepted by the new administration as its chart and guide.

HUGE MAJORITY MENACE TO PARTY HARMONY

There will be insistent demand for the entrance of this country into some kind of association of nations to prevent a madened power from running amuck in the world. The Republican administration and party will seek to pledge its membership in such an association with reservations adhering to the spirit of the fathers. Political troubles are ahead of the Republican party, as all its leaders already foresee. In the first place, it is a political axiom that a sudden majority in Congress is detrimental to a party's top heavy. Finally breaks of its own weight. The axiom has been demonstrated more than once in the past century.

The Republican majority in Congress is the most monstrous development in sixty years. It contains the germs of its own disintegration, which will commence to ferment early in the new regime. In the Senate the group of radical Senators who will resist the leadership of the majority and there is a similar element in the House. The hope of the men who are now in control of the party is that these groups will be unconquerable by the numerical superiority of the constructive.

one I have had no share in its capture. RUMORS OF MORE WARRANTS TO COME. While admitting that additional arrests may be expected within a short time, there was some difference expressed by government agencies as to the number of warrants now in the hands of the marshal's office for immediate service. It was admitted that deputy marshals are searching for a second defendant, but decline to confirm a report from a reliable source that a third warrant also has been issued for execution.

Federal officials were reluctant to discuss Sullivan's arrest. It is a more or less unexpected development in the booze quiz, and has given foundation for the belief that it has been brought about by disclosures made by Dr. George Brackett, former federal official, in a confession said to have been made voluntarily to the government. Brackett has been quoted by prohibition enforcement officers as having said he had been offered by Braski, Douglas Newton and others the control of the distribution of whisky in the San Joaquin Valley upon the posting of a $50,000 guarantee.

ROAD REPAIRED

Travelers to Stockton over the Borden road have complained of the water that lodges in the subway under the Santa Fe, near Holt, following a storm, and that their cars are splashed with muddy water. The trouble has now been adjusted and it is not expected there will be any further inconvenience.

LATE FOR LUNCH, GIRL SPEEDS UP AUTO, IS CAUGHT

BERKELEY, Nov. 6.—Miss Ethel Carter, 21 years old, 1645 Thirty-sixth avenue, Oakland, was late for a luncheon engagement today. She discovered the fact as she crossed the Berkeley-Albany line on her way to Oakland from Richmond where she had gone on an errand.

She slipped on the gas of her high-powered car, and let her go. So did Patrolman H. P. Lee and Superintendent of Records C. D. Lee of the Berkeley police department, who were returning to the police station from an emergency call to West Berkeley.

For three miles the chase continued. The police department "driver" labeled the road way as it trailed the big touring car.

Near the Oakland line Miss Carter stopped to allow a train the right of way. She found her way blocked.

"Get out of my way," she shouted to the occupants of the "thumper." "I'm in a hurry."

"Not on your life," came the response as the officers mopped their brows. "You're under arrest." Miss Carter first tried smiles and then tears but to no avail.

G. O. P. LANDSLIDE ENDORSEMENT OF HARDING PLAN

By J. BART CAMPBELL
Universal News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—In Tuesday's Republican landslide Republican leaders returning here today declared they were not only a sweeping endorsement of President-elect Harding's campaign stand for a protective tariff, but a nationwide demand that foreign nations no longer be permitted to use this country as a dumping ground for products of their low wage labor.

These leaders predicted the capture of the House of Representatives by the Democrats and the substantial increase of the Republican majority in Senate and House meant the passage by the new Congress not later than next summer of a tariff law commensurate with the pressing economic and industrial requirements of the American people.

One Republican senator from the west declared wool men are facing bankruptcy because of the heavy importations of Australian and Argentine wool which is underselling the American product in the American market.

COTTON PERIL

A Democratic senator from the south said a strong sentiment in favor of agricultural protection prevailed in his section. He pointed out as an example of the "Egyptian cotton peril" to that during the twelve months ending July 1, 1929, 452,000 bales of cotton were shipped from Egypt into this country.

The same senator said too much stress could not be laid on the Federal Trade Commission's recent statement that the quantity of Canadian wheat imported into this country during the first fifteen days of last month equaled the entire amount of wheat imports from Canada for the entire year of 1929.

IMPORTS JUMP

Another Democratic senator who declared support of a protective tariff policy fostered by the Harding administration would not be found lacking on the Democratic side in Congress, pointed to the equally illuminating fact that for the nine months period ending in September of this year, imports into this country had jumped in value to $2,328,000,000 as against $2,697,000,000 for the same period last year, an increase of $1,661,000,000 or 61.5 per cent.

Both Senator and Mrs. Harding appeared glad to get away from the station platform in Marion like two honeymooners.

Several hundred personal friends and neighbors were at the station to see them off. Senator and Mrs. Harding shook hands with virtually everyone there.

Mrs. Harding wore a dark purple dress and a dark wrap. She wore a single rose.

The Hardings are traveling in the private car Superb, which they have used during most of their campaign trips. Ahead of the Superb is the Berwick, the private car of Edward V. McCann, Washington publisher, Secret Service men, newspaper men and two stenographers occupy a compartment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Judge C. B. Ames, former assistant attorney-general, will represent the department of justice in the case of 125 coal miners and operators who are to go on trial under the Lever act at Indianapolis Monday, it was announced by the department today.

Attorney-General Palmer will not go to Indianapolis.

Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, before whom the accused men are to be tried, invited Palmer to Indianapolis to explain his orders against the use of certain evidence against the miners.

Following a conference between Palmer and other government attorneys interested in the case, it was announced late today that Palmer would not go, but that Ames, who represented the government in the proceedings against the miners at the time of their strike a year ago, would go.

The reasons for Palmer's refusal to accept Judge Anderson's invitation were not explained. It is understood, however, that he took the position that the department of justice and not the attorney-general was invited and that the man who had charge of the case for the department should go.

ILL Man Drowns Himself While Taking a Bath

Deliberately holding his head beneath the level of the water in the tub in which he was taking a bath, John Roci, 35, of 554 Linden street, late yesterday ended his life at the Providence hospital.

According to police who investigated the tragedy, Roci had been suffering for some time from an aggravated type of mental disorder. For some days after his removal to the institution, they say, he frequently asked to be allowed to bathe. Today his request was granted.

First intimation of Roci's action was received by Nurse Florence Reedy, who became alarmed when she received no response to her questions to the patient through the bathroom door. Help was summoned, and breaking through the door, Thomas McNeil of 555 Fifty-eighth street discovered Roci face down in the tub.

As far as has been ascertained, the suicide victim had no relatives in Oakland.

HARDING ALMOST MISSES HIS TRAIN ON WAY TO TEXAS

AN INLAND HARDING'S SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO POINT ISABEL, Texas, Nov. 6.—President-elect Harding was nearly left behind when his special train started up at Belle Fontaine, Ohio, today, while the senator was weaving through the dense crowd of people on the station platform shaking hands.

The train started out without an advance warning. Mrs. Harding, who was standing on the rear platform, saw her husband would be unable to get through the dense crowd in time to swing aboard. She called the train conductor to stop. By that time the train was picking up speed rapidly. Emergency signals brought the train to a stop.

Crowds turned at at nearly every station along the road traveled by the president-elect's special. Brief talks were made at Belle Fontaine where engines were changed, and at Munice, Union City and Anderson.

Both Senator and Mrs. Harding appeared glad to get away from the station platform in Marion like two honeymooners.

LADY LOBBYISTS ASK 'SMOKER' OF CONGRESSWOMAN

By MILDRED MORRIS
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—As one of her first official acts, Mrs. Alice Robertson, elected to Congress from Oklahoma, will be asked to demand a smoking room in the capital for lady lobbyists, according to Mrs. Dorothy Clark of Lincoln, Neb., a young woman of social prominence here who was active in the suffrage movement.

Mrs. Earle announced today that a deputation of women will call on her arrival in Washington to "talk it over." She also declared that the women will agitate to have Mrs. Robertson appointed chairman of the House sub-committee which has charge of the House restaurant.

WINS MEN'S SUPPORT

"The congresswoman-elect is said to have won the men's support in her campaign by the delectable food she served in her restaurant in Muskogee, and Mrs. Earle pointed out today "the wonderful opportunity" she would have as head of the House luncheon to influence antagonistic congressmen "through their stomachs" to vote for legislation asked by the women.

Mrs. Earle was lunching with Miss Mary Winsor of Haverford, Pa., in a capital restaurant last winter when the latter insisted upon smoking two cigarettes and nearly caused a riot. Several suffragists made indignant protest to Senator Moses, head of the Senate sub-committee.

SENATOR DENIES

"The senator denied that there is smoking discrimination against the women," said Mrs. Earle, "but there is and there will be until a woman is placed in charge."

She added that "smokes for women" may be only a small issue compared to others, but if the women continued to be denied equality in the little things they can never hope to accomplish "full freedom."

A veritable army of women lobbyists will descend upon the new Congress, she pointed out today.

PROPER COMFORTS

"Proper comforts should be provided for them in the capital," she said. "It would be so soothing to have a haven such as a smoking room to go to after the nervous strain of talking to congresses."

Denial at the headquarters of the national woman's party that the organization has any connection with Mrs. Earle's plans disclosed that under an ordinance issued by Alice Paul, smoking by women actively connected with the party here is prohibited. Although an extreme feminist in her views, Miss Paul, it is said, thinks indulgence in the weed by women "abominable."

Some of the younger suffragists confided that it requires more stoicism to bear up under the order than to hunker strike.

COX WILL HUNT SQUIRRELS, TRY TO FORGET VOTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Governor Cox is going squirrel hunting to free himself from all thoughts of the late campaign, beginning next Thursday at Montgomery, Ala., according to an announcement today by Senator Pat Harrison, who will be the governor's host. Several days will be spent in the vicinity of Montgomery and the party will then go to Biloxi, Miss. Senator Harrison's home, where hunting will be resumed. There is no big game in the regions which the governor will visit, but quail and squirrels are reported unusually plentiful.

The following statement of the activities and purposes of the contest has been prepared for The TRIBUNE by Kortum:
In 1918 a few poultrymen of Santa Cruz started a small local contest. Each entrant sent ten birds to the contest building, erected by popular subscription and by business men of the town. Each owner's birds were kept in separate pens, and the contest was held. At the end of the year the record was a pen record. Some were very good, but still there was no comparison for the individuals.

PLAN TAKEN OVER

In 1919 the Santa Cruz County Farm Bureau became interested in the work, through the local farm center, and took over the plan. A new house was built and an agent secured to assume charge of the California Farm Bureau egg-laying contest. Entries came in from various parts of the state and under the contest opened on November 15, thirty-four different poultrymen had entered twelve of their best birds each. The University of California poultry division was asked to supervise the contest and to take over the extension system, represented at Santa Cruz by Farm Advisor H. L. Washburn and Assistant Farm Advisor W. J. Tocher. The work of this department was advisory only. The funds were provided by prominent business men and from the sale of eggs. Max Kortum, a graduate of the farm school and a man of several years' practical experience, was secured to manage the contest.

So successful was the California Farm Bureau egg-laying contest and so strong was the demand for a permanent contest in California that the Santa Cruz County Farm Bureau, in July, 1920, asked the university to take over the management. The Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce solved the difficulty by providing $10,000 to purchase the contest building and equipment. As run the contest would be practically self-supporting, but to cover any possible deficit thirty progressive poultrymen of Santa Cruz have stated their willingness to back it.

NEW FACTS DERIVED

The contest will serve as a station at which new facts will be established—an experiment station if you will—with the birds under the supervision of a trained man.

SCOUTMASTERS' COURSE TO OPEN

ALAMEDA, Nov. 6. — A course of instruction and training for scoutmasters will be started by the Alameda Council of the Boy Scouts of America in the Scout headquarters, Tuesday night. The classes will be presided over by C. Kelly, scout commissioner in Alameda, assisted by other authorities on scouting, camping and kindred subjects. The course of training will be open to any man interested in working with boys, whether connected with the Scouts or not. The course will be of eight sessions and will be divided into two terms of four weeks each. At its conclusion those having taken it will be awarded a special diploma. The work will be carried on every Tuesday evening in the headquarters at 1409 Park street, from 7:30 until 9:30.

The instruction will include all branches of work taken up by the scoutmasters and Boy Scouts. This will include signaling, first aid, handcraft, physical work, troop organization, drills, hiking and outdoor scouting, cooking and story telling. Lectures on various subjects will be given.

Complete taking of the course does not obligate those attending to connect themselves with patrols. The object is to create an interest in the subject and to perfect those scoutmasters who desire to take up the work.

Data can thus be obtained that will work toward the betterment of the industry of the state. Various methods are used in culling. In general these methods may be effective but they are only the beginning of the road to "better stock." These general points can be studied at the contest station and actual checks can be made as to their comparative values. The tramp will tell the true story. Every poultryman will get the benefit of these findings and the industry as a whole will profit.

BIRDS IN COMPETITION

PLANNED TO OPEN
At the contest also an owner's birds enter into competition with other birds and a comparison with these is of value. Even if his birds are inferior it is an advantage to know it. At the end of a year his birds are returned and if, out of his twelve he has six or even four outstanding individuals, these as a basis he can begin breeding and build up his flock. Naturally the spirit of competition enters in and what is a greater incentive in any industry than this feature?

The poultryman can best afford to enter then for three reasons: First, to get a trap record on every bird for a year, the truth of which is above question; second, to compare his stock with that of other breeders; third, to get the value of publicity and advertising.

TWELVE PULLETS SENT

Each entrant sends twelve pullets, the best ten of which at any time determine his total record. This also is a feature of the California Farm Bureau egg-laying contest. Usually in contests two hens are set aside at the beginning as alternates and their record is not counted unless one of the other birds dies.

4000 ACRES PUT INTO ASPARAGUS

BYRON, Nov. 6. — About 4000 acres of asparagus are being planted on the old Sargant canal ranch and on Tyler Island. In San Joaquin county's rich delta section. The land is owned by Libby, McNeill & Libby, represented in Stockton by Louis S. Wetmore. This is probably the largest acreage devoted to asparagus by any one concern in the United States. Asparagus continues to yield from eight to ten years in paying quantity. It has been known to produce for twelve consecutive seasons.

The committee of arrangements for the Post consisted of E. V. Orr, R. V. Woods, H. R. Dallas, H. S. Teague, C. E. Hickok, Halvor Hauch, Floyd Gray and Clara Minor Jr.

The committee of the Women's Auxiliary which had charge of the booths consisted of Mrs. Al Latham, chairman, Mrs. Otto Scherer, Mrs. Fred Baker, Mrs. C. W. Neal, Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Mrs. Jack Lindsay, Mrs. Clark Spencer, Mrs. H. S. Teague, Mrs. T. L. Gray, Mrs. Floyd Gray, Mrs. T. L. Singer, Mrs. L. Goldstein, Mrs. J. L. Fied and Mrs. Frances Keys, Elizabeth and Marian McCormick, Maud Ector, Bernice and Phyllis Borchert, Clara Smith, Virginia Silverman, Dorothy Pifer, Ruth Jenkins, Jean McCaw, Viola Leonard, Rita and Helen Faulk, Marjorie Spencer, Dorothy Brown and Helen Cathral.

She is visiting Mills College as the guest of Mrs. Lauretta Switzer, director of public school music at Mills College.

Syrup Company is Fined As Adulterators

BERKELEY, Nov. 6. — Pleading guilty to selling adulterated apple sauce, members of the firm of the Three Brothers Syrup Company were fined $50 this morning by Judge Robert Edgar. Members of the State pure food squad filed the complaint against the firm, which has a factory at 1724 Fifth street. L. Gagnevin is head of the firm.

TINY JOKESTER HAS ALAMEDA'S POLICE PUZZLED

ALAMEDA, Nov. 6. — He was only a little bit of a yoke but he kept the entire police department of Alameda on the jump for more than two hours this afternoon. Life was found wandering along Park street in the vicinity of the bridge, in a most unbecoming manner by Detective Richard Britt.

Britt, suspecting that the youngster was lost, questioned him regarding his name. The only reply was a grin.

At the police station Sergeant Theodore Anderson thought he would try his hand at giving the third degree to the lost youngster. "What is your name?" he inquired.

"Fuddin' an' name," was the disconcerting answer. "Is it George?" asked Anderson.

"George," repeated the stranger. "There," announced Anderson. "That is the way to get it." "Is it Jimmie?" asked Britt.

"Yes, Jimmie," came the disconcerting answer. And that was about the nearest that any of them could come. In the meantime the youngster wandered about the station collecting pennies from the copper investigating the various books and corners and even purloining Sergeant Anderson's pet pair of glasses to play with. The sergeant rescued them in the nick of time.

After two hours of watching and waiting the station door suddenly opened and a woman entered. The little tow-headed vanderer saw her first. "There was a joyous reunion. The two left before the police could learn their names."

Alameda Scouts to Visit San Francisco

ALAMEDA, Nov. 7. — E. Harry Levy, deputy commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America in Alameda, will take a force of 450 of the youngsters across the bay to visit their San Francisco buddies, on Armistice Day, next Thursday. The San Francisco lads are conducting a week-end encampment at their outdoor headquarters at Troadero, Sunset district, San Francisco.

The Alameda scouts will hike from the ferry building to the Troadero camp. At that place they will take their test in cooking and signaling as well as perfecting themselves in general scout work.

Women to Honor Italian War Nurse

Miss Natalia Anita Garibaldi, granddaughter of the Italian patriot, will be honored tomorrow night when the National League of Women's Service will entertain her at dinner in their clubrooms, 333 Kearny street, San Francisco. "Italy, Past and Present," illustrated with stereoscopic slides, will be the subject for the address of the later evening, with Miss Garibaldi the speaker.

U. C. GIRL'S AUTO STRIKES STUDENT

BERKELEY, Nov. 6. — Randolph Walker, student at the University of California, residing at 2345 College avenue, is in a serious condition at the university infirmary as the result of being run down last night by an automobile driven by Miss Marjorie Durkin, 18 years old, also a college student.

The accident happened at Channing way and College avenue. Miss Durkin, claiming that Walker, who was in the street playing ball with college classmates, ran directly in the path of her automobile. This is the second accident in which Miss Durkin has figured within a few weeks.

Walker is suffering from cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Miss Durkin is one of the "suspicious" journalists recently developed on the campus as the result of psychological tests.

Filing of articles of incorporation of the Sheridan Motor company with County Clerk Gross revealed a new General Motors activity on the coast. The company will be a distributing agency for the new eight-cylinder Sheridan car, which is a General Motors product.

The incorporation is for $100,000 and those concerned in it are Cliff Duran, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, C. M. Stevens, assistant sales manager of the Chevrolet Company of California, and Wickham Havens. The company contemplates handling sale of the Sheridan car in this area.

Furniture Factories In France Closing

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The housing problem is as serious in Paris as in New York or other large cities of the United States. Apartments are not to be had for love or money. One of the results of this state of affairs is a slump in furniture. Several of the largest furniture factories have been obliged to close down and give notice to their workers.

"No one buys furniture any more," said M. Gaston Guerin, Secretary of the Syndicate of Furniture Dealers, because there's no place to put it. "Formerly people used to move from a small apartment to a large one and they'd have to get new furniture. Young people get married and set up homes of their own. Nowadays, if young people marry they either move into a furnished flat, live at a hotel, or stay with their parents. In either case the furniture dealer is out of pocket."

Nails in Lad's Head Are Shown

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The case of a young man who joyment in life apparently consisted in walking around with huge nails driven into his skull has just been brought to the attention of the French Academy of Medicine.

Photographs of the young man, a Mr. Martin, of Marseilles, and X-rays were shown the distinguished assembly, and revealed the presence of two long nails practically passing through the young man's brain. In spite of this he lived on in the best of health.

It was reported in this connection that when at one time the surgeons had pulled the nails out, as one would pull them out of a wall, the patient, on being left alone, and apparently sensing an empty feeling in the head, picked up a couple of knitting needles and jabbed them through the holes left by the nails. X-rays of this feat were also brought as documentary evidence.

MUST HAVE WINE FOR BATH

LET US INTRODUCE THE WOMAN'S CABINET

From left to right they are: MRS. FRANCES C. AXTELL, first woman chairman of the U. S. Employees' Compensation Commission; MRS. CLARA SEARS TAYLOR, first woman rent commissioner of Washington, D. C.; MRS. HELEN H. GARDENER, first woman Civil Service Commissioner; MISS KATHRYN SELLERS, first woman judge of Juvenile Court, District of Columbia; MRS. ANNETTE ABBOT ADAMS, first woman assistant attorney-general; MISS MARY ANDERSON, first woman director woman's bureau, Department of Labor; MISS MABEL T. BOARDMAN, first woman commissioner, District of Columbia.

Mrs. Frances C. Axtell, first woman chairman of the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, from thousands of Federal workers.
She has been tireless in an effort to obtain for the men and women who are employed by Uncle Sam an increased schedule of pay.
Conditions all over the country have been placed on a higher standard for the women employed in industry because Miss Mary Anderson, first woman director of the newly-created Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor, has been interested. Her investigations have been comprehensive and resulted in many important changes.
ALL ABOUT SOME OTHERS
Miss Kathryn Sellers is the first woman to be appointed judge of the juvenile court in the District of Columbia. Juvenile courts throughout the United States are looking to the one over which she presides as their model.
After Miss Mabel T. Boardman, first woman to be made Commissioner of the District of Columbia, was named, she busied herself in advocating a representation in Congress for the district. Problems of better playgrounds and school space have received her careful consideration.
When rents went skyrocketing and the housing problem became acute in Washington, Mrs. Clara Sears Taylor was named the first woman rent commissioner in the capital. Thousands of complaints and pleas have been made to her and hundreds of tactical decisions made over her signature.

SCENES LIFTED ON RUSS STAGE

exposure which we are going to make, Russia will "burn" the anti-business forces.

"We found the British delegates to be a large lot of taking a broad view of these matters. They have an amazing ignorance of general principles, as well as of social science, and their minds are fixed exclusively on petty things, like the organization of strikes, and they cannot rise to the consideration of great general principles and of profound philosophical truths which will yet change the face of the world. Nothing can ever be done for the proletariat by taking narrow views and dithering with small matters like output and wages. One must have a vast scheme in mind and be prepared to sweep away the whole social system in order to put in its place a new one. It is a waste of time and also a danger to patch up a ruinous house. Better tear down and dig up the very foundations, and start a new building."

Miss Pankhurst is almost the only English person who is under-

LENINE IS GIVEN

An astonishing impression is made by this coterie of desperate men, sitting in the palace of the czars, waiting impatiently for news of strikes, bloodshed and revolution from the outer world and gloating over it when it comes. It was like watching a convulsion of Russia in miniature. Lenin is a great admirer of Lenin, but he says:

"Sometimes I regret Lenin's activity as a Russian social reformer.
This is of less importance than his significance as a world revolutionary. He is not only a man on whose strong will history has laid a terrible task, plowing down to bedrock the variegated, shapeless, lazy and heap of human beings known as Russia.
His will is a tireless, battering ram, the stupendous blows of which shake the very foundations of the towering capitalist states to the west, and the loathsome and long tottering slave built despotisms to the east."
"For Lenin, Russia is merely material for an experiment that began on a world embracing scale. At first his thoughts filled me with pity for the Russian people, but after observing how the Russian revolution deepens, strengthens and organizes new forces capable of destroying the very foundations of the capitalist order. I find that even if my native country is doomed to be the object of his experiment, it is unjust to put the blame on this one man who is striving to transform the potential energies of the Russian working masses into kinetic, actual energy."

"When people accuse Lenin of being the author of the civil war and the terror I think of Lloyd George, with his oppression in Ireland and his song singing in Wales; of Clemenceau, most shameless of crones; of Woodrow Wilson, the most romanticist of democracy; of Socialists who voted for credits for the great European blood bath in 1914; of scientists who invented poison gas."

"I have often heard Lenin speak at meetings of workers in wonderfully simple words with a tongue of iron, with a logic as keen as a sword, but in his unyielding words I have never observed either coarse demagogy or the grainy ruse of the advertiser. He speaks always about the same things—about the necessity of destroying utterly the inequality of men and of ways to lead to this consummation."

"These truths sound sharp and unyielding in my mouth. It is always plain how invincibly he believes in them, and how calm his faith—a fanatic's faith, but a scientific fanatic's faith, not a metaphysical, or mystical, or romantic faith. It seems to me that the individual human hardly interests him at all. He thinks only of parties, and of masses of states. He has the experimenter's gift of insight and intuition and genius. He possesses a happy lucidity of mind, achieved only through hard and unrelenting labor. A Frenchman once asked me: 'Don't you think Lenin is a thinking guillotine?' In his mind, however, to hack the working of his mind to the blows of a hammer which, possessing the gift of sight, smashes utterly that which it is high time to destroy."

PANIC COMMUNIST
SEEN IN RUSSIA

"For the little bourgeoisie of all countries Lenin must, of course, appear as an Attila come to lay waste Rome. But just as ancient Rome deserved to fall, so do the crimes of this age merit the sweeping away of its world. This is a historical necessity. Nothing or nobody can longer prevent it."

"We hear wails about the preciousness of European civilization and the necessity of defending this valuable heritage against the onslaught of the new Huns; but such talk comes ill from the murderers who organized the great war and who are now perpetrating such atrocities as those in Ireland."

Gorky's whole defense of Lenin shows that the great Russian writer is quite carried away with Communist fanaticism.

PASTOR TELLS OF VISIT TO EUROPE

RICHMOND, Nov. 6.—The hall of St. Paul's church, San Pablo, was packed last night at the reception and welcome entertainment given in honor of Father Porta, who has just returned from Europe. Mrs. Lola Bernardi, the Monte Verde sisters, Miss Tomlin and Baby Fraser all participated in the musical program, which was followed by welcoming addresses by Father Ryan and Mr. Skehen.
Father Porta responded in an address in which he told of his experiences in Europe. He visited in Paris and all through Spain, Italy and Italy, gathering many interesting facts. He dwelt at length on the deplorable situation in France, stating that the great shortage of food there had caused an influx of Spaniards, conditions in Spain being most prosperous, and perhaps better than anywhere else in Europe.

Italy, he stated, was suffering from a great unrest in all classes and that it was hard to tell what was needed to set things rights again.

During his visit to Rome he granted an audience with the pope, which he obtained through Archbishop Hann. He was also present at the canonization of Joan of Arc, which he described in detail. St. Peter's cathedral was but half full at these ceremonies, but more than 50,000 persons were in attendance, he says.

5-Cent Carfare Fight On in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Whether Chicago is again to have 5-cent street car fare will be decided here next week.

The case, which is of interest to scores of cities where fares have been boosted, is being fought by Mayer William Hale Thompson, who brought suit for the city to enjoin the street car company on the ground that it broke its franchise by increasing its fares.

Thompson fought the recent political campaign on a 5-cent street car fare platform. The result gave him practically complete control of all elective offices here. Len Small, backed by Thompson, being elected governor of Illinois on the same platform.

Should Thompson win his case here, it is likely that Small will take steps to reduce increased fares in many Illinois cities.

RHEUMATISM—RELIEF

From Its Dreadful Pains and Aches, Stiffness, Soreness—

Is properly to be sought in a good blood medicine, because authorities say rheumatism is a blood disease; acid has entered the blood, settling in the muscles and joints. That's what makes the sharp, sudden, shot-like pains, causing you to jump and cringe in agony.

Hood's Sarsaparilla comprises remedies that every physician prescribes for rheumatism. Combined with other blood-purifying tonic and strength-building ingredients in a formula vastly superior in make-up and in curative power. It does give positive relief. Thousands say so.
So will you. For a fine laxative take

The VICTOR record WHISPERING

"would make a man with a wooden leg want to dance"

SHERMAN, CLAY & CO. take pleasure in inviting you to hear "Whispering," the dance sensation of the year, on a VICTOR record.

A small shipment for immediate release has just been received from the Victor Talking Machine Company
by express.

"Whispering" was written and composed in California, published in California, and played for this VICTOR record by Paul Whiteman's Ambasador Orchestra—itself originally a California organization.

As a fox-trot, "Whispering" has swept the country like wildfire.

As a record it is possibly the most perfect for dancing ever issued by the Victor Talking Machine Company.

The combination, "Whispering" on a VICTOR record, is so irresistible that one person, after hearing it played in our Victrola department, exclaimed:

"It would make a man with a wooden leg want to dance!"

Remember: You really haven't heard "Whispering" if you haven't heard it on this VICTOR record.

"Japanese Sandman," another huge dance hit, is on the reverse side. Price of this record, 85c.

POULTRY SHOW ENTRIES MANY

One of the features at the sixteenth annual show of the Alameda County Poultry Association will be the seven special exhibits of fancy poultry entered by poultry clubs on the Pacific coast. The show will be held in the Oakland Municipal Auditorium from November 21 to 23, inclusive.

The object of the special clubs is to promote interest in the breeding of certain fowls. There will be over 1000 birds entered by the seven clubs. The names of the clubs are Rhode Island Reds or America, California American Brown Leghorn, American Light Brahma, Silver Wyandotte Club of America, American Barred Plymouth Rock, American Cornish and American Orpington Club.

A. J. Hoffman, who is a member of the executive committee of the American Black Orpington Club, announced yesterday that his organization will have an exhibit over 200 birds. Among the exhibit will be fowls that have been awarded first prizes in shows held in many of the large eastern cities.

All entries in the show close on the night of November 19. Entry blanks may be secured from John J. Smith, general manager of the show, at 4829 Webster street, Oakland. Smith says that at the rate entries are being made the number will exceed last year's by a large margin.

Paint Protection is economy

A building painted with W. P. Fuller & Co.'s Paint is wrapped in a weathertight covering. Dwellings, barns and other structures, whether of wood, metal or concrete, should be preserved from decay and disintegration by the use of good Paint. A square yard of Paint coating upon a surface costs a few cents, yet it will beautify and protect dollars' worth of property for many years. Destructive elements are always at work, a little chip here, a little spot of decay somewhere else, and soon the building is an old building, and Paint, W. P. FULLER & CO.'S PAINT, would have prevented the destruction.

An important collection of rare volumes or books pertaining to California, Oregon, the Pacific coast and Hawaii from the library of Boutwell Dunlap, historian and bibliographer of San Francisco together with a massive jewel casket, entirely of California gold, will be auctioned tomorrow and Tuesday at the Anderson Galleries in New York, according to word received here.

WOMAN FINDS "PRISON ESCAPE"

BERKELEY, Nov. 6.—The principal in Berkeley's daring "prison escape" has been located.

A woman told of his whereabouts to the police this morning. With a ten-dollar bill in her hand Mrs. C. W. Frank representing a Berkeley studio of music, appeared at the police station.

Here's the bail for Harry Miner, explained Mrs. Frank. He's too scared to come himself. He thought he was going to be sent to prison for life. When he was brought to the police station so when he got a chance he just slipped out the door. He's locked himself in his room and won't see anyone.

Miner who resides at 1617 Broadway was arrested by a patrolman H. P. Lee for soliciting without a license for the studio with which Mrs. Frank is also associated. Mrs. Frank promised his appearance in court next Tuesday when his case comes to trial. Miner's jail break was discovered when his case was called in court on Thursday.

SCHOOL WEEK IS DECEMBER 5-11

School week will be observed throughout the nation December 5 to 11, at the request of the Commissioner of Education who has asked the governors and chief school officers of the states and territories to use the first full week in December for this purpose.

Steps will be taken to disseminate among the people accurate information in regard to conditions and needs of the schools, emphasize the importance of the value of education and create such interest as will result in better opportunities for education and larger appropriations for schools of all kinds and grades.

Advocates are asked to use the more services for emphasizing the importance of education, and it is suggested that during the week, chambers of commerce, patriotic and civic societies and other important organizations and associations devote one meeting to a discussion of the needs of education.

Oakland's Beginnings (No. 4) BY CHAS. G. REED.

The new town of Oakland was entirely without resources, but its bare beauty, with here and there a house nestled among the oak trees which were so close that they almost touched each other, from the bay to the lake and from the estuary to fourteenth street, its mild climate and productive soil soon drew from San Francisco to it people who made here a permanent home. The troubles caused by the squatters, the uncertainty of titles and protracted litigation which followed, greatly retarded its growth. It is safe to say that had Col. Fitch and his associates succeeded in their proposed purchase in 1850, the growth of the town would have been much greater.

Connection with San Francisco was at a very early date kept up by means of whale boats one of which the Proletarie, plied regularly as a ferry boat between the em-

Attractive Concert Program is Planned

In addition Moiseiwitsch will be heard in the "Don Juan" Fantasia of Modest Mussorgsky. The orchestral works will include the prelude to "Lohengrin" and Saint-Saens' symphonic poem, "Le Rouet d'Omphale."

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist.

Any breaking out of the skin, even dry, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthol-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ-destrory properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and clear eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worms.

It seldom fails to remove the tumor and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrasing eruptions. Menthol-Sulphur shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Menthol-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream. Advertisement.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weakened, then you suffer with dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad-Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. Advertisement.

Why Be Skinny?

It's Easy to Be Plump, Popular and Attractive

It's easy to be plump, popular and attractive instead of being thin, angular and scrawny. Almost invariably, thin people are due to weak nerves and consequent failure to assimilate your food. You may eat heartily, but the lack of nervous energy and impoverished blood you don't get the benefit from the food you eat. All of this can be remedied very quickly by taking with each meal a five-grain tablet of Blood-Iron Phosphate. This quickly enriches the blood and increases its oxygen carrying power, and in a remarkably short time the anorexia, thin, weak, nervous man or woman begins not only to put on flesh, but also begins to feel better. Sleep, appetite, strength and endurance are improved, dull eyes become bright, and, unless afflicted with some organic complaint, there is no reason why, if you take Blood-Iron Phosphate regularly, you should not soon look and feel much better and many years younger. Deposit $1.50 today with the Owl Drug Co. or any other druggist for enough Blood-Iron Phosphate for a three weeks' treatment. Use as directed and if at the end of three weeks you aren't delighted go back and get your money. Your druggist, a man you know, is authorized to give it to you. Advertisement.

Adler-i-ka Again!

"I could hardly eat anything and my strength was all gone. Since taking Adler-i-ka, I can eat three meals a day and feel like a new man." (Signed) Miss Carrie Lively.

Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing foul matter which poisons the system. Brings out all gases, relieving pressure on heart and other organs. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or your stomach. Removes a surprising amount of acid, the main matter which you never thought was in your system and which nothing else can dislodge. Tends to CURE constipation and prevent appendicitis. Adler-i-ka cures the indigestion, heartburn, gas, and stomach weakness. Osgood Bros.—Advertisement.

COUNTY HOSPITAL AIDS SOUGHT BY FEDERATION HEAD

Now the citizens of Oakland may help the county hospitals is outlined in a circular which has been issued by Kenneth Millican, president of the Alameda County Hospital Federation, looking out for the welfare of the infirm and aged. The circular, which has been distributed to their several hundred inmates. The hints for aid follow:

1. Provide pictures and ornaments for the hospital.
2. Provide a collection of clothes which will be cleaned, mended and made wearable in the hospital tailor shop, so that patients when being discharged may leave with a decent outfit and have some self-respect to enable them to take their part again in the community.
3. Establish a canteen on the grounds, in the new library building, where small articles of convenience may be purchased. An investment of not over $200 will be sufficient, and this sum will in time be paid back out of the earnings.
4. Procure new books for the library. Two members of the federation have pledged themselves to get 25 new books each for this important work.
5. Raise a small fund of $15 or $20 to purchase materials for basket weaving, crocheting, knitting, tatting and other hundred light occupations. The products can be sold and this fund repaid to the donors.
6. Procure a portable moving picture machine. There are many bed-ridden patients in the hospital who can never get to the chapel building to see the films. They need diversion more than the ambulant patient. Possibly $150 will do this.
7. Secure professional and amateur talent to visit the hospital in automobiles which the federation will furnish on Thursday evenings for a little recreation for the patients in the chapel.
8. A conference of men and women interested in this form of social service will meet under the auspices of the County Hospital Federation to discuss the plan of action in the city hall courtroom, second floor, Fifteenth-street entrance.

MISS EDITH OWEN HAYWARD BRIDE

HAYWARD, Nov. 6.—The wedding of Miss Edith Owen to Harry A. Schuyler on October 30 at high noon was one of the most interesting events of the season. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. M. Owen, of Quality ranch on the El Estero road. There were thirty-one guests present, coming from various sections of the State. Rev. F. Dent Naylor of Sebastopol, for many years pastor of the church attended by the family, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, attended only by her mother, approached the wedding bower as the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Leola Foster. She was met by the bridegroom and the minister. After the ceremony all repaired to the dining-room, where dinner was served.

In the afternoon they left on their honeymoon trip by motor, with their final destination as Whittier, near Los Angeles, where they will be at home to their friends after December 1.

While waiting for the advent of the bride at the ceremony, Miss Gertrude Freitag sang "Beloved, It is Morn."

The bride is a popular young Hayward woman, whose patriotic nature was shown during the World's War, when she left her studies at the University of California and was accepted for training as an army nurse. She was sent to Camp Kearney and on the signing of the armistice she was transferred to the Letterman Hospital for the completion of her training. In due time she was honorably discharged by the government and then she continued her studies, recently graduating with high honors from Mills College.

Mr. Schuyler is a native of Michigan, a descendant of the typical old Holland stock. He is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural college, from where he was called to assume management of the Leffingwell ranch near Whittier. This is looked upon as one of the most advanced and modern lemon groves in Southern California.

STUDENTS HOLD PARTY.

A number of high school students motored to Mt. Eden Friday night and surprised Miss Marie Smith on her birthday. The evening was spent in dancing, games and music. The guests were Misses Marie Smith, Ruth Stewart, Helen Henningsen, Mollie Oliver, Alice Gading, Clara Manon, Dorothy Johnson, Lena Oliver, Ruth Anderson and Edith Estelle Hunter, also Jack Henningsen, Carl Westlund, James Stewart, Arthur Westlund, James Henningsen, Orville Hanko, Clarence Bevor, Alvin Schaefer, Harold Parks, Harold Smith.

HAYWARD PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Eastbrook of Seima, and Mrs. E. W. Thurman, of San Francisco, were Hayward visitors this week.

Chas. Willford has returned to Hayward to make his home with his family, having accepted a position with the firm of Dunn, Carrison & Haden of San Francisco.

Mrs. Blumme Hainer will celebrate her 52d birthday tomorrow. Mrs. Hainer is a sister to the late Mrs. Rachel Hayward.

Mrs. F. Diekhoff, nee Marion Stevenson, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. H. Kelsey, of Castro street, the past two weeks, departed this week for Portland, Ore., where she will join her husband. Mrs. Diekhoff will return to Hayward in about three weeks to remain until after the first of this year.

Miss Emma Johns, aunt to Mrs. Philip Moddy, who is visiting her niece in San Francisco, came to Hayward Tuesday to vote.

Oakland Delegation Off To Chico With Bags of Very Weighty Speeches

Representatives of the Oakland city administration, headed by Mayor Layne, were to leave today and tomorrow mornings for Chico where, for four days beginning tomorrow, they will busy themselves at the sessions of the twenty-second annual convention of the League of Municipalities and its subsidiary meetings.

The Oaklanders will be accompanied by delegations from Alameda, Berkeley, Richmond and other East Bay points, and the officials will carry in their portmanteaus sheaves of typed and penciled papers bearing the notes of speeches they are prepared to make.

At Chico they will merge with representatives of 235 other towns and cities of the state in one of the most imposing municipal gatherings ever held in California. Registration will be at the Normal School in Chico, after which the badges distributed will be the open sesame to the convention and to the city's hospitality.

SESSION OPENS TOMORROW.

The initial session will be held in the auditorium of the Normal School at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when William F. Butcher, president of the league, will speak. The delegates will then listen to a discussion of city planning and industrial development by Guy W. Hayler, an international expert. Probably not less interesting will be the talk of Carol Aronovitch who has looked into the housing famine and is prepared to offer suggestions on the perplexing problem of its remedy.

Tuesday morning is the time set for talks by City Attorney Hagan of Oakland and Mayor Bartlett of Berkeley. Bartlett is going to discuss street widening and condemnation proceedings while the Oakland counsel is to talk about municipal civil service. This subject was put on the program in connection with the Oakland effort to alter the civil service code which lost so heavily Tuesday and Hagan will discuss the plan in the light of his own espousal of the changes and their signal defeat.

RECORD OF PROGRESS.

City managing will have its inning Tuesday afternoon and City Manager Hewes of Alameda, out of the fullness of his experience, is going to describe Alameda's plan of keeping a photographic record of her progress. It is Hewes' and the Alameda idea that pictures of the "before and after" variety, presented for a few years, will have a strong stimulating effect if preserved and exhibited on screens a few years hence.

Lastday representatives at the same session are going to have a chance to attack the ever-present automobile parking problem and how, when and where to establish street grades and general symposiums. Oakland's new parking ordinance will be found at one of the centers of speculation.

While this general meeting is going on, another for city attorneys will be gathered in another room of the Normal and Frank V. Counah, who is the solicitor for Berkeley, will direct affairs while A. T. Brubaker, counsel for Pittsburg, and others, give voice to their burning thoughts.

DUCK DINNER, TOO.

There will be few absent when at 6 o'clock in the evening the doors of the Chico armory are thrown upon what the program describes as a "grand duck dinner," given by the citizens of Chico. The delegates will settle back in their seats after the at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for the general session while taxes and financing are peered into. At an auxiliary meeting the city attorneys will have it out with building codes and street improvement laws.

Between 7 and 8 p. m. there will be a concert in a theater and then more discussion. One of the most interesting events of this meeting will be an address on public utilities and municipal control when W. J. Creek, who is president of the Pacific Water company and the Pacific Gas & Electric, appears on the platform.

The concluding session will be held on Thursday morning. There will be short discussions and election of officers.

Concurrent with the general league meeting will be a meeting of the department of clerks and auditors and assessors. On the program for the department are Frank C. Merritt, deputy clerk of Oakland, and G. D. Hildreth, auditor at Vallejo.

Other joint sessions which are to be held include the annual conference of state, county and city health officers which will continue throughout the major meeting and on Wednesday will comprise a joint session with dairy and milk inspectors. Among other scheduled addresses to help in enlightening the delegates are Dr. R. W. Browning of Hayward, Dr. W. H. Johnson, director of the bureau of contagious diseases, Berkeley, and Prof. W. B. Herms of the University of California.

The dairy and milk inspectors in their private sessions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will have programs on which C. C. Wenz, Oakland veterinarian; C. K. Cooke, Berkeley veterinarian; Prof. M. D. Jaffe and Prof. C. L. Roadhouse of the University of California, and Mrs. E. W. Bailey, state chairman of child welfare of the California Federation of Women's Clubs will speak.

The dairy inspectors also will make field trips around Chico to inspect clinical demonstrations.

"URIC ACID"

How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I suffered for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago," writes J. R. Arveland. "Like many others, I spent more freely for so-called 'cures' and I have had about 'Uric Acid' until I could eat no meat. I could not sleep nights and was without pain; my hands were so stiff and cold I could not hold a pen. But now, after I have taken 'Uric Acid' for a few days, I can walk with ease and write all day with comfort. I hope all who suffer with rheumatism are so lucky as I am."

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Mr. Arveland is one of the best known and most respected men in the city. He is a native of the old "Uric Acid" country. He is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural college, from where he was called to assume management of the Leffingwell ranch near Whittier. This is looked upon as one of the most advanced and modern lemon groves in Southern California.

A number of affairs are planned for the newly-weds as soon as their household is thoroughly established.

Engagement Told Of Eastern Girl At Berkeley Tea

The betrothal, announcement, of Miss Jean McIntosh Waste, daughter of Judge and Mrs. William H. Waste of Judge and Mrs. William H. Waste to Louis A. Ward, was one of the most interesting developments of an epochal week.

The news was made known by cards and at a smart tea where Miss Harriet Rinder was hostess.

Miss Waste is an exceptionally clever girl, the possessor of a voice that has often been heard in recitation. She is a member of the Alpha chapter of the Phi Kappa Psi sorority, taking her degree with the class of '21.

Mr. Ward has recently returned to Berkeley after having been graduated from the Virginia Military Institute.

Guests at the tea were the Messdames J. H. Rinder, William H. Waste, Charles E. Tinkham, Elsie Hall, H. C. Donbels, Jr., Florio Wayne Stewart, Philip Elmore Gier and James H. Todd Jr.

Seventy-five guests will assemble for the affair, many of whom are friends of the matron, who has made her home in Portland for some time.

By a happy coincidence, the day is the birthday of Millard J. Layman, father of the hostess, in commemoration of which a dinner is to be given at the club, with thirty guests. That there may be a full quota of the family at the party, Mrs. Lester Frank Rice and Mrs. Harry Hamilton came down from Sacramento.

A charming setting was the James de Fremery home in Berkeley on Tuesday for the dance whereat Miss Dorothy Cavston was the motif.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. de Fremery were Miss Virginia Smith, Miss Laura Miller, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hommedieu and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller.

Among the guests were the MISSSES: Elizabeth Meyer, Josephine Meyer, Alberta Clark, Dorothy Salisbury, Elizabeth Bruner, Marjorie Childs, (below) Dorela Remmer and Dorothy Howe.

CLIFT LUNCHEON

One of the interesting luncheon gatherings of the week was that assembled on Thursday by Miss Jean Clift Seales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mailler Seales at the Clift in San Francisco for twenty-four of the younger matrons and belles from both sides of the bay. Those who were seated about the table were:

PEBBLE BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Walker are the newest recruits to establish a "log cabin" at Pebble Beach, their place to be alongside the Forsterman place. These log cabins are very small, resembling the cabins of early historical associations. Indeed, they assume the proportions—interiorly if not in the external—of the log houses, with all their luxuries and comforts.

Among the recent recruits to the colony are Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hill, in truth have come into possession of a little log cabin, its chief charm its view and the woodland about it.

Sororities Hold Receptions at Chapter Houses

The campus is a busy place these early November days, "twixt giving greetings to seniors and bidding welcome to freshmen."

The Delta Delta Delta sorority assembled at the home of Miss Alice Porterfield in Berkeley on Monday, to do honor to the grave and reverend seniors, members of the "three" attending the tea with the same enthusiasm as the current classes.

The Delta Gamma sorority was another group that varied the monotony of work with a bit of play. On Friday night, for which the Berkeley Tennis Club who made gay with masses of daffodils and greens.

Several dinners preceded the dance, many groups assembling at the Berkeley Inn and at the White-cott for the preliminary affairs. A few small dinners were given at the Hotel Oakland—Dutch treat affairs, mostly.

The personnel of the club, whose assemblies will illuminate the spring months are the Messrs and Mesdames Alberto Barrios, Joseph Bemer, Ernest C. Brown, Clarence Burtschell, Arthur L. Cunningham, Harold P. Danforth, Francis Frost, Philip Elmer, Glen Waldron, A. Gregory, Albert G. Heunisch, H. G. Hills, C. P. Hale, Kenneth C. Jester, Carl B. Johnson, Western Logan, Frederick P. Another wedding to illuminate the social horizon of the month is that of Miss Bernice Eardley, who will wed Edgar Clinton Persell on Wednesday, the service to take place at the Methodist Episcopal church in Berkeley.

Interesting group—the Messrs Mandana Parsons, Marion Phillips, Laura Hanlon and Gertrude Matthew.

COOGAN WEDDING

Quite the outstanding affair of the month is the wedding of Miss Helen Coogan and Robert Gemmal Adams—set for the 24th.

Both families are representative of the civic and social life of the Eastbay, with wide ramifications on the other side of the blue water.

Attending the bride will be Miss Elva Churchill and her two little nieces—Jane Donovan daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donovan (May Coogan) and little Kathleen Coogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Coogan of Alameda will be the flower maidens. Arthur Adams will serve his brother. One hundred guests from both sides of the bay are to attend the service that will be read at the Timothy Christian Church Coogan home—always a hospitable rendezvous for interesting affairs.

A dock of affairs have been given for the bride-elect since the betrothal announcement. On the 11th, Miss Laura Curry on a visit from the Sacramento Valley, will be a tea hostess at the Claremont Country Club in honor of the bride-elect.

Saturday afternoon Miss Margaret Martin entertained at a shower and tea at the attractive new home of her cousin Mrs. Arthur P. McMillan street, in honor of Mrs. Katherine Lovell of San Francisco the fiancée of Arthur Howard Martin brother of the hostess.

Miss Martin was assisted by a group of her sorority sisters—members of the Alpha Xi Delta—and several out-of-town friends. They were

BRONSON-EIMER

Two hundred and fifty invitations have been received for the marriage of Miss Marjorie Bronson and Austin Eimer, the ceremony to be read in Plymouth Congregational church, Wednesday evening, November 17, followed by a reception for the bride and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bronson in Piedmont.

A bit of sentiment attaches to the ceremony—the bride party will con-

VISITOR BETROTHED

The tea given by Mrs. George A. Hall and Mrs. Paul de Fremery at the James de Fremery home in Berkeley on Thursday was the medium for the announcement of the betrothal of Paul M. Kydd son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hall and Miss Marjorie Kydd of New York in whose honor the affair was planned.

The de Fremery home was an ode for the tea, a profusion of shaggy chrysanthemums in gold and russet adorning the living rooms.

Miss Kydd is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kydd of New York and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hall and a graduate of Columbia University, with a brilliant record, and plans to take a post-graduate course at U. C. at a favorable time.

Her fiancé, who for several years has been in business in New York is the senior partner of one of the large shipping firms. He formerly made his home in Oakland when he attended the University of California Agricultural school at Davis. The wedding is planned for the spring.

In the receiving party were the Mesdames E. W. Parr James de Fremery, Ross Mahon, Frank Moller, Welcome E. Fies, Anne Holm, James L. Hommedieu, James Hamilton Todd Jr., Seth Talcott, Wellington Switzer, and Misses Dorothy Cavston and Laura Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dimsore were hosts on Tuesday evening at a dinner at the Fairmont Hotel, their guests being a group of the young friends of their two sons, Webb and Thomas Dimsore. Among those who enjoyed the affair were the

FOR BRIDE

To welcome Hans Peter Faye Jr. and his bride—Miss Charlotte Eaton of Yonkers-on-the-Hudson—whose wedding was a brilliant affair early in October, Mr. and Mrs. Faye will be hosts at one of the largest receptions of the winter—three hundred guests having been bidden to meet the interesting young folk who are to become good California boys after the manner of the elder Fayes who have established themselves in a charming home in Berkeley.

Mr. Faye is a graduate of old Eli, having taken his degree last year. His bride is a Vassar girl of charming personality, with many associations from college about the bay.

The interesting young people will be presented to their new friends on November 15.

Complimenting Mrs. Sidney Downs, who with Mr. Downs returned to California recently following a six-months' tour of the Orient, Mrs. Eleanor Crosby presided as hostess on Thursday at a tea in the Claremont Assembly Hall.

And last night the Ernest Tanners were hosts in their honor, asking over several score of guests to meet the returned wanderers.

Major and Mrs. Douglas King of London, at the St. Francis on their trip around the world, will sail on Wednesday on the Matsushima for Honolulu. Major and Mrs. King were hosts at a dinner party on Saturday evening and in the party were

Women of Alameda County and Their Work

Women to Continue Fight For Property Law Change

By EDNA B. KINARD

According to the announcement of the leaders in the Women's Legislative Council of California, the fight to change the community property laws of the state is not finished. With a State Legislature no longer away than the new year, and two months in which to rally forces and organize remaining, the feminine citizens have pledged themselves to change the statutes under which women have lived for more than sixty years. By that very token they are emphatic in asserting that it is high time development was evident. Miss Gail Laughlin, Mrs. Albert E. Carter, state community property campaign chairman for the Women's Legislative Council; Mrs. Frank G. Law, president of the California Civic League and campaign chairman of Alameda county; Miss Frances Wilson, deputy district attorney of Alameda county; Mrs. Bessie Wood, treasurer of the Women's Legislative Council; Mrs. Martha Lewis, among the local leaders who have declared to win for the wife her share in community property. To their number is added a strong contingent from Southern California headed by Mrs. A. J. Lawton, president of the Women's Legislative Council; Dr. Harvey Clark of Riverside; Dr. Jessie Russell of Glendale and many others whose names are familiar in the woman movement. "We are determined to have new community property laws in this state," declares Mrs. Carter. "Women will not be satisfied until the economic independence of the wife is legally recognized."

Club Plans for Children's Day

Children and grandchildren are to be honored tomorrow by Town and Gown club, which has planned a "Children's Day" to inaugurate the Thanksgiving month. Mrs. Ralph Phelps is chairman of the program, assisted by Mrs. Fletcher Ames, Mrs. Dudley Baird, Mrs. Philip Boone, Mrs. E. Bradford Bumstead, Mrs. T. Arthur Rickard, Mrs. Frank Stringham, Mrs. Rudolph Ver Meer.

Scandinavian literature is being studied by the book section which meets on Tuesday. Christmas plans are busy in the Berkeley clubwomen, a big box of Yuletide remembrances going overseas to the French orphans and many a new crisp garment finding its way into the storeroom of the local chapter of the Needlework Guild of America for the little folks at home.

Robert Schumann and Stephen Heller are inspiring the program which the music section of Rockridge Women's Club has announced for Wednesday afternoon. Contributing the numbers will be Mrs. E. J. Thompson, Mrs. Robert L. Gunn, Mrs. M. C. Holman, Mrs. G. E. Hitchcock, Mrs. W. P. L'Honnemieu.

Getting ready to make some one happy with warm, snug garments is the task of the social service sewing section, whose members gather all day on Thursday to dispatch their kindly task.

Adelphian Club divides its interest this week between the third lecture in the series, which Aline Barrett Greenwood is offering on current events and the civic section, both meetings named for Wednesday. The advisory board meets on Friday.

The card section of the Twentieth Century Club announces the November meeting for Thursday afternoon with a promise of a goodly company. For be it known that while women are gladly devoting themselves to the serious things of life, they are not in any way overlooking its lighter side. Mrs. W. C. L. Board is curator of this phase of club life, which was introduced into the Berkeley Club before the close of the last season.

Current Events, which have happened thick and fast during the past month, will bring the members and their guests together on Tuesday at an interesting lecture to be given by Mrs. Aline Barrett Greenwood. Twentieth Century Club has announced a theater party for Tuesday evening, November 20, with Mrs. Louis W. Jefferson the chairman.

Navy League Knits for All Seamen

War never did end the demand for sweaters, socks, scarfs or helmets, carefully knitted by clever hands. For ships still go through icy seas and men still need comfort. War days emphasized the need because it was the boys of all the mothers who were sailing away; but now that peace has come some of these same mothers have not forgotten and some of the sons of other mothers are still to go protected and comforted and kept warm.

The woman's auxiliary of the Navy League of Alameda county has the distinction of being the only organization of its kind in California. Its members still knit, still send garments to the lads who might suffer, still perform the kindly task. Only a few days ago they sent to the Seaman's Institute in San Francisco for placement where most needed 75 pairs of socks, 4 caps and 2 helmets. Awaiting the winter contingent are 30 additional sweaters and nimble fingers which are pledged not only to fashion more but to use the wool still on hand in scarfs meeting in wrinkles for the boys in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco.

Knitting is not, however, the entire task of this gallant band of friends to navy lads. There is just one place in the down town district of San Francisco where a sailor newly come to port may find a safe and cordial welcome. It is the Seaman's Institute in Clay street, a non-sectarian effort to give the boys a bit of genuine hospitality and take them away from their desolate waterfront hotel rooms and pick up companions. War plunged the Institute into debt. The club rooms crew shabby, a portable lights, paint, books, games were needed.

When the Navy League women discovered this they went into their treasury for $200 and helped out valiantly. They turned their attention to the Hut at the U. S. Marine Hospital. A 35x50 foot clubhouse, with couches, rockers, desks, books, piano, pool to interest the convalescents, there was no free writing paper. Stationery to supply the men for two years was immediately provided by the Alameda county women.

CARNIVAL NOV. 30. And now again they have come to the rescue of the Seaman's Institute for they have promised to provide the souvenir programs for the carnival entertainment which will be staged in the Civic Auditorium of San Francisco on November 30. It is a goodly investment. To assure their part in it, the board of directors last week arranged for a benefit tea to be given on Monday, November 15, asking all their friends and friends of all sorts to receive the day. Tea and readings, cake and tea, is the program which has been announced. Mrs. Leigh Richmond Smith is regent of the navy league chapter. Among the leaders are Mrs. Fredrick Samuels, chairman of entertainment; Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Weatherbee and many others of social prominence, who will be in the receiving line at the tea.

"The Voices," from the pen of Mrs. I. Lowenberg of San Francisco, the special subject of which the Pacific Coast Women's Trust Association will give heed tomorrow. Mrs. Lowenberg will be the guest of honor at the November reception, which will take place in the Seamen's Club building, 1740 Washington street. She will offer the introduction to the program. The numbers follow:

Vocal solos—
(a) Ecstasy—Mrs. C. E. Keen.
Mrs. Bern. Thomas at the piano.
Reading of "Panacea" from "The Voices."
(By request of the author.)
Mrs. Ina Bradstreet Weston.
Excerpts from the romance, "The Voices."
Mrs. H. Morrison Grouse.
(Rocky Sharpe.)
"Voices," Mrs. Mary E. Hart of Alaska.
Piano solos—
(a) My Faithful Heart Rejoice.
(b) Romance—Mrs. Ina Bradstreet Weston.
(c) Concert Etude—Mrs. Moskowsky.
(d) The Art of Verse—Mrs. Nellie Strong Stevenson.
(e) My Experience in the American Library of Paris.
(f) Mrs. Frederick Potter.
(g) "American" tribute to "The Voices."

Verse writers in the poetry section of the California Writers will gather tomorrow night with the chairman, Claudius Thayer, at Hotel Claremont. Interest in the art of verse writing has been deepened through the monthly contest in which section members engage.

Congress of Mothers Meets In S. F. Nov. 18

San Francisco will be the mecca for 500 members of the second district, California Congress of Mothers, on Thursday, Nov. 18, when the annual reciprocity luncheon is the signal to assemble in the one merrymaking of the entire year. Speakers are being chosen for the program on their ability to say something worth while and to know when they have reached a proper terminal. Music and reading will supplement the brisk, brief program being arranged. San Francisco, federation is looking out over the decorations. Adjournment will be taken in full time to permit the Santa Rosa, Petaluma and out-of-town guests to meet their trains.

Scottish Rite Temple will stage the brilliant function whose detail is being arranged by Mrs. Edward Morgan Jones, past president of Oakland Federation. Mrs. H. C. Tully, president, has called a local meeting for 10 a. m. to be followed by a reception at 11:30 a. m.

This delightful prelude to the feast will be in compliment to the Mrs. Harry Ewing of San Jose, president of the California Congress of Mothers, who will be a guest of honor throughout the day. Promptly at 12:30 a. m. the procession of congress leaders and those to be particularly honored will be formed to enter the beautifully appointed luncheon rooms. Mrs. Harry J. Ewing of San Jose, president, and the officers and department chairmen who make up the personnel of the State Board of the California Congress of Mothers, will go to Berkeley on Tuesday for the November conference. They will be the guests of the Berkeley Federation of Mothers' Clubs at Hotel Shattuck. Oakland and Berkeley mothers will be honored at a reception which is announced for the later hour.

With a roster materially lengthened and with a large coterie of women making their debut into club affairs, the Oakland Club has set aside Wednesday for a reception which will particularly honor these newcomers. For program there will be a series of numbers contributed by the Paul Ash trio and by Miss Leona Merchant and Miss Inez Merchant. Mrs. Robert Lewis Hill will be the accompanist. Mrs. M. A. Smyth will be chairman.

Mrs. M. A. Smyth will be chairman of the day. Mrs. Charles L. Tabor, president, will be assisted in the receiving line by the board of directors: Mrs. Helen Kidd, Mrs. Robert Lewis Hill, Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, Mrs. George Coolidge, Mrs. T. Kimble, Mrs. Frank Yates, Mrs. John Ronald, Mrs. P. R. Chadwick, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. Rolla Fuller, Mrs. J. D. Keyes, Mrs. E. F. Merchant, Mrs. M. A. Center to Discuss Consolidation

Why a consolidated city and county government? Why not a consolidated city and county government? Those are the questions which Oakland Center, California Civic League, will propound Friday afternoon at the initial program of the month at Hotel Oakland. While citizens have been giving much thought to a new scheme for administering public affairs, the women for the most part have left its study alone until after election should have given them time to devote a proper attention to the issue. That time has arrived. The subject is to be exhaustively discussed by experts who propose and

PRETENDING NOT TO SEE.
Sometimes at the table, when he gets misbehavin', then Mother calls across to me:
"Look at him, now! Don't you see how he's doin' that?" I say:
"Make him sit up in his chair.
Don't you see the messy way that he's eatin'?" An' I say:
"No. He seems all right just now.
What's he doin' anyhow?"

Mother placed him there by me.
An' she thinks I ought to see.
Everything that's wrong, he does,
An' correct him, just becuz
there will come a time some day
When he musn't act that way.
But I can't be all along
Scoldin' him for doin' wrong.
So if something goes astray,
I jus' look the other way.

Mother tells me now an' then
I'm the easiest o' men,
An' in dealin' with the lad
I will never see the bad.
I will never see the bad
That he does, an' I suppose Mother's right for Mother knows;
But I'd hate to feel that I'm Here to scold him all the time.
Little faults might spoil the day,
So I look the other way.

Look the other way an' try
Not to let him catch my eye.
Knowin' all the time that he Doesn't mean so bad to be.
Knowin', too, that now an' then
I am not the best o' men;
Hopin', too, the times I fail
That the Father of us all,
Lovin', watchin' over me,
Will pretend He doesn't see.

Spirit Juggler
(These remarkable revelations are written by Miss Molly Wynter, the famous Medium in the Mask, whose amazing seances set all London talking. Miss Wynter tells exactly how the effects were produced, which seemed so baffling, and in this chapter she lets readers into the secret of some of her weirdest mysteries.)

By Miss Molly Wynter,
(The World-Famous Medium)
I was performing this experiment at a doctor's house one evening when a strange thing occurred. The pendulum was trying to operate behaved curiously, and the wrong one began moving. For a few moments I was puzzled, and then it dawned on me that some one else in the circle knew the truth. I was trying to spoil its success by swinging the wrong lead.

I glanced round the table and tried to gain inspiration from the faces of the sitters. I suspected the doctor, because he had a quizzical expression on his features, and was gazing intently at the string that was working me. Instead of looking at the one that should have been answering questions. The doctor was sitting on the opposite side to myself, and I thought the best thing to do was to retaliate by stopping the recalcitrant pendulum. Consequently I left my string alone and applied pressure to the table when the pendulum swung in my direction and removed, the pressure as the string took the opposite course.

It will be understood that what I did negated the doctor's will, and the pendulum was trying to operate came to a standstill. It was now the turn of my silent opponent to be nonplussed. The doctor confirmed my suspicion that he was the culprit by looking up at me inquiringly. I assumed my best society smile and remarked to him—"I think it is a case of my strings suffering from the same complaint."

He smiled and replied: "Evidently my treatment is unnecessary, may we try yours?"

Vibrations Tangled Up
I then turned my attention to the first string and got along swimmingly.

After the seance the doctor apologized for what he termed "an interesting" of vibrations. A friend had told him of my pendulum trick, and he had puzzled it out for himself and then endeavored to give me a professional opinion in order to put his theory to the test. His vibrations were stronger than mine, consequently his strings oscillated more quickly than the one I tried to influence.

Recalling some of my private engagements brings me a number of mixed impressions. Ostensibly I have been looking at the spiritualistic entertainments at many places, when the real reason of my engagement has been that my services were required in another capacity altogether.

Last Christmas one of the big London firms that send entertainers to private functions all over the country asked me to give a small town in Lincolnshire to give two performances at a rectory. The entertainments were to be given on successive days, and I was to be the guest of an important clergyman. It seemed an unusual engagement for a bogus spirit medium, but the fee offered was tempting, so I packed up my traps and went.

My audience at the first performance consisted only of the clergyman! I explained to him that I expected sufficient people would have been present to form a circle, but he said my important seance would take place next day, and all he wished me to do on the present occasion was to give him some idea of the nature of my performance.

I had entertained my solitary sifter for about twenty minutes when he stopped me.

A Strange Request
"That will be ample for tonight, Miss Wynter; now I have a strange request to make."

He said this solemnly. And for the life of me I could not imagine what was coming next. If I had had a million guesses I should have been no nearer to a solution of the secret than I am now. I said to myself that I should never have guessed the nature of the request that a clergyman was to put before me.

The two weeks' test will not have cost you one cent nor placed you under any obligation.

Play as You Pay—Very Easy Terms

If, after two weeks' trial, you are fully satisfied with the SILVERTONE and desire to keep it, simply add the price of the records you have selected to the price of the phonograph and send us this amount in equal monthly payments until the total is paid. The amount of the monthly payment on each instrument is shown under the illustrations.

The records you order with the SILVERTONE do not increase the amount of monthly payment. The price of the records is simply added to the price of the phonograph and the whole amount paid at the monthly rate quoted under the illustration of the instrument you select.

Compare our terms with those offered on any other phonograph of the same high quality. The small monthly payment required on even the highest priced models makes it easy for you to own a really fine instrument without incurring a heavy financial burden. You can enjoy your phonograph to the utmost while paying for it.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—The outstanding feature of San Francisco's vote was its startling failure to come up to expectations on the senatorship. The friends of Phelan figured on his coming out with 25,000 majority, which was believed to be sufficient to overcome the adverse majorities throughout the State. But nobody figured on such a blizzard as took place. When a party's head has a plurality approximating 390,000, everybody on the ticket gets pulled through, of course. The last unofficial reports give Shortridge a plurality approximating 78,000. There were no other surprises, though the vote on the twenty State and the twenty-eight municipal measures develops interest when analyzed. The vote was very decisive in favor of the alien land law and against the Harris bill, and while it went against the increase of salaries of the supreme and appellate justices, $6,577 to $9,459, it favored the increase of policeman's salaries, $1,899 to $1,719, and firemen's salaries, 103,282 to 29,760. The reorganization of the schools was carried, 68,550 to 66,554. This is notable because it was a fight on Superintendent Roncivieri, who was supported by the school department and the municipal administration, or at least that division of it subservient to the mayor. The vote was against excluding Hetch Hetchy bonds from those which are to be counted in the fifteen percent of assessed valuation which the city may issue, but in favor of a maximum interest of 5½ percent on municipal bonds, and strongly in favor of the purchase of public utilities, which has particular application to the United Railroads. The ordinance whose effect will be to pass the municipal organizer's job around and limiting expenditure on account of salary to $5000, was carried, though the vote was close—61,785 to 58,185. On the whole it is concluded that considerable attention was paid to the forty-eight legislative provisions on the ballot, contrary to expectation.

Rumors as to Rowell

Stories center around the sale of the Fresno Republican and its late owner and editor, as they always developed a powerful personality and the enterprise with which he has been prominently identified. A rumor was started that Mr. Rowell had bought the San Francisco Chronicle. A 'phone inquiry brought a vehement reply to the effect that not only had Mr. DeYoung not sold the Chronicle to Mr. Rowell, but that if he was willing to sell it, it would never be to the Progressive leader, disclosing the fact that the proprietor of the Chronicle is indifferently enamored of the former editor of the Republican. Another rumor was to the effect that Mr. Rowell is to become one of Mr. Hearst's editors. This had not sufficient probability on its face to warrant following up. Mr. Rowell, having realized something above half a million from the sale of his newspaper, is not in need of a mere job, which an editorship under Mr. Hearst would be. Those who know him would not believe he would undertake editorial work that would hamper him in expressing his own ideas. Another interesting story relates to the buying end of the transaction. It is to the effect that an uncle of the Osborns owned an island in the Detroit river, which he recently sold to Henry Ford, not unknown in the automobile world, and thereby came into possession of unexpected money which he turned over to the boys for the acquisition of the Fresno newspaper. Yet another is that Mr. Rowell owned three shares less than a majority of stock in the company that owned the Republican, though a majority of the shares were in the family, his sisters owning blocks. Still another is that his home in Fresno is up for sale, and that he is going to make his home in Berkeley, there to rest and read for a time prior to setting out for a comprehensive tour of the Orient. This latter is in a way confirmed by his addressing a Berkeley audience lately as fellow-townsmen.

On Hand For the Job

The election of Police Judge Fitzpatrick to the Superior bench was considered so undoubted that long before it was made certain by the balloting of Tuesday aspirants for the place that would be vacated were in the field. Among them was Harry McKenzie, Lawyer Phillips and Leo Friedman. Undoubtedly there will be others when the fact is clear, and every one of the six hundred and more lawyers realize it, for a police judgeship is not at all an onerous job. Not to be able any who have been or are on that bench, it doesn't require as high-class legal standing as a position on the Superior bench, nor such digging in the matter of decisions. And it is considered an ideal stepping-stone to the higher job, as witness the many who have graduated from it to the latter.

A Municipal Harbor Board

Some of the proposed legislative amendments with which the ballot was loaded were strikingly in the nature of trash. This was particularly true of Amendment 32 of the city charter, providing for the appointment of a municipal harbor board when there is no municipal harbor. The amendment is to provide against the emergency that would exist in the event that the State should relinquish control of the harbor. There is no sign or probability of the State doing this. Shippers and shipping companies are up in arms against the proposition. They represent and advertise that they are entirely satisfied with the management of the harbor as it is managed under the State commission, and while there has been no public expression to that effect, enough has been said and intimated privately to justify the understanding that the mere possibility of the harbor going under city control is alarming to any who have interest in shipping. City politicians have always had a wistful eye on the harbor control, with its more than six hundred jobs to give out, and the opportunities it presents to bring big interests to time in certain emergencies.

City Front Passenger Travel

The North Central Improvement Association in its monthly report takes up the matter of passenger transportation along the water front. It has filed with the State Harbor Commission a communication reciting the fact that Senate Bill No. 152 was passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor May 17, 1917, which authorized the Board of Harbor Commissioners to maintain passenger service along the waterfront; that subsequent to the passage of this Act the Improvement Association secured the passage of a resolution by the Board of Supervisors to the effect that "bus service would be established as soon as a smooth pavement was laid down. But the city engineer advised against a bus service. The engineer's report was to the effect that he had gone over the route and found the pavement in poor condition for an automobile bus service. A considerable portion of the roadway has a smooth surface, but there are stretches where buses would have to run over basalt blocks. This would be unpleasant to ride over, and hard on equipment. From Powell to Channel street is a distance approximately of 13,900 feet. It is claimed by President McCallum of the Harbor Board that 12,000 feet of this is smooth, and only 1900 feet in basalt blocks. This seems to answer the objection of the city engineer. However, getting along the two and two-thirds miles of waterfront is a problem still unsolved at least by a popular and reasonably cheap conveyance.

The Booze Scandal Mist

Because of the maze and mist that envelop the booze scandal investigation it is difficult to come to a satisfactory conclusion as to the guilt or innocence of those involved and accused. A central figure, Loria Handley, former Prohibition Director, is dead, and even the manner of his death, which was violent, has not been determined beyond question. Mrs. Warburton, his successor, has been deposed and accused. For one thing, it is cited that she accepted taxi accommodation from Harry Brolaski, alleged "master mind" of the bootlegging syndicate. She declares that such taxicab service was of a "friendly nature," and carried with it no obligation; that such acceptance was not a violation of civil service rules. Also the charge that she signed a permit allowing a wholesale liquor dealer to cut corners and carry on transactions direct with another dealer—that such order was received by Loria Handley just prior to his death. Finally she avers that politics is back of the move that resulted in her suspension, and of the whole booze inquiry. About the only conclusion that one can safely come to is that the whole matter is a mess.

Judge Ward Surprises Them

When the Grand Jury dived into the affairs of the Auto Truck and Team Association, fetching up indictments against members of the organization for violation of the Cartwright Anti-Trust Act, those indicted laughed about it and made observations to the effect that they should worry. The general public, remembering how such matters generally go, fell in with the idea that there was no great cause for the indicted to lose sleep. What was the surprise of everybody, then, to find that Superior Judge Ward refused to dismiss the indictments on demurrer, as prayed for by the attorney representing the defendants. Three days were devoted to argument over the motion, and in the end Judge Ward held that the indictments had been legally drawn, and that the five indicted contractors must appear for trial. Great surprise and some indignation that the cases are thus put beyond the safeguard of demurrers has been manifested by those concerned. When a case goes to trial there is no telling where it may end. The psychological time to scotch it is in the open season of the demurrer.

Russians Incredulous

Russians here, of whom there is a considerable colony—and real Russians, too, who came from Russia and Siberia—are laughing at the story of the Bolshevik government conceding to one Daniel Vanderlip a vast expanse in Siberia, which is represented to be rich in minerals and timber. Several California capitalists and national personages, not by any means the least of whom is Senator Harding, have been mentioned as being concerned in the project. It is proper in passing to say that Senator Harding disclaims any connection with it, or intimate knowledge of it. Russians in San Francisco say that the Bolshevik government has no control and has never had jurisdiction over that part of Siberia west of Irkutsk, where the concessions are claimed to be located; that the only authority to grant such concessions as Vanderlip claims to have obtained is General Semionoff, whose military possession of the country is undisputed. If anybody is relying on a Golconda in this region, on the representation of these Russians they are likely to be disappointed.

Extended Litigation Ends

Litigation that has been for three years in almost continuous trial in the courts, involving parties well known in the State, ended last Saturday by dismissal of the suit of Hortense Troy against Robert P. Troy for an accounting. The Troys had been divorced three years ago. Mrs. Troy began this suit. She alleged in her complaint that Troy had handled $400,000 of her estate and had not properly accounted for it. Troy had answered that the suit was only brought to injure his good name and financial standing. Several continuances had been granted because of the non-appearance of Mrs. Troy, when on Saturday it was cleared from the docket. Public interest in the case comes through the fact that Mrs. Troy was the widow of Senator Stephen M. White. Troy was the Senator's fidelis Achates, accompanied him to Washington and served in the ways that an intimate can serve one in such position. Within a reasonable time after the Senator's death, Troy married the widow. In the divorce proceedings Troy charged that their differences resulted from the interposition of grown offspring from the former marriage.

A Legendary Landlord

Stewart Edward White, in his latest book, "The Rose Dawn," depicting California life of the period that has been designated as "The Splendid Idle Forties," tells of a "wealthy ranch owner and chivalrous southern gentleman of the old type" who "owned the only two hotels in Arroyo." When the boat came in twice a week he stood at the wharf and with the aid of his whip, divided the sheep from the goats. That is, to his hotel known as the Fremont he sent those travelers whom he considered his personal guests, and to the San Antonio he sent all others. Twice a week the Colonel came in from his ranch and breakfasted at the Fremont, bringing two great hamsters, one filled with oranges, the other with nosegays. With a word of greeting he presented the oranges to the gentlemen and the nosegays to the ladies. When guests arrived at the Fremont and were shown to their rooms they found there baskets of roses, with the Colonel's personal card. And when they left, whether their stay had been extended or brief, they were presented with a basket of fresh fruit, again with the Colonel's personal card. Interest at once centers around the person and locality. Arguello must be an alias for some port in the southern part of the State, and the name of the wonderful old-timer may be Peyton, as it is given, or it may not. There ought to be old-timers in Southern California who can identify them both. It would be interesting if such identification were supplied.

Another Orator of Other Days

In consequence of articles on this page two weeks ago on Californian orators in general and "Tom" Fitch in particular, there has been placed in my hands a small and rare volume entitled, "Eloquence of the Far West," containing some of the orations of Colonel E. D. Baker. Baker's fame as an orator transcends that of any other in all California's history. He was a distinguished citizen of three States in turn—Illinois, where he was contemporaneous with Lincoln; California and Oregon, which latter sent him to the United States Senate; and he served in three wars—the Blackhawk, the Mexican and the Civil War. He met his death at Ball's Bluff through rash bravery. The volume contains his eulogy over the body of William L. Ferguson, shot in a duel on Angel Island, August 21, 1858, by Penn Johnson, editor of the pre-Hearst Examiner, and his eulogy a year later over the body of David C. Broderick, shot by David S. Terry in a duel at Lake Merced, September 12, 1859. Among other orations that are reproduced is his reply to Senator Judah P. Benjamin of Louisiana, said to have been the brains of the Confederacy. Benjamin, from his place in the Senate, attempted to justify the secession movement. Baker, having but recently taken his seat representing Oregon, replied in an effort said to rank with Webster's reply to Hayne. Baker's speech in defense of Cora is given in full. Cora was a handsome gambler who shot United States Marshal Richardson. He consorted with a woman of the town, and the shooting grew out of severe strictures by Richardson because Cora seated the woman next to Mrs. Richardson at a theater. James O'Meara, in his book published thirty years afterwards, represents that Baker tried to withdraw from the defense of Cora, but that the pleading of the woman so appealed to his chivalrous nature that he went through with it. His plea for the defendant, among other things that more or less got on the public nerve, contained the assertion that Cora and the woman "were bound together by a tie that angels might not blush to approve." It was undoubtedly Baker's eloquence that caused the jury to disagree. The trial occurred in January, 1856. Before Cora could be tried again—to wit, on May 14, 1856—James P. Casey, politician and gangster, shot James King of William, editor of the Bulletin. That was the last straw. The Vigilance Committee formed over night, an armed force marched to the county jail, took Casey and Cora and after an impromptu trial, hanged them from a beam run out from the second story of Fort Gunnybags, on Sacramento street. Baker found the situation so unpleasant that he retired from the city, going first to El Dorado county and then to Oregon, where he was taken up and elected to the United States Senate. He left his seat in the Senate to go to the battle front, where he met a martyr's death. His remains were brought to San Francisco—not to Oregon—and were interred with much eulogy and circumstance in Lone Mountain cemetery.

The Orator Who Broke the Slate

MASONIC HOME, Decoro, Nov. 2.—I beg to tender you my thanks for the very flattering article concerning me which appeared in The Tribune, except that portion of it which states that my narrative of the exploits at Missionary Ridge was "made out of whole cloth." I told the story as Hart told it to me. After his nomination the truth of it was questioned by the Democratic press. The Republican State Central Committee referred the matter to the Grand Army of the Republic of California for investigation, and they reported that the account given by me of Hart's action was substantially correct. I write this, not asking for its publication, but only to retain your good opinion. THOS. FIRCH.

Extracts From A Private Letter

CITY OF MEXICO, September 30.—I am going to write you a letter in a few days giving local color. This is on business. * * * What the country needs is recognition by the United States. In fact, I don't believe they can get along without it. There are forces at work now both inside and outside the republic, Gonzales among them—who really was the man who put Carranza out and made it possible for Obregon to get in—toward undermining Obregon. In addition we have the old situation. Obregon has arrived, is practically in power, but with the Carranza generals and officials under him. He is eliminating these generals, grafters and other parasites; but in proportion as he does so he creates ill-will, jealousy, envy and scheming for his downfall. I believe Obregon is the man for Mexico. I think that he is going to be fair to Americans. * * * The present glorious administration of the United States realizes quite well that it made a mistake when it recognized Carranza. He was pro-German and for Carranza—graft from top to bottom. He never gave anyone a square deal that was not profitable to himself. He never really wanted to catch Villa, nor did his generals. Villa was a good excuse for maintaining an expensive army and getting big graft for himself and the generals who maintained him in power. I would have taken my chances with Villa in preference to the Carranzists. * * * During the revolution there was one German killed, three English and 480 Americans. When the Liberty Loan drives were going on in the United States the Americans here were notified by the Wilson administration that their quota was $100,000. They raised $3,500,000, and not fifteen cents were ever spent to protect them. We have a right to be proud of this administration!

Magnate Loew Here

Magnate Loew, of moving picture and general theatrical interests, is here. Generally it is understood that the opening of his magnificent new theater in Oakland on the 14th of November—the reconstructed Macdonough, is the chief magnet that brings him; but he has large interests in this city and elsewhere on the coast that are always sufficient to justify crossing the continent. Besides, Martin Beck is here, or has just been here, whose errand is frankly in connection with the Orpheum Junior circuit, which is to come in direct competition with the Loew class of entertainment, and that is certainly sufficient to justify being on the ground. These magnates watch each other very closely. Competition is keen nowadays in the amusement business. Of course, the principals of the several circuits have competent representatives here, but in such emergency as the big departure of the Orpheum people it is evidently felt that a thorough examination of the situation by the head of rival concerns is desirable, that no important feature may be overlooked.

Some Doubles

Somebody started it by observing how much Felton Taylor, well known on the Oakland side as a strenuous Republican, resembles President Wilson in facial appearance. There was a general acquiescence as soon as the suggestion could be turned over in the minds of those before whom it was made. Going further, some other ringers were discovered. It was claimed that "Billy" George, manager of the Cowell Cement and Lime Company, would readily pass for Governor Cox should he appear in a situation where the Governor was expected; and that Judge D. C. Deasy looks enough like Governor, now Vice President-elect Coolidge, to be his twin brother. It is suggested that while Governor Stephens may not bear an exact facial resemblance to President-elect Harding, he is of the type, which is readily seen when attention is called to it. Dr. Reynolds of Alameda has long been recognized as a striking double of former President Taft, mustache, smile and all. He has received ovations on entering dining rooms or other places where observant people were congregated on this account.

Mrs. Jack Spreckels Arrives

When Mrs. Jack Spreckels arrived in this city last week she was unaccompanied by Jack, though he was in Europe when she started across, and on her statement, was cabled for when the story of her loss of jewels first broke. The New York Herald prints an interesting interview with her, obtained on her landing in that city. She accuses William D. Barrett, represented to be a "dashing" army captain, who eloped with a Philadelphia Drexel about a year ago, for the disappearance of her jewels. She first met Barrett, she explained, eight years ago at Seattle. This time she met him at an European race course. According to her story, he invited her to dinner and she went, wearing her jewelry. He thought the jewelry should be insured, reiterating such opinion several times. Her account of what followed is as follows: "Actually I became convinced that he was right and I turned the jewels over to him in May. Aside from the necklace, which cost $80,000 at Tiffany's, there was my engagement ring, which was worth $10,000, and several bracelets and other trinkets. That was the last I saw of the jewels. I saw Barrett several times in the next few weeks, and each time I asked him about the jewelry. He said it was at the appraiser's. As weeks rolled by I became alarmed and demanded that he return them forthwith. He said there was no need of my being afraid, as they were as safe at the appraiser's as they would be at Tiffany's. He said he was going to France on a short trip, and would get the jewelry on his return. I have not seen or heard of Barrett since that day." But Scotland Yard sleuths are on his trail. Mrs. Spreckels is his Nemesis, and Jack is reported in later despatches as having declared he will "get" him. It is believed that Barrett is in Mexico.

Boom in Jamaica Ginger

Before the fateful first day of July, 1919, Jamaica ginger was recognized as a concoction having a vigorous kick. Not a few whose esophagus had become so calloused that ordinary booze no longer "registered" as it trickled down, had recourse to it. Jamaica ginger is not a tipple that tickles the palate, but it has a kick after it is down, and that is what some people desire above the effeminate pleasure of taste. It is understood that the expression, "Putting ginger in it," sprang from the well known character of the Jamaica variety. Well, anyhow, the sale of Jamaica ginger has vastly increased since the lid was shut down. If it was preferred by some when every variety of booze could be procured in any quantity, how much more does it find buyers when many of those who indulge can get nothing else at all? The attention of the prohibition enforcement director has been attracted to the traffic, and he is now devising measures to head it off. His attack will be in the direction of watching the consumption of alcohol by druggists, that liquid entering largely in the manufacture of the ginger, and when excess consumption is found, shutting down on it.

Harry V. Ramsdell

The late "Harry" Ramsdell was sixty-five years of age, but few of those who knew him suspected it. He was a man who retained the spirit and cheer of youth in an unusual degree. When one bought a suit or garment at Bullock & Jones' an important item in the values received was the heartening from the proprietor that characterized the transaction. The purchaser was made to feel that he was on the basis of a friend at once. Ramsdell was a clubman in the best sense, not only belonging to several but taking a hand in their affairs to their definite advantage. The general public has been aware that for more than fifty years Bullock & Jones has been a high-class clothes shop, but not everybody is aware that neither Bullock nor Jones is surviving or has survived for more than forty years, or that for thirty-five years Ramsdell was the moving spirit in the concern. It may have been forgotten that for some years he was a resident of the east side of the bay, owning a home on Morton street, Alameda.

LASKY KILLS STAR SYSTEM; PLAYERS WILL WORK IN BUNCHES

Reid, Dalton
Ferguson,
Burke, Murray
In One Play

What is unquestionably the most revolutionary advance in motion picture production that has taken place in a decade, or indeed since the inception of the films, is indicated in the new policy in the making of Paramount Pictures which developed at a series of conferences among Famous Players-Lasky executives in New York presided over by Adolph Zukor, president of the corporation, and which contemplates the evolution of all Paramount stars to positions of super-stars in productions of such quality that they will be booked for months in theaters where, hitherto, the best pictures have not exceeded a few weeks' run.

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production, has already inaugurated the plan in the eastern studios and will leave immediately for Hollywood to put the new system into effect at the west coast studios, which calls for the co-ordination of the entire resources of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation—stars, directors, authors, playwrights, leading men and leading women in one huge all-star stock company for the production of genuinely big special pictures.

The working out of the new idea—or ideal, as it may be termed—is best exemplified by the way in which it first functioned. Immediately after the executives had made their decision, Lasky called Cecil B. deMille, director general, who is in Hollywood, on long distance telephone. The latter had already in contemplation the production of Arthur Schnitzler's "The Affairs of Anatol." DeMille was informed that the entire resources of the organization would be at his command and within a few hours, the noted producer, with great enthusiasm, notified Lasky that an ideal cast had been chosen for his picture and that the entire force of the Famous Players-Lasky was eager to co-operate, having at once appreciated the advantages the new plan would bring to stars, authors and writers of its publications. The result was told in the announcement of the cast for Cecil B. deMille's picture, which includes Wallace Reid, Elliott Dexter, Gloria Swanson, Agnes Ayres, Wanda Hawley, Belle Daniels, Theodore Roberts, Theodore Kosloff, Dorothy Cummings and Julia Faye. Among the writers who will collaborate in preparing "The Affairs of Anatol" for the screen are Jeanie Macpherson, Beulah Marie Dix, Elmer Harris and Avery Hopwood, the latter supervising one episode; there will also probably be a fifth scenario writer engaged.

All Play Together

"In the near future probably," says Jesse L. Lasky, "motion picture patrons will see these new Paramount stars, such as Elsie Ferguson, Ethel Clayton, Wallace Reid, Dorothy Dalton, Mae Murray, Thomas Meighan and Billie Burke, playing together in big productions. The only plays have been great successes recently have been those that have had a big popular theme, and have been well cast and directed. I think it is to make productions that will be tremendously popular with the public and therefore big successes for the stars, authors, and directors. Pictures in which every person concerned in their making will appear to the very best advantage.

"The big play will come first. The greatest stars we have will be given the much sought opportunity to appear in excellent roles that always are a part of a fine drama. I feel that at last my dreams have come true and that here the entire Famous Players-Lasky producing department is in a position to concentrate its efforts upon the making of only the highest type of motion pictures. The announcement to the different departments has been charged then with enthusiasm. To authors it means as much as it does to the stars, for its guarantee big productions for his stories. "In keeping with this plan, Elinor Glyn is now on her way to the Los Angeles studios to complete the story called 'Shattered Daughters' which she is writing for Gloria Swanson. Mrs. Glyn in her search for an ideal leading man to play the hero has set her heart on Wallace Reid and it is not unlikely that they two stars will make their appearance together in this story. Sam Wood will direct. He has handled the megaphone for many successful pictures and was assistant to Cecil B. deMille in directing 'The Affairs of Anatol.' Mrs. Glyn will remain in Hollywood to supervise the making of many of the colorful scenes in her story which is told in the remotest spots of the capitals of Europe.

Doug. and Mary in North

Doug and Mary are still honeymooning. Mary and her company have been at Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal., filming scenes for her current picture, "The Flame in the Dark." Doug is at Monterey writing the scenario for his next picture. Doug's press agent announced that the star was seeking retirement in order to give his best thought to his scenario task. The very next day Mary's press agent told of Mary's trip to Carmel. Now comes a report from Monterey that Doug has very little time for scenario writing, and that, as Carmel is only a little jaunt from Monterey, he devotes most of his time to seeing his cherished Mary act.

The Eyes Have It! Orbs Make Girls Popular Idols

Three stars whose eyes have won them fame. Marguerite Clark (top) has hazel eyes. Anita Stewart (center) brown, and Mary Thurman blue-gray.

"Drink to me only with thine eyes." When old Ben Johnson penned that line some years ago he had no thought of motion pictures, but nevertheless he struck the keynote of the rapidly developing amusement industry of today. Directors direct from the eye, with their eyes on the players and camera, and with the idea of how scenes will look to the eyes in the audience. "The eye is the center of everything in a picture," said Eddie Dillon, one of the popular directors of the Famous Players-Lasky Company in New York. "It is the biggest asset actors and actresses have when working before a camera. On the stage the actor's voice aids him but in pictures he must depend entirely on eyes and action. "Sincerity of expression is the first requisite. You know when you talk to a man and he looks you square in the eye you can believe in him. Well, the same quality must predominate in the eyes of the motion picture actor. Soulful eyes do not usually show much expression. Give me the clear-cut eyes, with the snap, which shows alertness of mind and body and you can register any kind of emotion."

Some Famous Twinklers

To illustrate his point, Dillon named several well known motion picture stars. His list included Marguerite Clark, Anita Stewart, Mary Thurman, Dorothy Dalton, Elsie Ferguson, John Barrymore, Charlie Chaplin, Mae Murray, Mary Pickford and numerous others. In fact the stardom achieved by all actors in pictures is due primarily to their eyes. "Thought is expressed most effectively through the eyes," Dillon went on. "Pathos, humor, fear, happiness. The entire range of emotions can be shown clearly by the expression of the eye and when they are shown in that way produce far greater effect than body action. All the wringing of hands and the tearing of hair will not show anguish unless the eyes tell of a deeper feeling. Thoughts of the mind are reflected in the eyes. "With the combination of the eye and pantomime the entire action of a story can be told. If you ever have noticed screen actors closely you have seen that most of their acting is done with the eyes. You can ask a question or tell of love and hate just by the expression of the eyes. With effective eye action most of the dialogue in pictures can be eliminated and the modern tendency in making film stories is to depend more and more upon the picture to tell the story rather than written words and titles."

The Iris is the Thing

But before any thought is given to expression the color of the film actor's eyes must be tested. Dark eyes, of course, are the best for the screen but that does not eliminate the blue-eyed girls from becoming movie stars. The pigment of color in the iris of the eyes de-

Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Madge Kennedy, and other stars of the silver sheet.

Screen Beauty Potent

The eyes have it—beyond a doubt. People visualize things easier through their retina than through their imagination. Beauty sensed on the screen may be more transparent and obvious, but it has made a universal appeal which must be reckoned with by those gifted with the creative spirit. "People believe what they see," says Madge Kennedy. "That is one of the reasons for the popularity of the silent drama. Inartistic, flickering, and flimsy, it becomes real and true in the average estimate because its appeal is so simple and direct. The screen has its subtleties, but they are of action rather than of verbiage; of a gesture, a glance, instead of a confusing analysis. And it is this which gives the new art an appeal to the common man and woman which was lacking before. As I said before, people believe what they see. "Is the day of the blond and her blue eyes past on the screen? Judging from Miss Frederick, Miss Kennedy, Miss Farrar and Miss Normand, four cinema stars picked at random, the fate of the blue-eyed heroine has been decided by the populace with thumbs

William Allen White Sees His Own Story; Dissatisfied?

William Allen White, editor and author, wrote a book once called "The Heart of a Fool." After it had hit the market a regular Kansas wallop, Director Allan Dwan was recently shown privately in Emporia, Kansas, for the benefit of White. The editor took the entire staff of his newspaper, the Emporia Gazette, to see the picture. The next day the following editorial, undoubtedly from the pen of White himself, appeared in the Gazette: "The Gazette force has been watching the boss crouch all morning. He took them last night to see a private view of 'The Heart of a Fool' in the movies. It is showing in New York to good houses and Harry McClure got a print for a private show. This boss is sore at the picture. It departed from his story and he has a pride of authorship which is amazing. The force thought the story was greatly improved by the changes made in it; that the ending of the picture was much better than the ending the boss put on the story. But the boss is that proud that he won't admit it and he won't ask his friends to see the picture, and won't give it an endorsement. The Gazette force, however, is all for the picture."

Harry Carey, Universal's Western star, and Olive Golden are now man and wife. The marriage ceremony was performed some time ago but the fact was kept from the public until now. Mrs. Carey is the daughter of George Fuller Golden, a well-known actor, one of the organizers of the White Lasky, a national actors' association.

Little 14-year-old Clara Horton plays opposite to Charles Ray in "Nineteen and Phyllis." Clara is a sweet little mite of a thing and is blessed with a charming disposition. Every one in the studio made a lot of her and she divided popularity with Charles Ray's dog, Whiskers, who was not at all jealous of the attention paid to the little actress.

Under contract with Lewis J. Selznick for five years with a total of $105,000 retainer, Jack Lait, the short story writer, has voluntarily cancelled the contract.

Jack Pickford To Become Director; Hart Plans Rest

By Jay Balfour

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—It is possible that Jack Pickford may become a director before assuming his work as an actor on the screen. Jack has returned to Los Angeles, but the sunshine has gone from his heart and he is in no mood to portray comedy parts for the silver-sheet. The recent death, in Paris, under tragic circumstances, of his wife, Olive Thomas, is the cause. During his European trip he had been plagued by his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, that he should head his own company, his contract with Goldwyn having expired. This plan has been shelved for a time and Jack is now considering a directorial offer from his old-time friend, Marshall Neilan. In order to restore him to a normal mentality it is asserted that Jack must work hard in order to forget. Neilan believes that as a director Jack will hit the cinema bullseye, and the occupation will so engross his mind he soon will become reconciled to his marital loss.

Hart to Take Vacation

Bill Hart has surprised the denizens of filmland with the announcement that he is planning a vacation. The locale will be in the wilds of the Sierra Nevada mountains, far from the haunts of such ailing the clicking of the whirling cameras. He will complete two pictures for Paramount before "disappearing." The task will end his contract. Then will Lambert Hillyer, his director, and his two pet horses, Cactus Kate, and Fritz, for companions he will take in his chosen field of retreat, and there remain until thoroughly rested. It is also announced here that Bill is in demand as a stage attraction. Report has it that he has received several very attractive offers from new Los Angeles managers, but he is in a non-receptive mood. He declares, in the positive manner so characteristic of him, that he will not accept any offer, no matter how attractive financially it might be. And he is not planning a European trip. "See America First" is Bill's motto.

To Film Kipling Tales

Admirers of Kipling will be pleased to learn that several of his short stories are to be filmed at the Branton studios in this city. The pictures will be made for Pathé, and it is possible that Kipling will come to Los Angeles for the purpose of seeing that his stories are given adequate screen treatment. His personal representative in this country, Randolph Lewis, is now in England conferring with the noted writer. Present plans call for three-reel pictures, but it is probable that the stories will go to the silver-sheet as six-reelers. The filming of the first picture will begin December 1.

The return of Samuel Goldwyn to the presidency of the motion picture corporation bearing his name has filled the hearts of the inhabitants of the big studio at Culver City with joy. His recent resignation caused a corresponding amount of gloom, for, from gate-keeper to star, all admired their boss for his enterprise and for the really courteous manner with which he performed the duties of his high office. The selection of F. J. Godsol to the chairmanship of the board of directors is also regarded as another Goldwyn victory. Just what will be the result of Messrs. Kendall, who succeeded to the position of director in charge when Mr. Goldwyn resigned, is not known at the studio. Mr. Goldwyn is thirty-six years old and he organized the Goldwyn corporation four years ago. He began his business career as an office boy.

Charles Ray's Vacation

Charles Ray will give the fans of the leading cities of this country a treat when he packs his grip and starts for New York on a sight-seeing business tour. Charles has never been in New York and he intends to make the trip epochal. On the way there and on his return trip to Los Angeles he will make several stops at theaters, making his appearances. As a gift to his presentation his wife, who has been known as Clara Horton, and was popular as an actress, will accompany him. Before leaving Los Angeles a temporary agency Charles will be compelled, in accordance with his contract with First National, to make one more picture. This will be a version of Charles Van Loan's play, "Scrap Iron." His current picture, "The Ole Saintman of India," is about completed.

Hopwood in Los Angeles

The Famous Players-Lasky corporation has added the name of Avery Hopwood to its list of famous authors and playwrights. Hopwood, who has been in the "under cover," arranging the details of his contract. He will write several stories, which will be transformed into screen farces. He is one of the most successful playwrights of the day. He has for plays running in New York's present vogue, "Spanish Love," "The Gold Diggers," "Ladies' Night," and "The Rat." Hopwood was in collaboration with Mary Pickford.

FULTON LOSES LEADING LADY OVER GIFT OF FLOWERS

You Can Never Tell About Footlight Stars

"What are you doing about that plan to alternate leading ladies—Lillian Foster to play the plays with the light and fluffy comedy roles and Miss Catherine Van Buren to play the more serious parts?" George Ebey, manager of the Fulton playhouse, was asked yesterday.

"Well, you can just put it this way in the paper if you want: 'Ehey, the poor boob, has again proven that no man can know as much about women as he thinks he does.' With that as a starter you can go on and tell the story—just giving the facts."

That was the Fulton manager's answer.

DRAMA BEHIND SCENES.

An interesting little drama of stage life lies behind affairs at the Fulton theater for the past six weeks or so. It has developed. The outcome is that Miss Foster's engagement was summarily ended two weeks ago and that her and the theater's attorneys are now effecting a settlement of the contract.

In Miss Foster's stead rises Miss Van Buren, who has surely and effectively won her place in the hearts of the audience as new leading lady.

A small bunch of flowers started it all.

"Ehey proposed the alternate leading lady plan and it was accepted all around. Miss Van Buren's first appearance as leading lady was on October 10 in 'The Crimson Alibi.' The night before, the closing night of 'Help Wanted,' friends of Miss Foster sent her some flowers. The girl who at the theater were very fond of Miss Van Buren, so, seeing the flowers, they took up a collection among themselves and bought some for Miss Van Buren.

THE FUN STARTED.

In sending them up at the close of the second act, Miss Van Buren's were sent first. Then the usher handed up Miss Foster's flowers.

On the dull, unimpaired side of the scenes a dramatic cyclone as a climax was reached then and there.

The result was that Miss Foster was dismissed for temperamental infraction of the rules. Miss Foster's engagement with the Fulton playhouse terminated anyway on December 11, when she was to leave for New York to enter Hale Hamilton's new production, 'Her Father's House,' in which she starred at its premiere in stock here last summer.

On the other hand, Miss Van Buren was raised to the level of leading lady and has been doing decidedly well. 'The Crimson Alibi,' in which she played was one of the productions of the season at the theater. 'The Cure for Curables' was her next play, which went off well.

Next, the New England classic, which will be run a second week starting today.

So the alternate leading lady plan came to an abrupt end. It was ended by the jealousy of the two leading ladies, which Ebey failed to foresee.

"I expected rivalry between them," Ebey said.

"I thought would add spice to the show. But I didn't expect anything like what happened—certainly not before the plan was even started," Ebey said.

"Whopper" Is Cancelled

The Little Whopper, a musical comedy booked at Ye Liberty playhouse for the week of November 14 has wired a cancellation of its booking. Up to yesterday no other show had been booked in for the week, but a dramatic piece is to be secured in order to break the run of musical shows.

The show last week, 'Scandals of 1919,' was a musical comedy, and the American Legion show, 'Pep,' is another one. The week of November 21 has McIntyre and Heath in 'Hello, Alexander,' another musical show, so a musical comedy for the week of November 17 would mean a straight month of them.

'Milestones' in Films

'Milestones,' the wonderful story play of a few years ago, is to be seen shortly in the films. The big production has been finished and is booked for an early release at the American.

As a speaking play this was one of the sensations of current drama. It takes a couple through life from youth to old age, their children, and finally their children's children with them.

The original stage play, it will be remembered, was seen in Oakland, where it was one of the most successful "big" attractions ever shown here.

Henry Walthall Company to Switch Plays

Before going to St. Louis and its Eastern tour, the Henry B. Walthall company, which played here at Ye Liberty playhouse, in which she recently appeared at Ye Liberty playhouse, it is announced, she has already started rehearsals for her next production. It will be "Wake Up, Jonathan."

The company is now touring Sacramento and San Joaquin valley, doing the one and two-night stands. It comes to Vallejo on November 12 and then is due to go north.

The new piece will be Herbert Bashford's comedy, "Take a Story." Rehearsals for it were started during the company's stay in Oakland and are being held during spare hours wherever the company happens to be. It is a remarkable feature that the company is fitting perfectly into the new piece, which, of course, is of antipodal difference.

Bashford, the author, who lives in Piedmont and was for years San Francisco newspaper man, will supervise the final rehearsal of the company during the stay at Vallejo. The company will continue to play "Ghosts" through Oregon and Washington, but will not do comedy pieces where it is desired by managers.

Another motion picture triumph is Basil King's "Earthbound," a story of the spirit world and the supernatural told in a serious and compelling way, which is booked for the Kinema theater, opening November 21.

The picture is having phenomenal runs in other places. It opened at the Los Angeles line of five hundred persons stood at the box office waiting for the doors to open.

At the Capital theater in New York City 73,000 persons saw it, breaking all records for that theater.

Bookings for the Kinema theater have been announced as follows: November 14—Charles Ray in "An Old-Fashioned Boy."

November 25—"Behold My Wife," Early in December, "The Girl of the Year," a mammoth George Fitzmaurice production, will be shown.

Griffith Films Holding Local Interest

It appears that early in December local motion picture fans will be confronted with a good deal of David Wark Griffith.

Announcement has just been made of the booking of Griffith's production, "Down East," for two weeks, commencing December 14.

The booking is exciting considerable interest because of the great praise which the film has received in other places and because of the fact that it has been such a enormous success at the Fulton playhouse.

The other Griffith booking is for the opening of Loew's State Theater, the remodeled Macdonough. This theater will be opened November 14 with "The Love Flower," Griffith's latest production. Incidentally the showing of "The Love Flower" here will probably precede the picture's showing in San Francisco.

There is an exotic spot not far from Florida called the "Magic Isle" that inspired Griffith to make "The Love Flower." Griffith is the author, producer and director of the picture.

When Griffith visited the island on a pleasure trip the most interesting thing he saw was a strangely tinted bloom called the "love flower." Its petals are interesting shades of purple, green and blue, with a heart-shaped center of brilliant red. Around the flower and the tender sentimentality associated with it, Griffith created a story that has all the strength and delicacy of emotion that he is so capable of inventing.

BOOK REVIEWS AND LITERARY NOTES

Main Street

Principal Thoroughfare of Average Small Town Is Made Theme for Interpretative Story by Sinclair Lewis — Complacency and Respectable Mediocrity Held as Dangers.

The main business thoroughfare that ran through the village of the average man's youth has been made the theme of several of the season's most searching novels. In "Goshen Street" it stood for rugged honesty and for the narrow and strict measures of conduct.

In "Main Street," Sinclair Lewis latest story, the street stands for the average small town and would stand a winning against enmity and complacency. According to this writer the average small town is threatened with a respectable mediocrity, is careless to the current of thought that attract European attention and is content to go its way counting its profits, putting out the cat, and winding the clock without taking any real part in the development of culture or in the inspiration of its citizens.

The book presents a small town, not a rural sort, but a sort of town, but the small town of the scurrying Fords, the real estate deals and the excitement that attends any sign of material progress. There are in the story any number of persons who walk the streets of most any town and the atmosphere is one that cannot fail to impress for its accuracy.

Carol Kennicott comes to "Main Street" from a large city and has ideas of a world that is not content within itself. It is not surprising that she finds many things not to her liking and that her rebellion assumes serious proportions. How she fights her fight and what she finds at the end is the material out of which the story is made. But it is for the town pictures and the manner in which Lewis would make his indictment that the book is mainly interesting. It has been written out of a large experience and of a firm conviction and carries with it a note of courageous purpose and earnestness.

"Main Street," by Sinclair Lewis, New York, Harcourt, Brace & Howe.

"Romance of The Microscope"

The simplest way to look into a new world is to fasten one's eye to a microscope. No man has given the romance of this in such a measure as John G. Baland. He did not specialize with the microscope and concerned himself little with the possibilities of the instrument aside from the uses which he had at hand.

A book devoted to the microscope, from its antecedents to its scientific principles and filled with ideas for its use and promises of what may be learned of the microcosm. One may learn of the microscope at attachment to a camera and how photographs of objects miles away may be taken as if they were but a few yards distant, he may learn of the life in a mill pond, the worlds in water, and the mysteries of a fly's eye.

How to use the microscope and what is to be seen in it, in a fascinating style and in such a way as to give an incentive to a study that will lead to knowledge concerning plant and insect life. The book is fully illustrated and may be depended upon to meet the requirements of those to whom the subject has an appeal.

JOHN GALSWORTHY

John Galsworthy's new story, "In Chancery," dealing with an English family of wealth and position, forms a large and impressive presentation of the upper classes of English society. In spirit and treatment it does not so much resemble Mr. Galsworthy's later novels as such earlier ones as "The Country House" and "The Man of Property," indeed this is true also in subject, for it is concerned with the affairs of "The Man of Property." While dealing considerably with a later generation than appeared therein, Somers Forsyte and others that contributed to render the earlier novels so memorable, figure conspicuously in its pages. It will be published next week by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"THE NINTH MAN"

"The Ninth Man," Mary Weston Vorse's story, recently published by the Harpers, is a tale of medieval Italy—of San Moglio, whose conqueror decreed that after thirty other tolls of blood, the ninth man among the line-up of the people shall designate secretly whom he wishes put to death in the public place. Thus shall San Moglio judge San Moglio. The pall of fear and hatred which descended on San Moglio threatened to take a toll far more terrible than death. But in time, Brother Arnolfo took San Moglio's toll on his own innocent head, and for one time in his story the world did not cry "fool."

JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER

A booklet about Joseph Hergesheimer, mainly written by Llewellyn Jones, literary editor of the Chicago Evening Post, is being prepared and will be distributed shortly by Mr. Knopf. The booklet shows the author of "Linda Condon" and "The Three Black Pennys" in the usual "unconventional" pose. Hergesheimer's newest book is "San Cristobal de la Habana," the result of his visit to Cuba, which will be published immediately.

E. V. LUCAS, author of "Adventures and Enthusiasms," returns in the Midwest, etc. (Doran).

"Sand Holler," Has Laughs and Tears

Miss Belle Kanaris Maniates has accomplished the difficult feat of outdoing the book that won her fame, "Sand Holler" is funnier and closer to the soil and patches than was "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley."

In this book, in addition to the homely folk and the central character who mixes humorous philosophy and actions with a certain pathos, there is romance and a dash of intrigue to hold the interest. Olynthus, the shiftless husband who loves his idleness and his violin and who wasn't built to be a maker of money, there is the industrious Ann Bee, and all of the little bees furnish the fun of the kind for which Miss Maniates is known to so many readers. Wade Sheridan is a real man and Kenneth Lloyd is made appealingly human.

The word "appeal" is always emphasized in descriptions of the books of this writer. Whether or not the quality is over-emphasized is at matter of opinion. There is laughter and enjoyment, paragraphs to be read aloud and plenty of

VERY LOVELY

Wouldn't it be lovely if the rain came down Till the water was quite high over all the town? If the cabs and buses all were set afloat.

And we had to go to school in a little boat?

Wouldn't it be lovely if it still should pour

And we all went up to live on the second floor?

If we saw the butcher sailing up the hill.

And we took the letters in at the window sill?

It's been raining, rain, all the afternoon.

All these things might happen really very soon.

If we woke tomorrow and found they had begun.

Wouldn't it be glorious? Wouldn't it be fun?

M. LUKESHI

M. Lukeshi, author of "Lighting the Home," a pioneer book just published by The Century Co. which explains the use of light for interior decoration, was notified not only by the Franklin Institute of the State of Pennsylvania that he had been awarded the Edward Long Medal of Merit for an article on "The Visibility of Airplanes," Mr. Lukeshi, who has spent much time on this interesting subject, presented in this paper the results of an extended study of the conditions which affect the visibility of airplanes when viewed against different backgrounds.

CLARENCE DAY

A subject of controversy for scientists and anthropologists has been raised by Clarence Day's "This Sunken World," in which he offers a rather complete proof that the triumph of the ape in this world was inevitable; that a consideration of the other races (for instance, the ant elephant, bees, ants, etc.) shows that not only is it a lucky thing that we are descended from the simian but that that was the only possible outcome of the evolutionary process. However, one thinks of the man who said "The more I see of some people the better I like them."

MASTER AUCTION.

Florence Irwin, expert in bridge and whist, has written a new volume designed only for those who know the game of auction. The book illustrates the subtle points of the game and will enable the fair and good player to become the expert. The work of course has a limited and distinct appeal. Those who are auction players will give it a ready recognition as a valuable addition to the library of books on the subject.

MAXWELL BODENHEIM

Maxwell Bodenheim is back with his wife Minna from Europe, and social life in Greenwich Village has again started in in earnest for the winter.

"Jan"

M. Morgan Gibbon, Sister to Percival Gibbon, Writes Love Story of Tempestuous Two That Has a Captivating and "Different" Appeal.

"Jan," one of the wild Owens who feel themselves different from the rest and who fight ever for freedom from convention, is a heroine more real than lovable. Raised in her childhood by the gentle but black sheep of the family and deprived of a mother, Jan is started out in life on a chart without direction of meridians. John Owen desired that she learn democracy and that she grow up naturally and Jan was the real daughter of John.

How this girl fitted into boarding school life and the story of her girl-and-boy love for John Owen, a cousin, form a part of the story that holds a close attention with the manner of telling for the genuinely interesting incident. Jan and John, the cousin, are betrothed but there comes a time when the willful girl puts her desires for "freedom" ahead of her love and there is a long separation. And then Jan starts in to learn many a lesson neglected in her father's scheme for her education. She sets out to be a modern woman and is rescued just in time from ruining her life.

Henry Owen, John's father, the only respectable one of the lot, and his commonplace and wearisome wife Annie are two characters drawn with a touch of real artistry, as is the Sarah who marries to become respectable and always, of course, the John Owen, mother of Jan.

Jan's lover is a man of impulsive and irresponsible moods but, one who will win the understanding of those who have knowledge of the wounds that may be made on the souls of sensitive children. His love for Jan and the story of their courtship is beautifully told.

M. Morgan Gibbon, the author, is a sister of Percival Gibbon, well known for his novels and work as a war correspondent. No matter how many times it has been said before, there still remain stories of which one may say they are captivating and unusual. Miss Gibbon's is both of these.

"Jan," by M. Morgan Gibbon; New York, Doubleday, Page & Co., $1.90.

"The New World" Frank Comerford

Frank Comerford has a way of writing his conclusions in forceful and compelling sentences. He carries an intense conviction and an impression that he has studied at first hand the subject of reconstruction.

From Ireland to the Bolshevik front in Russia Comerford trailed the spirit of unrest. He noted conditions and it is said "literally interviewed the spectre which is menacingly hanging over the world." The result is a human document which thrills the reader, a book of word-pictures.

The book opens with a frank statement of the present-day problems. The author is a man of letters, a Bolshevik has seized upon the minds of so many persons in the world; it sketches the historical background in Russia, shows the rise of the Bolshevik spirit, the growth of Soviet power and the result of this domination. The iniquities of the Soviet regime are exposed and the fallacies indicated.

Comerford has his solution for the industrial problems, and expounds them at the close of his book. It is not a new solution, but it is put in a familiar manner. Percival Comerford has coordinated his case that his solution will appear more desirable. It is to be hoped that he has. Plunked as the book is with documents and records it may be said, though, that he has built up a powerful case.

"The New World," by Frank Comerford; New York, D. Appleton & Co., $2.

SCHOOL BOOKLETS

Booklets presenting certain interests and phases of the city's public schools have been issued by the Board of Education at Cleveland, Ohio, and represent what should prove to be a most helpful plan to enable parents to work with and for the teacher. "Getting out the High School Paper," "Salary Schedules of the Public Schools," "Adequacy and Arithmetic" are some of the titles that suggest the scope and purposes to which the booklets may be designed. The books are written by teachers in the various departments, are well illustrated, and are directed to the public in manner to show, without any ostentation, the real work of the schools.

J. C. SQUIRE

J. C. Squire's new book, "Birds and Other Poems," published by George H. Doran Company, contains Mr. Squire's poems written during the last two years. Hodder & Stoughton in London have arranged to publish all of the books, poems, and essays of the talented and versatile editor of "The London Mercury." Mr. Squire's poem, "The Moon," has just been published in London. Very appropriately the poem appears in solitary loneliness, and has a slender volume all to itself.

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM

W. Somerset Maugham, author of "The Moon and Sixpence," was in New York the other day en route to Australia. While here he arranged with his publishers, George H. Doran Company, for the publication of his new book, "The Trembling of a Leaf," which will be brought out in the spring.

A Graceful Melodrama

"Dead Men Tell No Tales" Is a Yarn of the Sea, of Mystery, and of Crime, and One That Is Told With a Rare and Saving Grace.

To achieve a melodrama gracefully is something reserved for the few and to invite the inevitable comparison with "Treasure Island" is a reason for two there have been more than a half dozen who have mixed their tales of violence, piracy and villainy with the true flavor of romance and a skill at recounting.

To fill in the task is worse than an attempt, even if the result is a best seller.

Richard Le Gallienne turned to piracy and wrote a tale of half-piracy and half-romance. Justin Hurdley McCarthy has done the same many times, but there are not many others who carry the literary excellencies into their journey's with buccaniers.

E. W. Hornung may be remembered longest as the inventor of "Raffles," but the stories of his famous hero are not told with the grace to be found in "Dead Men Tell No Tales." Here is a yarn of a mysterious craft that puts to sea with a secret cargo, of wholesale murder, calm and deliberate, of a great cold theft, an underground tunnel and a prodigious love making. There is a villain who thinks no more of snuffing out a life than he does of lighting a cigarette and a handsome half-villain who wins the reader's heart plays an important role in the romance.

A shipwreck with what is believed to be the loss of all save one, and a discovery by this one that a number of those thought dead are alive brings out the secret of as dark a plot as was ever hatched in a hatchway.

Hornung has written a description of a fire aboard ship that will take its place among notable chapters of the sea and still another one of his here dished on a benched on the Atlantic that is the work of a genuine artist. He has used adventure and theme that is in the hands of many a writer, would be extravagant and perhaps ridiculous, and he has clothed it with so much of the romantic taint that it is most colorfully presentable.

There is a mystery of the kind to hold a constant attention and the rare appeal of a good sea yarn in addition to a tale of genuine suspense and the impression cannot fail that Hornung has succeeded in that dangerous field which Stevenson first opened and in which so many another has become mired.

"Dead Men Tell No Tales," by E. W. Hornung; New York, Crosscut & Dunlap.

"A Builder of The New South"

Those who pass by the life story of Daniel Augustus Tompkins because they have never heard of the man will have neglected the opportunity to read, not only a most interesting biography, but an intimate record of fifty years of Southern history.

Tompkins was "the father of the cotton seed oil industry," another fact to discourage any but the man interested in that product. He turned a waste product into a national resource and brought prosperity to a great section of the country.

There is incident enough in the man's life to justify the book, and there are facts enough concerning that period from 1850 to 1910 to hold the attention. The author, George Taylor Winston, was formerly president of North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts and has long been a leader of intellectual life in the south. For the one who likes biography and any number of things, incidental and important not usually put in books, this volume should prove a treat.

JOHN HALL WHEELLOCK

John Hall Wheellock, author of "Dust and Light" (Scribner's) and other volumes of poetry, has compiled and edited a bibliography of Theodore Roosevelt's writing which are published by Charles Scribner's Sons. The edition is limited to 500 copies. This is the fullest and most comprehensive Roosevelt bibliography yet attempted, according to the publishers. It is complete up to May 1 last. Mr. Wheellock, whose verses have been enthusiastically received by the leading American critics, appears here in a new role.

Short Story

"Americans All" a Collection of Tales in Which the Color and Conditions of Country Are Reflected. Contains Biographies of Authors.

Under the title of "Americans All," Benjamin A. Hoadley has collected fourteen short stories which he explains were selected with the purpose of interpreting American life. The authors are Americans who have written of conditions and people of different sections. "Our country is so vast," declares the compiler, "that few of us know more than a small corner of it, and even in that corner we do not know all of our fellow-citizens; differences of color, of race, of creed, of fortune, keep us in separate strata." The stories, with such a purpose in view, take the reader into the four corners of the country and acquaint him with his fellow-citizens of both sexes representing different creeds, "color and positions in life."

Still days, which awaken such happy memories are recalled by one of the Emmy Lou stories by George Madden Martin which rank as classics in schoolroom literature. "The child of New York's famous East Side is portrayed in 'The Land of Heart's Desire,' by Myria Kelly, American society in the small town is depicted by a selection, 'The Passing of Priscilla Winthrop,' from William Allen White's, 'In Our Town.' Politics, with a strong appeal to all sections, is dealt with in a story by Brand Whitlock entitled 'The Gold Brick.' The traveling salesman, so typical of American life, is described in a chapter from Edna Ferber's 'Roast Beef, Medium,' in which Emma McChesney is the 'traveling man.' 'The Ordinal of Mr. Hober' is a story of negro life by Paul Laurence Dunbar. Among other authors included are H. C. Munger, C. Henry, Fannie Hurst, Stewart Edward White, Dorothy Canfield, Katherine Mayo, James M. Hopper and James F. Dwyer.

The selections have been well made and the book is both entertaining and instructive. The biography of each author is presented; there is a list of American short stories classified by locality. There are also notes and questions on each story.

"Songs of the Trail," Knibbs

Henry Herbert Knibbs is a Californian who has traveled the West. In story and verse he has pictured the color and zest of the land and the life he loves. Born in Canada, he came to the United States, became a citizen, and traveled here and there, taking this job and that, that he might see the country and know its men. At 35 he gave up a place as private secretary to a railroad official and went to Harvard to learn how to write. The course finished, he traded all of his possessions for a canoe and camping outfit and lost himself in the Canadian wilderness. He became a writer. Knibbs and his wife are expert with the paddle, with the canoe and rifle. They came to California in 1911 and have since been tramping the hills and the coastline. His stories and verse have supplied enough to keep the camp kettle full and the song a joyous one.

"Songs of the Trail," Knibbs; New York, Crosscut & Dunlap.

"Trail Horde," by Charles A. Seltzer

One of the most blood-thirsty tales of recent construction is "The Trail Horde," by Charles Alden Seltzer.

Kane Lawler with his band of trusted, hardy cattlemen fighting a rotten state government, a corrupt capitalist combination and a band of cattle rustlers manage to kill a man in nearly every chapter and sometimes fifteen or twenty.

Despite the pore that oozes from each paragraph, however, the tale has a fascination for those who would trail an impossible god-like man through a series of misfortunes to the ultimate triumph of right and justice. "The Trail Horde" deals with an attempt of a railroad and a gang of high finance crooks, protected by the state government, to corner the cattle market and force the cattle raisers to accept ruinous prices for their stock. Kane Lawler fights the combination.

ROBERT ERNEST VERNEDÉ

Robert Ernest Vernede, whose book of short stories, "Port Allington Stories and Others" as well as a collection of poems, "War Poems and Other Verses," are published by George H. Doran Company, was one of that heroic group of poets and artists whose loss at the first wave of the outstanding tragedies of the war. Unlike the great majority of his fellows, Mr. Vernede was no longer a young man when he entered the service. A man of settled habits and an established literary reputation, a man of home and family who nevertheless responded with out hesitation to a call he might have been excused from hearing.

IS WOMAN'S WORK

Although the critics are still at sea as to the authorship of "In the Mountains," one thing all readers agree—that the author must be a woman. The point of view, the satiric sweetness and playfulness of the irony are so distinctively feminine. Who but a woman would express such an amused tolerance of bores?

"As for bores, persons who obviously are bores, they don't bore me, they interest me. It is so wonderful to me, their unawareness that they are bores. Besides, they are usually very kind; and also, shameful though it is to confess, bores like me, and I am touched by being liked, even by a bore."

F. SCOTT FITZGERALD

F. Scott Fitzgerald has taken possession of Chicago. Mr. Fitzgerald's popular novel, "This Side of Paradise," was officially recorded as the book of fiction most in demand in the Windy City, and second among the most sought-for books at the public libraries. It is now announced that Mr. Fitzgerald's new book of short stories, "Flappers and Philosophers," has outstripped "This Side of Paradise." "Flappers and Philosophers" tops the current list of books in demand in Chicago. Both books are published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

WILLA CATHER

Willa Cather has spent the summer abroad, mostly in the south of France, at Marseilles, Bordeaux and the smaller towns.

FREDERICK NYVEN, whose "A Tale That Is Told," has won a wide attention.

Two Good Books For Girl Readers

Here is a book to give to the little girl who may be inclined to be a snob, and what little girl does not feel the temptation at some time in her school life? "Elizabeth, Her Folks," is a story of a visit to Cape Cod, where the relatives are not so "high set up" as those left behind, and of the efforts of a child to impress them.

After a party and a series of merry adventures Elizabeth learns her lesson and has a rare good time, all of which will be relished by the young reader. She settles a lover's quarrel and brings enough happiness to make her visit forever blessed.

Another book that takes up Elizabeth's adventures after she returns home presents some "fascinating puzzles." There was Joan, who acted so strange until secrets were cleared up. Boy friends are found hard to manage, but, again, the gay times and childish adventures come to the rescue. "Elizabeth, Her Folks," is as gay and wholesome as the other and either one, or the two, would make a splendid gift for a girl.

"Elizabeth, Her Folks," and "Elizabeth, Her Friends," by Barbara Kay; New York, Doubleday, Page & Co., $1.75 each.

"Paradise Bend," William P. White

When Tom Loudon, "just cow-puncher," volunteered to clean up the dirtwork on an 88 Ranch he undertook a no easy job. The story of his adventures, set in an atmosphere of gun-and-horse play, is one to occasion the startled gasp and to evoke more than one chuckle. For Tom is a witty adventurer, a cowboy of the romantic school and one to delight the reader of Western fiction.

It may be said that Tom, like all other heroes of cowboy stories, is in love with the daughter of the ranch owner. The course of his love story is rather twisted by the activities of the cattle rustlers, but through them comes his opportunity to fight for the boss and the daughter of the boss.

"Paradise Bend" is a tale of crooked trails and straight-shooters and one which contains some real men of the plains. William Patterson White, who is known for his "Hidden Trails," has always mixed in a happy-go-lucky spirit of daring and humor that make his stories Western writers who have lived on the plains.

"Paradise Bend," by William Patterson White; New York, Doubleday, Page & Co., $1.90.

What would most young writers not give to be trained by such a master as John Galsworthy. One's reading of Dorothy Easton's, one's ideas discussed, and one's writing criticized by one of the finest of living writers. This was the unusual and fortunate experience of Miss Dorothy Easton, whose "The Golden Bird" has just been published in this country. Miss Easton was living in Dresden, a girl of eighteen, when she first met Mr. Galsworthy. During an illness of hers he became interested in the young writer and out of gratitude sent her his first story. He began to encourage me and lent me my first Turgenev—which was a big first to the life of a new idea—simplicity of language. From that time on I read only the books he lent me, and I sent him everything I wrote. My visits later were and are my greatest joy."

SUNSET

Calvin Johnson, Badger Clark, Beatrice Mantle, Wilbur Hall, Edgar Hampton, Will James, Lydia M. O'Neil, and Winona Godfrey with their writing and drawing aid to make the November Sunset a notable issue. Johnston's contribution is a story in which the difference between sport and adventure is shown in effective and humorous manner. Torrey Connor of Oakland has an article on "The Boy," and there are a number of verses of an appealing flavor.

ERNEST THOMPSON SETON

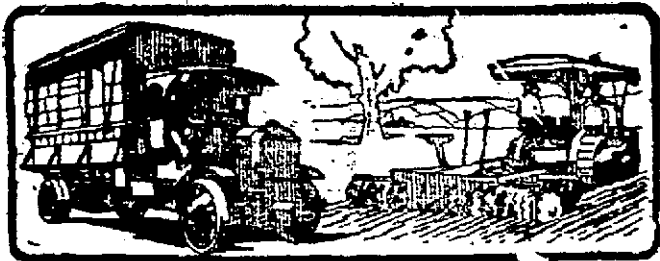

That Ernest Thompson Seton, the naturalist, is still as popular as ever with young readers is indicated by the fact that The Century Co. has just sent to press for the sixteenth time his fascinating story of wild animal life, "The Biography of a Grizzly." The book contains many unusual illustrations by the artist-author, and decorations and a cover design by the author's wife and greatly to its attractiveness.

'CALAVERAS LAKE TRIP' SUGGESTED AS A PICTURESQUE TOUR

ROUTE TO RED BERRIES IS LOGGED

By JIM HOULIHAN

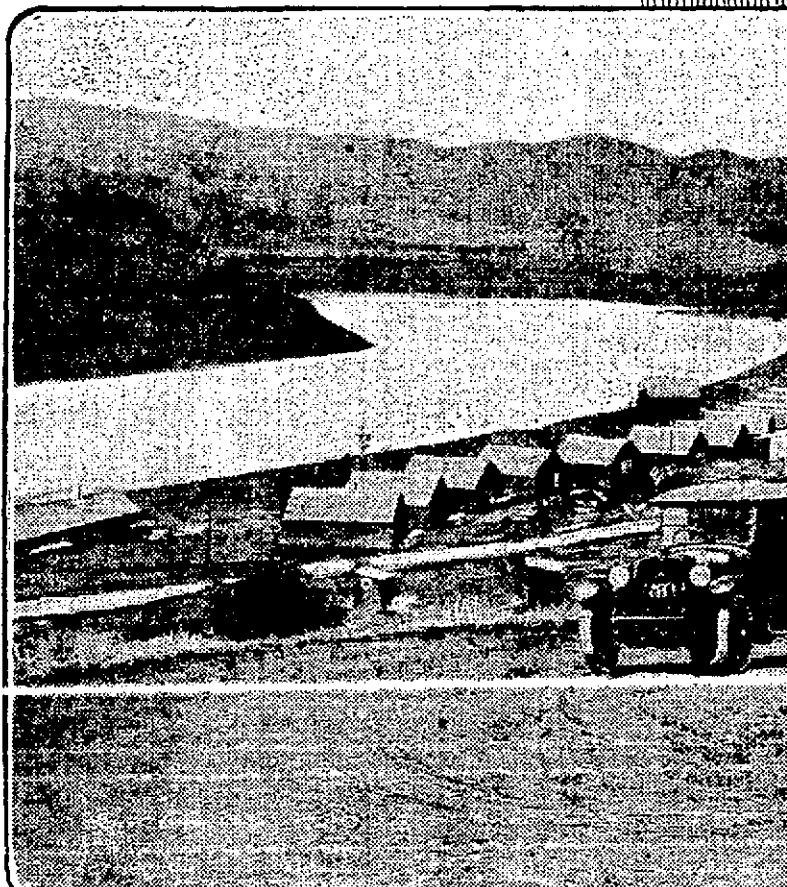

For those who like to indulge in "close-to-home" touring during the fall months there is no more attractive half-day run than what may properly be termed "The Calaveras Lake Trip." In detailed fashion the route is shown by the adjoining map. The journey combines enough variety in driving, over concrete highways and then changing to a winding dirt road and down easy grades, to break the monotony of a run which might become uninteresting were only the hills to be considered.

Added satisfaction will come from this outing in a few weeks when red berries are abundant because along the road, and in many places near the route of travel bushes flourish which are loaded with holiday decorative berries. This item appeals to every family possessing motor cars for as Thanksgiving Day approaches the hunt for red berries will start.

Using a Chandler touring car furnished by the E. L. Peacock Auto company and driven by E. E. Westergreen, the TRIBUNE Touring Bureau logged today's map. The experience of the map-making crew proves that the run should be made in dry weather and that on a rainy day it is well to keep away from the hill roads around Calaveras Lake. The path-finding trip happened to occur on a Sunday when rain fell heavily back of Mission Peak. The moisture converted usually good roads into a muddy slime which made cautious driving essential to safety. On a day of sunshine the most critical driver would vote the road to be unsurpassed by any of its kind.

START FROM TRIBUNE
Starting from The TRIBUNE building the usual route is taken out East Twelfth to East Fourteenth streets as far as San Leandro, then to San Lorenzo Junction where a right turn is made onto the new county highway. In the order named: San Lorenzo, Mt. Eden, Alvarado, Centerville and Irvington are entered and passed. This country road will please everyone traveling on it. It is wider than the state highway which starts at Hayward and runs through Niles and Mission San Jose. At Warm Springs the county and state highways join and the tourist continues his itinerary to Milpitas. Just as this old California town is reached a sharp turn to the left is taken at the Shell Oil station. By following the map closely the motorist will avoid road forks, right and left, until the Calaveras road, which is plainly marked, is met. Along the way one will see what is claimed to be the first hotel erected in California. An issue of The TRIBUNE Automotive Section several months ago contained an interesting story of the early history of this pioneer hostelry. The romance attached to it is one which native Californians, familiar with its history, like to tell.

After traveling a short way on the Calaveras road the first view of the Calaveras valley and the hills beyond come into sight. The view very

THE CALAVERAS LAKE TRIP—DESTINED TO BECOME one of the most popular short trips in the winter season for eastbay cities motorists. A Tribune-Chandler car furnished by the E. L. Peacock Auto Company and driven by E. E. Westergreen charted the route best described by the story of the trip and the adjoining map.

Sanction Should Be Withheld On Coming Race

Promoters who are desirous of staging a hundred-mile automobile race on the Santa Rosa dirt track have applied through the California State Automobile Association for an A. A. A. sanction. In view of the unfortunate ending of the last race on the Santa Rosa dirt track, the California State Automobile Association is reluctant to sanction the race. The promoters claim that the race will be held on a new track, but the association is concerned about the safety of the race. The race is scheduled for December 1st.

HIGHWAY IS PLEDGED AID BY AUTOISTS

That the motorists of California will give their enthusiastic support to the advancement of Lincoln highway project is the confident hope of the officials of the Lincoln Highway Association, who are spending the week in San Francisco in the interest of the great highway. C. S. Hoag, acting field secretary of the association, heads the delegation of notables who are touring the cities along the proposed route of the Lincoln road to arouse further interest in the project.

"When completed the Lincoln highway will present an unbroken stretch of well-paved road from New York City in the East to San Francisco in the West. It will be the first and greatest cross-country trade route and will link the country together as it never has been linked before," declares Hoag.

"In constructing this highway, we hope to do more than build a good road; we hope to set a standard for good road construction that will be copied all over the nation. It will do more to stimulate good road building from ocean to ocean than any other one thing, except the automobile itself."

"We are concerned principally with the development of good roads which will make transcontinental motor travel safe and pleasant. The Lincoln highway seems to us the soundest and most feasible plan to complete a highway from New York to San Francisco. We are going to keep working until we have a hard-surfaced highway from one coast to the other, and in this work we solicit the support of the California motor-

Huge Auto Deliveries Are Made 1,079,067 Is Record of 1920

During the first eight months of 1920, from January to the end of August, the total number of automobiles which were either shipped or driven away from 124 motor car manufacturers members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and from the Ford Motor company, which is a non-member, was 1,079,067, according to compilations based upon the figures by J. S. Marvin, general traffic manager of the N. A. C. C. For the half year the detailed statement of the monthly shipments is as follows:

January	25,587	February	25,505	March	29,325
April	17,147	May	21,277	June	23,516
July	23,004	August	23,270	Total	1,079,067

These motor cars were shipped either in regular and freight cars, open cars, equipped cars, and also in enclosed freight cars, and the average number of vehicles making up a carload is figured at 24. Thus it is probable that the total number of automobiles shipped by rail was 628,644.

Machines driven away—January, 25,283; February, 43,719; March, 57,273; April, 56,531; May, 74,256; June, 60,746; July, 62,163; August, 33,250. This made a total of 416,644.

Machines shipped by boat—June, 32,507; July, 8702; August, 10,951; a total of 52,160.

Thus during the first eight months of the year a total of 1,079,067 automobiles left factories. Complete reports for September are not yet ready, but indications are that they will show a decrease of about 15 to 20 per cent from the August records. October, from present indications, will show a decided increase over September. While there was a noteworthy slackening at many plants, it is generally believed that the crisis is over, and as a matter of fact the situation is regarded as generally improving.

INDIA IMPORTS CARS

From April to July, inclusive, 5195 motor vehicles were reported to have been imported into India, of which 4115 came from the United States. Imports from Canada 510, Italy 35 and France 19.

Road Work Will Go Ahead Voters Want More Highways

By BURTON A. TOWNE
Former State High Commissioner.

We had $40,000,000 worth of unexpended bonds—now we will have roads. This in a few words is the result of the passage of Amendment 5 by an overwhelming majority. It means that the State of California will maintain its position as the leading road state of the Union; that it has insured itself against possible unemployment in 1921; that the smaller counties relieved of heavy interest burdens will be enabled to

SAMPLE CAR IS SENT TO ALL DEALERS

Announcement has been made that the price of the Nash Four, with cord-tire equipment, will be $1395. C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Company, made the declaration at a sales meeting of distributors at the Kenosha factory. This price applies to the five-passenger touring car and the two-passenger roadster, no selling figures having as yet been set on the five-passenger sedan and three-passenger coupe. The car, like the Six of the same make, has two features—unusual power, due to its valve-in-head motor, and beauty of design.

Sample cars are being shipped to distributors throughout the country this week. In outlining the method of distribution to be followed, C. B. Voorhis, vice-president and general sales manager, said: "It will be our policy after each distributor has had his sample car to send sample cars to each one of the 1800 dealers in the country, and we will not give any dealer or distributor a second four-cylinder car until all dealers have received their first sample car." The Nash four-cylinder car factory at Milwaukee is now entering regular production. Just a few weeks more than a year ago the site occupied by the plant was a large farm. With the disappearance of the farm house and barns, construction of the first of the series of saw-tooth steel and concrete buildings was begun. Through-out the cold and snow of last winter work on the Nash Four plant progressed. Switch tracks were laid, long concrete receiving and loading platforms were built, and by spring machinery of all descriptions began to arrive.

NEW CAR TO BE SEEN IN SPRING

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Owing to John N. Willys' interest in both companies some confusion seems to exist in the trade concerning operations of Willys-Overland and the Willys Corporation. These are two separate and distinct companies. The Willys-Overland Company, as heretofore, manufactures Overland and Willys-Knight cars at the company plant now nearing completion at the plant near Lansing, Mich. The Willys Corporation, and will be known as the Chrysler Motor Company division of the Willys Corporation. This will be devoted to the production of these cars is scheduled in the spring of 1921.

Building operations at the Willys Corporation's Elizabeth, N. J., plant are progressing and have reached huge proportions. The main assembly building, a four-story structure, 1140 feet in length, is completed and "ready for" installation of machinery. Structural iron work and concrete work on the great shipping and receiving sheds was completed during the past week. Walter Chrysler's reputation as a production genius and the location of the huge plant in eastern territory have caused unusual interest in the trade, both as to production and plans.

Truck Expert May Join Detroit Firm

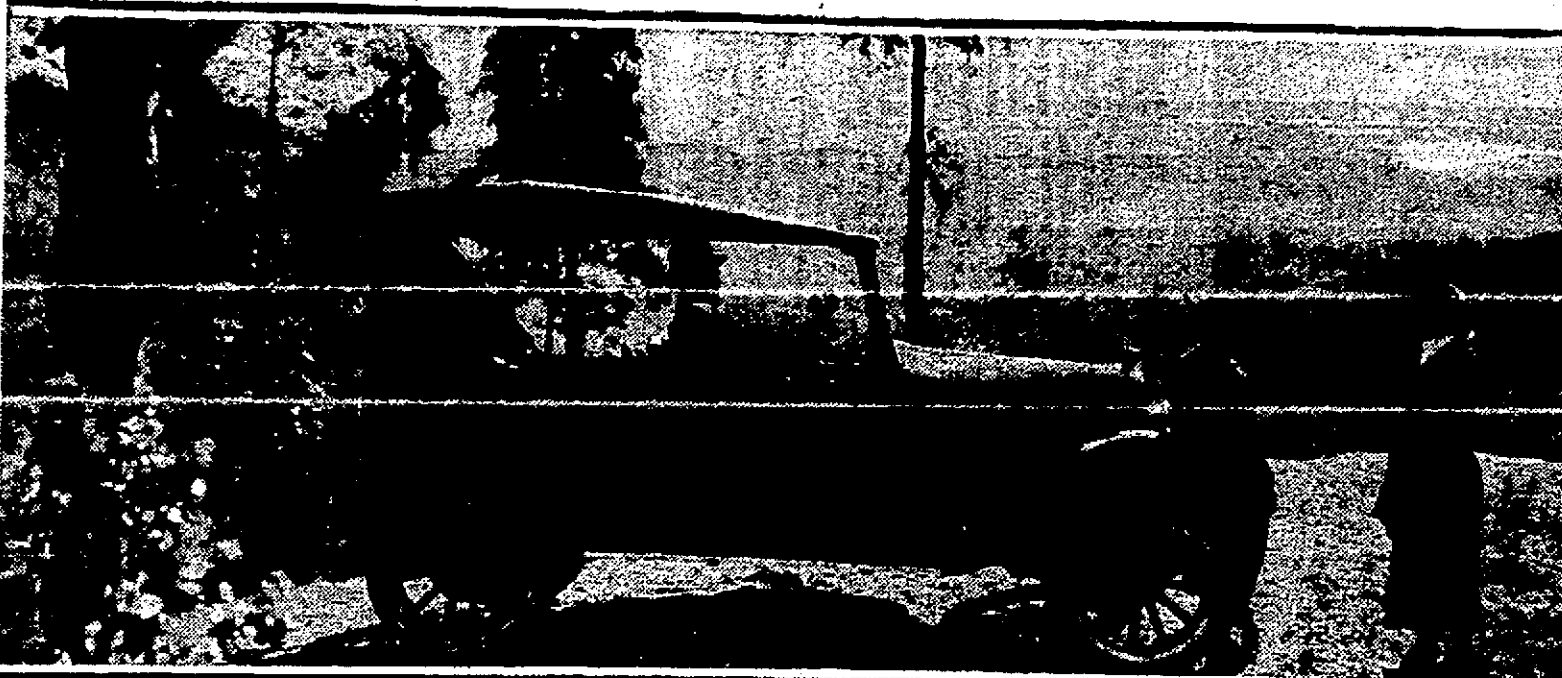

C. S. Pike, vice-president in charge of truck sales of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company, who resigned that position a few weeks ago, has not as yet announced his future plans, but it is understood another Detroit truck concern is negotiating with him.

Advertising Consul Delays Coast Trip

E. LeRoy Feltner, advertising counsel for the Reo Motor Car Company, who winters in California, will not leave for the coast this year until after the Chicago show, due to business interests which demand his presence in the east up until that time.

STITCH IN TIME APPLIES TO TIRE

The "stitch in time saves nine" idea can be applied to keeping tires in good condition as well as clothes. Many an innocent little tread cut if not attended to promptly will in time become the source of an unexpected blowout.

Look your "rubber" over at regular intervals, advise the experts of the Miller Rubber Company. Whenever you see a place where a stone or piece of glass has cut into the tread attend to it without further delay. The first thing to do in this case is to clean the cut out with gasoline to get out any dirt or other impurities that might hurry along the tire decomposition.

Next fill in the cut with cement or putty made specially for this purpose. Be sure the car and all the cracks or crevices which may lead into it are firmly wadded with the putty. Let the mended place dry thoroughly, so that the cement may become properly hardened before using the car, if this delay is possible.

SLEEPY QUAKERS MOVE SLOW
Motor ambulances, fire engines, police patrols and other motor emergency vehicles in Philadelphia are now compelled to slow down their speed and comply with the municipal traffic laws.

SERVICE AIDS DEALERS GET MORE TRADE

It is a well established axiom in the automobile business that the distributor or dealer who builds up a strong service department first and then goes after the business will invariably get a lot more of it than the man who neglects the service end of his plant in an immediate effort to produce sales.

The same principle is true in even greater extent in the battery business, declares Percy S. Seales, general manager of the Mirk-Seales Company, handling Westinghouse batteries.

TRACTOR MARKET IS GOOD
In Canada as a result of the rapid growth of agriculture in the Saskatchewan, farmers have spent $5,000,000 for new tractors this year.

'ROLLING STONE' TRUTH PROVED

In Akron, Ohio, there are 214 arguments to prove that it doesn't pay a man to be a "rolling stone"—to jump from one job to another at frequent intervals all during his life.

These arguments are "living" arguments. They are members of the 29-Year-Service-Order of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, each having completed 29 years of employment with the company.

Every one of the "veterans" who has completed two decades of work with the Goodrich now holds a responsible position with the company, doing the kind of work which his long experience best fits him for.

SPEED DELIGHTS MOVIE ACTRESS

"Sweet Daddy, I could die doing this," said Fritz Ridgeway, a daring star in Western Pictures, when she and Roscoe Sarles, former race driver, stopped averaging better than eighty-two miles per hour in a Duesenberg motored Roamer sport model over the new $1,000,000 race course of the Los Angeles Speedway Association at Beverly Hills early last week.

"I have tried many 'thrillers,'" said Miss Ridgeway, "in connection with my work in pictures, but they have become so commonplace that I take them as a day's work and look forward constantly to the day when I may find something new for excitement."

During the present season Sarles has driven in many races over the various speedways from coast to coast, with more or less success in such cars as were available, but recently he was fortunate enough to obtain another car equipped with a Duesenberg motor, which he will drive for the remainder of the season.

Will Come to Coast After Chicago Show

Hugh Chalmers, who is busy with re-organization work at the Chalmers Motor Company factory in Detroit, will not leave for California this winter until after the Chicago show in February, and will stay on the coast for about six weeks only. He will not open his home in Pasadena as he has not yet decided to do so.

Many of the "vets" are foremen or department managers—some of excellent experience. Each is convinced that sticking to one job pays.

SKIDDING DANGER IN RAINY SEASON CITED BY DEALER

With the first rains at hand, the skidding danger becomes greater every week. This is no season for driving around on tires that are worn smooth, unless you don't care whether you skid or not," warns Frank Busse, Brunswick tire distributor.

"Right now is the time to stow away old tires which have treaded out or worn so that the fabric is exposed to the road, and in their place use unbroken treads until the rainy season has passed. Water, through capillary attraction, soaks chemical action, which loosens the layers of both rubber and fabric. It is also a well known fact that rubber cuts more easily when it is wet than when it is dry because of the softening effect of the water."

Truck Company Head Is Reported Changed

It is reported, but not confirmed, that Walter E. Flanders is now in control of the All-American Truck Company, of Chicago.

Convertible Body Is New Auto Wrinkle

The convertible body, built to fit any chassis, is among the new things in the automobile industry. It can be made into a runabout, a coupe, a limousine, or an open touring body with a Victoria top. It is possible for one person without trouble, to convert from one type to another in a short time.

AUTO ENGINE WORKS LIKE HUMAN BEING

The automobile engine is much like the human being in one particular, its fundamental well being is largely dependent on a respiratory system. By this expression we mean that part of its mechanism that has to do with breathing in of the fuel vapor and with the expelling of the burned gases after combustion has taken place. The respiratory function of the engine is controlled by the valves. If the valves which permit the fuel to enter the combustion chamber do not perform their work properly much of the power of the motor will be lost. Again it is just as important to get the burned gases out of the combustion chamber, for their continued presence in the combustion chamber will contaminate the fresh fuel. Granting, then, the importance of the valve system, a brief study of the unit, its common failings and how to remedy them may be interesting and helpful.

VALVE GEAR TYPES.

To begin with there are five definite types of valve gears. The most popular type consists of a single camshaft, operating push rods, which directly control the valves. This is the type that is used on L-head engines, by far the commonest type of power plant. The next type is the valve-in-head, which means that the valves are located in the heads of the cylinders, the operation being achieved by means of vertical rods and rocker arms. These rocker arms are merely pivoted levers, operated from vertical rods, which extend up from a push rod, driven by an ordinary camshaft. The next valve type is known as the T-head, which operates on the same principle as the L-head, but has two camshafts, one for intake and the other for exhaust valves. The fourth type also has valves in the heads of the cylinders, but the camshaft is placed on top of the cylinders instead of being in the crankcase. The final type is the sleeve valve, which are simply parts in sliding sleeves which are actuated by eccentric shafts, corresponding to the camshafts of ordinary practice.

HOW VALVES OPERATE.

Most car owners understand something of the way in which valves are operated, but we shall describe the operation briefly. The camshaft is geared to the crankshaft, and as it revolves the cams are brought into contact with the valve lifter, which is a cylinder bit of steel, moving up and down in a guide. As the lifter is forced upward it pushes the valve open, against the resistance of a spring. When it reaches its limit of upward movement it sinks down again and the spring closes the valve. Obviously the position and size of the cams and other parts of the valve gear must be accurately determined to keep the valve open for just the proper length of time. Also the valves must open at exactly the right instant in relation to the position of the piston. It will be evident that wear in certain parts of this valve system will cause derangement of the entire operation of the respiratory system of the engine. The modern tendency in engine design is to keep the entire valve mechanism exposed to a perpetual spray of oil. In some designs pipes are provided, but in others the valve system is located inside the crankcase, where it gets splash lubrication from the connecting rods. As a result of this tendency the wear and consequent noisy operations of the valve system, which used to be almost universal, have been largely eliminated. Nevertheless the average car owner does not give his valve system the care, or rather watching, that it needs, and small things often develop into big failures for lack of a small attention at times.

EXCESSIVE OIL PACKAGE.

For instance, it is not uncommon to find an excessive leakage of oil down the sides of the valves. This is caused by wear of the valve stem or stem guide, usually brought about by insufficient lubrication. Something may have prevented oil from getting in the mechanism and the result has been excessive and rapid wear. Or the condition may be caused by the fact that the valve is pushed sideways whenever it is raised because of a bent stem, a worn tappet, or stem bottom. It frequently happens that the stem will be struck at one point only, inducing excessive side thrust, wearing the valve stem guide. When the guides have been worn in this way it is possible to ream them out and fit the valves with oversize stems. An alternate repair is to fit bronze bushings in the guides if these are not already used. Whenever the valves are taken out for any reason they should be examined for bent stems and for play in their guides. In inspecting the stems it is best to use a steel square, as the eye often fails to detect a slight bend.

Another valve trouble is wear of the tappets, which causes a slapping in their guides, a very annoying condition. The existence of which may be detected by shaking the tappet with the fingers after the spring pressure has been removed. The methods of overcoming this slapping are almost as many as the number of tappet assemblies and in some cases a new unit is necessary.

One of the commonest of the valve failures is worn cams. The worn cam slaps against its follower, and worse still it alters the lift of the valve. This has the effect of shutting off part of the fuel supply of the engine or of reducing the time for scavenging, so that all the burned gases cannot escape from the combustion chamber. The only remedy for this condition is to install a new camshaft.

In making adjustments in the valve gear system, the work should always be carried out while the parts are hot. They run hot when the engine is operating and if adjustments are made when they are cold the expansion that occurs after the metal is heated may spoil the whole adjustment.

Valves cannot do their work properly unless they are seating accurately. This means grinding when necessary. When grinding the valves and seats do not forget to give the springs a little attention. See that all of them are straight and that the valve springs are all of equal length. The exhaust set should be a little longer, probably, than the inlet set, because they exert a greater pressure.

MOONLIGHT AUTO RIDES ARE JOYFUL

Get out and use your automobile these wonderful fall days and nights. To be sure it is a little cold at night, but put on the overcoat, with the gloves pulled up around the arms and go to it. You will be surprised how much better the air is at night when it is cold and cool and bracing. And best of all it has been moonlight most of the week. You have no idea how wonderful the bay cities look in the soft light of Mr. Moon. One of the wandering places of the motorists these days is the hills in Berkeley and Northbrae. The roads are all good and a wonderful view can be had from the heights.

Another trip that suggests itself these nights is that to the heights, the home of the famous poet, Joaquin Miller, back of Oakland. W. M. Murdock, manager of the Early Sales and Garage Company, selling agents for the Lexington car in this part of the country, sent a car pathfinding the other day and the party found some things in Oakland and the Eastbay cities that were unknown to them before. They found that these nights are wonderful for motor bunning, and that it is a lot of fun just to get into the car and drive, no one cares where.

There is a lot to be seen here in the Eastbay cities and there are a thousand and one of us who do not know about the beauties of their own cities.

Why Hudson Stands First Among All Fine Cars

It needs no admission from Hudson that there are great cars, other than the Super-Six, holding and deserving the confidence of owners.

Fine materials, careful supervision and accurate workmanship are no monopoly with Hudson. And wherever practiced the sure reward is a loyal following with faith in that car.

Yet how account for the differential which is so overwhelmingly evident in the preference for Hudson?

We know that ever since the Super-Six was brought out, nearly five years ago, it has outsold all other fine cars.

We know that Hudson owners who ever change to ownership of another make are few. We know that thousands of Hudson owners have found such abiding contentment in their cars, year after year, that they are not even curious to investigate another car.

These circumstances point unmistakably to Hudson's possession of a monopoly that men hold vital. That is the Super-Six motor. No other maker can use it. Hudson invented and controls it.

When we consider that the Super-Six motor accounts for all Hudson's unmatched records for endurance, speed and acceleration, as well as for the freedom from service troubles which is so distinctive a feature of Hudson ownership, it is surprising that it has proved too great an advantage for any other car to overcome, in winning this great following among fine cars, and holding their unwavering faith?

DISTRIBUTOR FOR TRUCKS, CARS CHOSEN

The Lou H. Rose company has been appointed distributor in the northern California territory for the Maxwell line of cars and trucks, according to announcement made here yesterday by the Maxwell-Chalmers factory.

Rose will handle the Maxwell line in conjunction with the Chalmers, which he has marketed so successfully here for years past, the award of the second line manufactured by the big Detroit automobile company being by way of recognition for the successful work done by the local automobile concern in the years past.

Rose is now considered one of the really big members of the nationwide Maxwell-Chalmers distributor organization, and the company in appointing him to market the second line of the concern is paying a fine tribute to his ability as an organizer and merchandiser.

CENTER ON ACTIVITY

The eyes of the big men in the automobile world have been centered on the activity shown by the newly reorganized Maxwell-Chalmers organization for some time past, and the verdict of the company and its plans since the establishment of the new regime at the factory has been most favorable.

With Walter Chrysler at the helm as general manager and A. E. Barker as director of sales, the company is making a phenomenal showing, and the evidence of its forward strides toward leadership in the American automobile field is shown by such moves as the establishment of sound business policies, appointment of stronger dealer and distributor representation, and the putting of greater value into the cars that they market.

The Lou H. Rose organization here, under the direction of Manager J. L. Bramble, is already making its plans to put over the Maxwell line in the same manner that has characterized the marketing of the Chalmers in the past.

CALLS CONFERENCE

Rose called a conference of his executives and outlined in brief his plans for the immediate future. A big organization and dealer banquet has been called for next Thursday night, the business meeting to be held on Friday following, at which time plans for the coming year will be gone into in detail.

Rose at this time will be host to close on one hundred dealers, for with the consolidation of the present Maxwell dealer organization with the present Chalmers wholesale organization, it is estimated that Rose has one of the largest and best financed dealer organizations west of Chicago.

His plans call for even more representatives, and his wholesale men are instructed to take their time, select well-financed dealers and build up the organization on a sound basis.

Dan Gilkey Promoted By Truck Company

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—H. W. Acason, president of the Acason Motor Truck Company, announces the promotion of Dan Gilkey, Pacific Coast representative, to vice-president in charge of sales and advertising. The promotion is the reward of exceptional service in the employ of the company for the last two years. Mr. Gilkey established a reputation for himself and the Acason product in the far western country.

Adolph Weske Gets Promotion in Firm

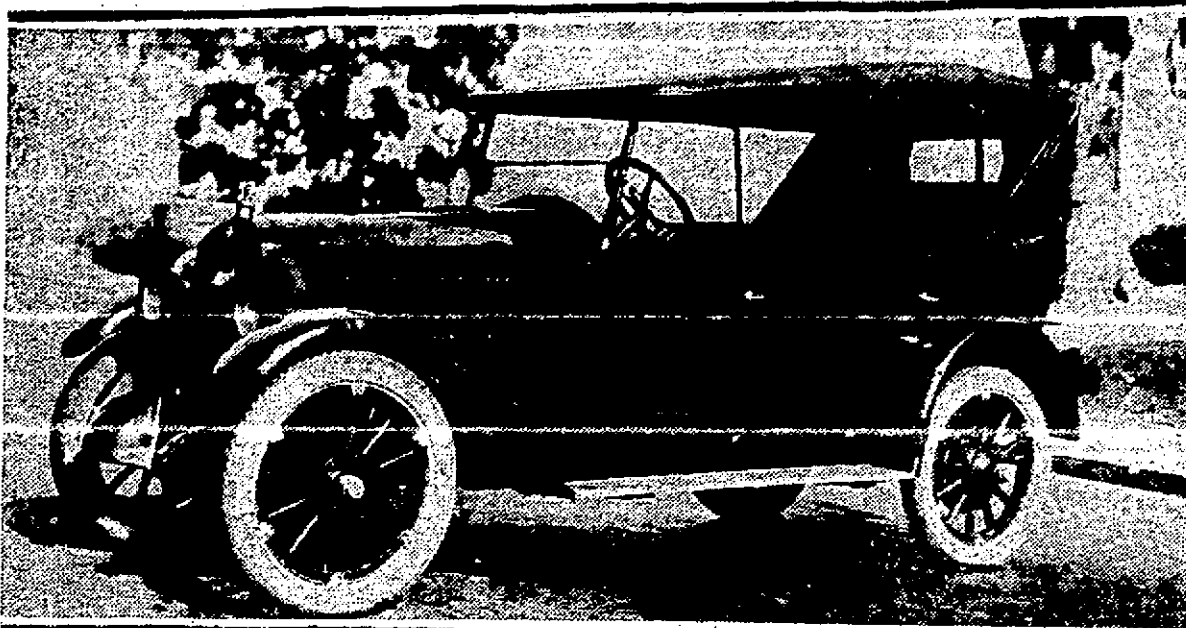

Adolph Weske, who has been identified with the Frank O. Renstrom interests here for many years and who now holds the position of assistant general manager, will have direct charge of Renstrom's retail sales department in San Francisco. Renstrom is distributor here for the Grant, Briscoe and Premier lines, and for Atterbury and Grant trucks and Twin City tractors as well.

The addition of $400,000 to the capital stock of the firm made public last week was one of the most important announcements made recently in Pacific Coast automobile circles and places the Renstrom concern on a distinctly independent basis.

Trucks Built for Special Purposes

The Motor Truck Engineering Company, of Indianapolis, has inaugurated a new idea in the automobile world, in that it will make a specialty of designing and building motor trucks for the individual requirements of the customer. Robert Descham is manager of the company.

Commuting to work via the motor car is increasing in popularity as a method of transportation, according to Lou H. Rose, Chalmers distributor for the northern portion of the state. AIRPLANE IS RIVALED BY MOTOR

When a huge De Havilland airplane recently soared through a rift of white clouds over San Francisco bay and taxied its way to the motor cars waiting to receive the United States mails it marked the last link in a noted achievement. The event was a record for the inauguration of a transcontinental air mail service which hereafter will prove indispensable in the busy life of the country.

This big plane, with twelve cylinders, left Mineola, Long Island, at 8:41 a. m. Wednesday, and arrived in San Francisco at 2:22 p. m. the following Saturday. The time it required for the flight was 4 days, 7 hours and 42 minutes.

CROSS NATION RUN

Yet only a few days previously—also an event widely heralded—an Essex four-cylinder car with the U. S. mails crossed the continent from San Francisco to New York in four days, 14 hours and 40 minutes—only seven hours and one minute longer than the time required by the monster De Havilland. The motor length of the Essex over all is only 29 1/2 inches.

When the fact is considered that the 12-cylinder airplane passed through the upper strata of atmosphere, encountering virtually no obstacles, while the Essex traversed the roughest roads, plowed for hundreds of miles through desert sand, surmounted the steep grades of the Rockies and the Sierras, slipped and slid through gumbo patches in downpours of rain and reduced speed to conform to legal restrictions in numerous cities and towns—then, and then only, does its wonderful feat become apparent. Moreover, the airplane traveled virtually in a straight line, while the Essex had to pursue a zigzag course, choosing the best routes possible, which made its course much longer.

FOUR CARS MAKE TRIP

It should also be remembered that not one, but four Essex cars accomplished the feat of breaking the previous transcontinental record, held for more than four years, which hundreds of other cars had tried to lower in vain. The value of the performance, after all, lies not in the ability of the Essex to break records, to stand terrific hammering and to exhibit consistency of performance under all conditions, but in the demonstration that under usual conditions these cars could be utilized in the U. S. mail service across the continent and there would be no break in the regular Government service.

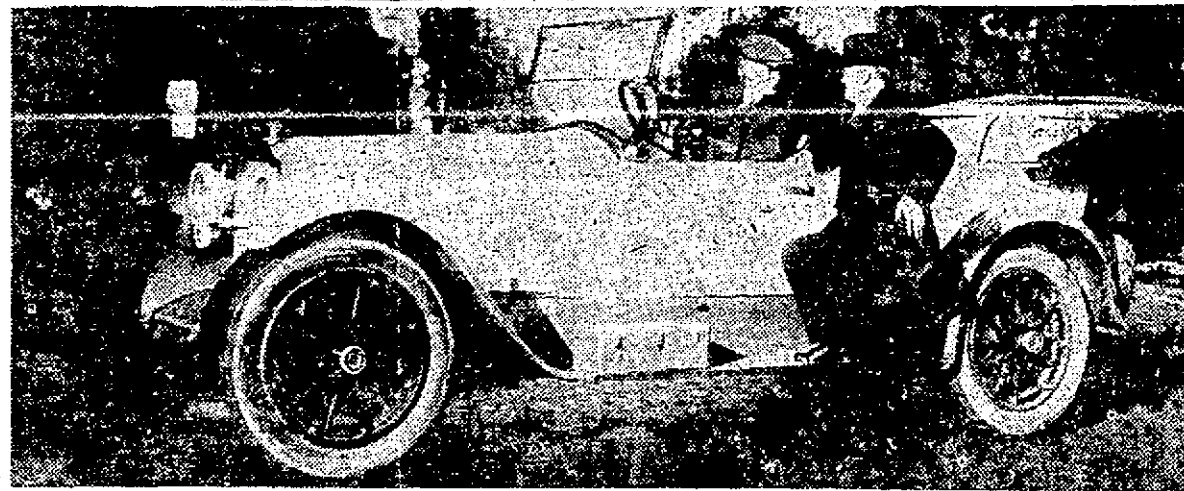

One of these four Essex transcontinental cars is now on exhibition at the display room of Hamlin & Boqua, Eastbay Hudson and Essex dealers, 2536 Broadway, where it will remain tomorrow and Tuesday. The car is in virtually the same condition as before it was called on for the transcontinental test. Everybody is welcome by the dealers to call and inspect the car for these three days.

Leper Is Living in Lonely Spot on Lake

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 6.—Nestled at the base of a hill near the shore of Lake Nagel, eight and one-half miles northeast of Grayling, there is a cottage of two rooms with a "lean-to." It appeared there just a few weeks ago. In it Marshall F. Truax, of Lansing, lives far away from every living soul except one, because he is afflicted with dreaded leprosy.

In 1888 Truax, then just a strapping, entered the American army as a volunteer in the war against Spain. After the war he remained in the

Long Distance Auto Order Made Coast Firm Has Irish Purchaser

What is believed to be a record long-distance order for an automobile was received by mail a few days ago by the Chandler firm at Santa Barbara.

The order came all the way from County Cork, Ireland, specified a Chandler four-passenger roadster and was accompanied by a deposit of $100.

The order was signed by J. T. army and was assigned to duty in the Philippines. There he contracted leprosy, which, however, did not begin to show at once. For a time he remained at the soldiers' home in Dayton, Ohio, and later he was sent to the government hospital for disabled soldiers at Milwaukee. Last February Truax returned to his home here from the government hospital.

Bomphrey of St. Aubyns, Monks-town. It did not, however, specify "delivery in Ireland," for which the Irishman was very thankful, but did instruct the dealer to "have the car ready for delivery to me the latter part of November."

"All of which goes to show," comments J. Chas. Nagel, general manager of the local Chandler interests, "that the Chandler car and California are as well known abroad as at home. Furthermore, the correspondent also shows that he has no misapprehensions regarding the predicted shortage of cars in the very near future."

To Beautify Sector Of Lincoln Highway

An art extension committee of Illinois has drafted plans for the improvement and beautification of the Lincoln Highway in the Fox River valley. It is proposed to transform this section of the highway into an elaborate park and boulevard system. Unusually billboard advertising will be eliminated. A new boulevard lighting system will be introduced.

WINTER IS TIME FOR OWN REPAIR

"With the approach of winter, the season when we expect the rain, there is always a movement among motorists to have their cars put in condition for wet weather. There are, perhaps, many small repairs jobs which the motorists can do themselves, requiring no degree of real skill.

"Our business is naturally a barometer of activity on the part of car owners," says C. M. Haskins, manager of the Western Auto Supply Agency, "for it is here that motorists purchase their tools, supplies and equipment, and we can quite easily forecast what kind of work they are doing. There is no question but that more car owners are caring for the mechanical condition of their cars than ever before in the history of local motoring.

"There are a number of motorists who adjust and repair their own cars. A great deal of pleasure is derived by keeping your automobile in the finest possible condition. "Among the many things which motorists are doing in the way of preparing for wet weather," according to Haskins, "is waterproofing their tops, recovering the old tops or putting on the new one-man handy top; painting their own cars; relining their brakes; replacing worn side chains; looking after tread cuts in tires. Any number of repair jobs, which take very little skill and not a great deal of time, may be mentioned; but the time spent in this manner is always most profitable and well spent because it all means added comfort and safety."

FALL FOUND IDEAL TIME FOR TRAVEL

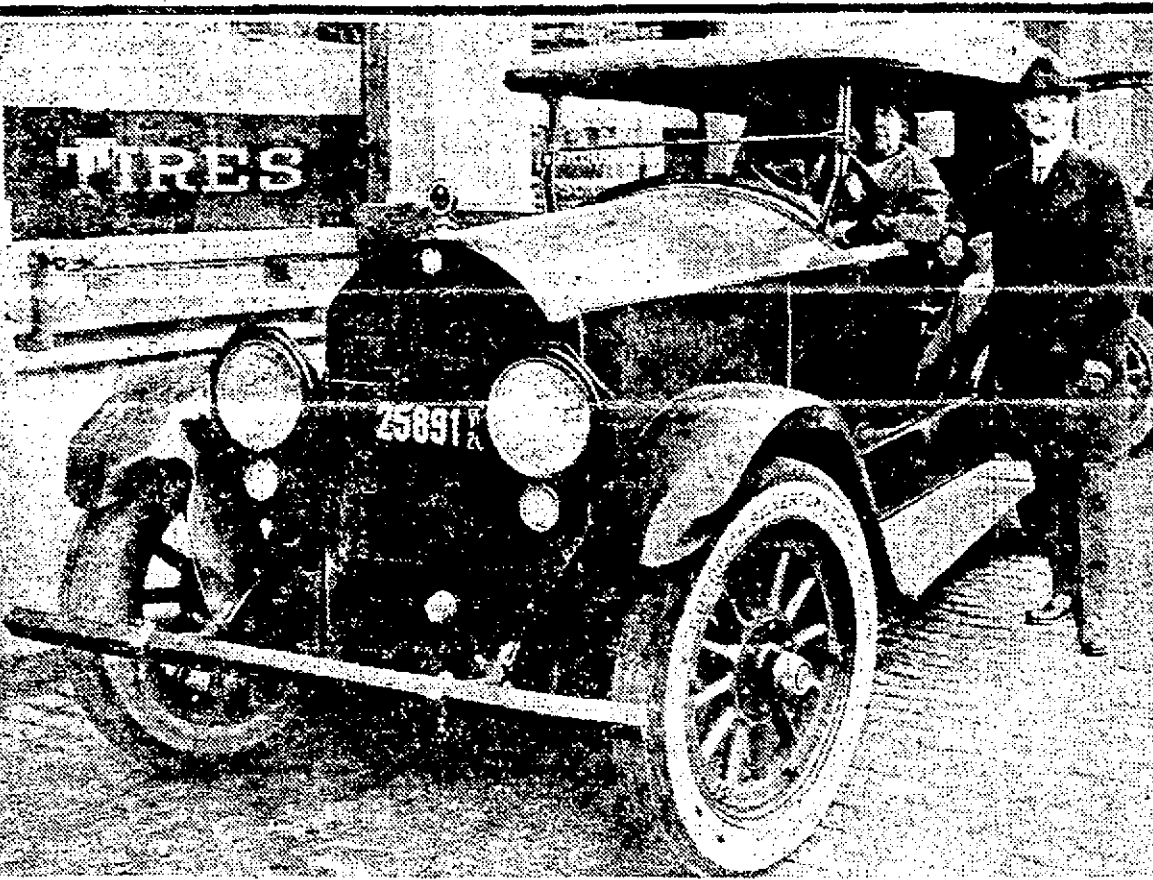

Following an itinerary issued by the Goodrich Travel and Transport bureau, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Buckley, of Milwaukee, are spending the autumn touring California and the western states in their new Cole S. The route taken was the Lincoln highway to Omaha, and the Detroit-Lincoln highway to Denver. From Denver the tourists drove to Colorado Springs, and thence off the Lincoln highway, traveling through Salida, Leadville, Glenwood Springs, Green River and Price, and on into Salt Lake City. From Salt Lake they drove south through Fillmore, St. George, Ludlow and Mojave, into Bakersfield. They followed the valley route into Oakland and San Francisco.

One of the side trips taken by the BUCKLEYS was a drive up Pike's Peak, a tour which was made in three hours' time. Buckley said this was his first mountain driving, and the steep grades and sharp curves compelled the use of low gear nearly the entire ascent.

One of the incidents of the trip recalled by Mrs. Buckley, occurred 35 miles west of Cisco. They came upon a family of nine, three adults and six children, in a five passenger car, who were stranded in the desert without gas or water or finances. It seemed that the family had bought the car with their savings and were moving to Nevada, where employment had been offered them. The BUCKLEYS gave a lift to the entire party to the nearest town, where interest in the case on the part of the local merchants enticed them from their difficulties.

"Autumn is the ideal time of year for travel in the West, we have learned," said Buckley yesterday. "The Goodrich Tour bureau advised us very correctly. We are very proud of our Cole S. for the service the machine rendered us has made us very enthusiastic. The Cole S. was equipped with Silvertown cord tires, which had given 3000 miles of service before we left Milwaukee. Except for a puncture, which we experienced only a few miles from Milwaukee, our tires gave us no trouble whatever. In fact, with the single exception of the one puncture all of them held the original air."

MR. AND MRS. W. J. BUCKLEY OF MILWAUKEE AND THE COLE AERO EIGHT SILVER-TOWN cord equipped car in which they have just reached Oakland following a trans-continental journey. They used the Lincoln highway for a good part of the distance.

DON'T BEND ENDS OF COTTER PINS

Few motorists, except the kind that never lift up the hood to take a look at what's underneath, but have struggled with that small but frequently extremely unruly item of motor-car assembly—the humble cotter pin.

Many a simple repair job is delayed a ridiculous number of minutes by a cranky cotter pin that does not seem to want to come out, and when there are a dozen such, the task grows much more provoking.

Here is a tip that Frank McCorkle, of Brush & McCorkle, Stephens distributors, offers the fix-it-yourself clan of motorists:

"After you slip a cotter pin into place, don't bend the ends over flat against the bolt or rod; this is not necessary," McCorkle explains. "The cotter will lock just as securely if the ends are spread just enough to prevent slipping out."

"When the ends are bent considerably, it is harder to straighten them out sufficiently for later removal of the pin, and, further, the ends are very apt to break off when the part is in service with the very probable result that the ill-treated cotter will slip out."

"This means, in short, that instead of excessive end-bending being an effective locking means, it is in reality no lock at all. Moderation is as much in place in motoring and motor-tinkering that goes with it occasionally as it is in any other phase of life."

BUSINESS STUDIED ON LONG JOURNEY

That the Pacific Coast tour of J. A. Bennett, assistant general manager of the Haynes Automobile Company, is just one part of one of the largest scale investigations of business conditions in the nation over that has ever been attempted by an automobile manufacturing concern, is indicated in a statement made public last week by Phillip S. Cole, California Haynes distributor.

Bennett spent an entire week with Cole in San Francisco studying Pacific Coast conditions from this central point, before following up his

CLOSED AUTO IS NOW POPULAR

This is closed car time, and many who have had touring cars or roadsters during the summer months are now ordering closed models.

Then again there are hundreds who have owned open cars in the past who have been using closed cars for all year work, including long trips through the mountains. These people find that the closed car provides year round comfort with all the joys of the open car and none of the discomforts.

"We have a car here that it is a real attention because of its unique seating arrangement," claims Wallace W. Nall, manager of Phillip S. Cole, Inc. "It is the Haynes brougham, a five-passenger car that seats its passengers comfortably. The seats are wide and comfortable, and there is enough leg room for all. The car is short coupled, in that it is not as large as the sedan."

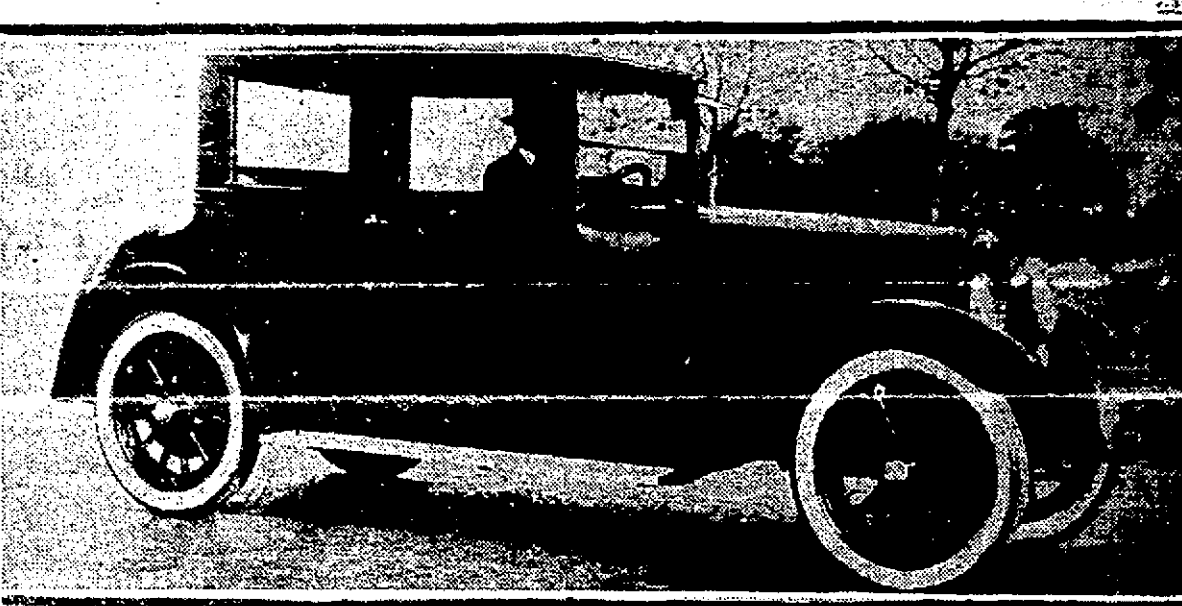

"We find that the coming of the fall and winter seasons is the signal for greater interest in the closed car than at any time during the year."

"On the other hand are the thousands all over the country who are driving closed cars all year round. They are usually old-time automobile owners who know what they want, and know that closed car comfort is an all year round proposition here."

Investigations in the other cities of the West.

"Bennett's visit is just a part of the Haynes company's plan to obtain first-hand information that is absolutely correct on conditions from one end of the country to the other."

Is kerosene a good agent for removing carbon from the cylinders? Is there any other liquid that is better?

A. Kerosene is not a very effective means of removing carbon. It may help if the deposit is light. There is no really effective liquid for removing a deposit of carbon already formed. Removal of the cylinder head and scraping is the only satisfactory method. If that is impossible have the carbon burned out with oxygen.

Once Again, We Repeat—

Save $500 or More

The New Mitchell offers sensational under-pricing

THIS is an appeal to sanity in motor-car buying, as in other buying. It is an effort to induce you to make price comparisons before you decide upon which car you want to own.

The New Mitchell has already won its place because of new-day style and dependable mechanics. No car offers its new-day lines. No car of like price—or considerably more—affords finer performance nor longer lasting newness.

So we speak here exclusively of price. We make it the main consideration. Other considerations, while tremendously important, become secondary to money value.

New-way manufacturing

THE Mitchell price policy has always been conservative. Mitchell has always sought to produce the finest possible car for the lowest possible price.

The whole Mitchell organization is imbued with this idea. Countless savings are made by building the Mitchell complete in one factory. Even bodies and tops and the like, which are ordinarily bought outside.

Mitchell not only gains a unified car from a designing standpoint, but all the profits are saved that would have to be paid to outside parts makers and later included in the price of the car.

If this New Mitchell were built the old way its price would have to be at least $500 more. That would be inevitable.

the choice of a Vanderbilt

THIS letter tells a particularly significant story. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. could have purchased, just as easily, a car costing twice or three times as much. He already owned three high-priced American cars and one of foreign make. But it was a hard trip in a strange land ahead of himself and Mrs. Vanderbilt. He had to be certain that the car in which he placed so much dependence would never fail him. His choice was the Buick!

The New York Times

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

Beverly Hills Hotel, Beverly Hills, Cal.

October, 25, 1920.

Howard Automobile Co.,
San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen:—

We have just finished a trip from Canada to Mexico in a five passenger Buick. It is with the greatest sense of pleasure that I am writing to tell you of the appreciation for your fine car. I cannot emphasize too strongly its many excellent qualities.

I have driven many makes of foreign and American machines but never had one, a stock car, that has given me such service as the Buick six. Nor have I ever been able to accomplish the seemingly impossible with any other machine in my life.

Our total mileage reads about 2500, of which over 1500 was on unpaved and poor country roads. We were loaded down with 800 pounds of baggage and camping material.

We crossed four mountain ranges, ascending about 8000 feet in one pull and within three hours left a temperature of 92 to that of 25. We traveled miles of terrible roads on what we called the "Terrific Highway". We found mountain grades as high as 35 per cent.

The places we liked the best on the trip were Sprout Lake, Vancouver Island; the views of Ranier from Seattle and Tacoma; Mount Hood from the Columbia River Highway; the top of the Siskiyou trail; Inspiration Point in the Yosemite; the Seventeen-Mile drive in Monterey and the beautiful residential city of Los Angeles.

I believe you can read between the lines and see that all of this was made possible by travelling down the Pacific Slope in the best little car on the market. If anybody ever seeks my advice again concerning a good car for the money, I shall be glad to refer them to the Buick, for I speak from experience when I say that my car has gone many places beyond what I ever dared hope a car would do.

Very truly yours,

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

FARMERS SEE TRACTOR AT WORK HERE

The Fordson tractor demonstration staged at the Silva ranch on the Foothill boulevard near 20th avenue, proved to be a magnet that drew ranchers from every part of Alameda and Contra Costa counties. Nearly a thousand men were present and all tested the various types of farm machinery.

The demonstration was held under the auspices of the Ford Motor Company and the William L. Hughson Company, Fordson dealers here, and exhibitors of farm machinery. Harry Lanster and Walter Hesse of the Hughson organization directed the demonstration and the farmers were loud in their praises of the way the machinery operated. It showed the various uses of all sorts of machines that can be used with tractors, and included everything that a farmer does with power.

This demonstration differed from the usual exhibitions that have been given, in that not only plowing and ditching are engaged in, but likewise mowing, spraying, ensilage cutting, wood sawing and numerous other forms of showing the Fordson tractor working on the belt in addition to preparing the seed beds.

Wherever these demonstrations have been held in the state they have been pronounced a huge success by all who have been in attendance and have in every instance proven to be a matter of great education to those ranchers who are progressive and have in mind the great development of their property.

The newly designed spraying machine which is attached to the Fordson is claimed an unusual amount of attention on the part of the orchardist, in that a complete demonstration is given of spraying with this unique attachment.

The Otwell mowing machine, which receives its power direct from the tractor, likewise caused favorable comment from those who have need of this kind of a machine, as it absolutely replaces the use of horses for mowing purposes.

The factory men present were J. Dunn and A. Branson of the Ford Motor Company, several representatives of the William L. Hughson Company, Lee O. Beard of the Oliver Chilled Plow Works, Charles Bioprey of Swayne-Robinson Company, manufacturers of hay balers and ensilage cutters; Hiram Walker of the Stover Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of feed grinders and wood saws; Patrick Lynch of the American Machine Company, representative of the Bean Spraying Company, and others.

Robert W. Martland, secretary of the California and Alameda County Automobile Trade Association, was also an interested spectator. Martland has just returned from a trip through the southern part of the state.

Spark From His Pipe Burns Load of Wood

SACO, Mont., Nov. 6.—John Franklin, farmer of this community, is swearing off pipe smoking, especially in wind storms. He went to the river near his ranch recently, got a load of wood and also stopped at his truck garden and got many other supplies for his home. He climbed on the wagon, lighted his pipe and started home.

His big windstorm came up and a spark from his pipe lighted on a pitchy piece of wood in his wagon. The wind stirred up a blaze which soon enveloped the wagon and led to loss of all of the wood and vegetables.

Nebraska Farmer Trucks His Wheat

Finding local elevators filled to capacity and unable to obtain cars in which to ship wheat, D. C. Hibbard, a Potter (Neb.) farmer, hauled 110 bushels of wheat on his two-ton truck to Omaha, 480 miles away. The trip required three days. The total expense was $22.09, or 21 cents a bushel.

A PARTIAL VIEW OF THE BIG CROWD OF SPECTATORS GROUPED AROUND THE Fordson Tractors which gave a thorough demonstration last Thursday of the varied uses for power farm machinery. The exhibitions drew many ranchers from Eastbay counties.

TRUCK BOUGHT IN 1911 STILL USED

In October, 1911, Thompson Brothers, paving contractors of Fresno, bought a 5 1/2-ton Mack truck. It has been quite a while since 1911. Roosevelt then was in Africa; the Progressive party had not been born and but very little ever had been heard of Woodrow Wilson. The paved highway mileage in the San Joaquin Valley was very restricted and rains were not the luxury they are today.

When Thompson Brothers made up their mind to buy the truck they sent Alex L. Robb, a business man in Fresno, to San Francisco to get it. Let Robb describe his experience in his own language.

"The first built most of the pavement in Bakersfield. It hauled oil seven miles away from the oil roads from the Kern River refineries, 25 barrels to the load. It hauled hot asphalt in sufficient quantities to keep three paving gangs going. It hauled 1000 yards of gravel per day out of the Kern River bottom to a job four miles away and spread the gravel. I have hauled 155 sacks of cement (9 tons) to a load, and would have hauled more except that the bridges broke down. I have pulled as many as 27 to 28 wagons behind the truck.

"Sometimes the truck would be clear around the corner of the next block before the last of the wagons came into sight. During the time the truck was in my charge it never lost a day, working Saturdays and week days. A new starting crank to replace the one we lost and four new spark plugs was the total expense on this job."

Recently Thompson Brothers added two new 3 1/2-ton Mack trucks to the "Valley Veterans" family.

HELPFUL HINTS

Q. I have a six-cylinder car and had some misfiring trouble. I tried everything to stop this trouble and it did not stop. A friend of mine suggested that it might be because the intake gets cold in front and the gas condenses. What do you think and what would you suggest?

A. Your friend may be right. A sufficiently cold air draught might chill the manifold down to such a low point that the mixture becomes half liquid. Try covering the end of the manifold with an asbestos sheet.

Q. I was fixing a spare onto the carrier and happened to look down at the exhaust pipe on my Cadillac and noticed what I first thought was raw gasoline coming out. Upon investigation I found it to be water, and I would like to know if it is a leak or can it be a regular condition in the engine.

A. It probably is not a jacket leak. Water is one of the products of combustion, and in the colder days it condenses and flies out in liquid form with the exhaust. You will find this more or less in every automobile.

Cooperation Head Voices Optimism On Autos' Future

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—To the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, William C. Durant, president of the General Motors Corporation, writes:

"The automobile industry has grown to its present size on the merit of its production combined with efficient merchandising methods. It would not be entitled to its present high position if it was not able to weather an occasional storm or readjustment such as it is passing through with other industries."

"This readjustment was a perfectly natural thing to expect at this time and when the country settles down to normal and when the present hysteria passes, our industry will be found stronger than ever. We should look forward to the usual buying enthusiasm at the shows followed by a big demand for motor cars and trucks. I am as much of an optimist on the future of the automobile industry as I ever was."

ERRORS IN MOTOR LOADING COSTLY

A costly error made by motor truck drivers is the careless loading of trucks on tires that are not properly inflated. This practice, like the overloading of tires, causes excessive wear and tear on the tires.

Eventually it means actual cash out of the pocket of the truck owner or operator.

The Firestone company of Akron is cooperating with truck operators to aid them in holding down maintenance costs by distributing to truck manufacturers a stenciled warning plate to be attached to the cowl of each truck as it leaves the factory.

The plate contains a table showing the carrying capacity of the various sized tires and giving figures for the proper inflation of each. These figures are based on computations made by the Society of Automotive Engineers.

If you see it in THE TRIBUNE tell them so.

AUTO PAPER WILL HAVE NEW EDITOR

Announcement was made here this week that B. J. Rosenthal had taken over the managing and editing of the Radiator, official publication of the California Automobile Trade Association.

The announcement came from the office of Bob Martland, secretary of the Trade Association, who returned Thursday from a trip throughout the state, and immediately plunged into active work here.

Among other announcements, Martland laid special stress on the appointment of Rosenthal to handle the magazine work, declaring that his addition to the staff of workers would materially increase the efficiency of the organization as well as further develop the association magazine to a point where it would be of increased value to the membership.

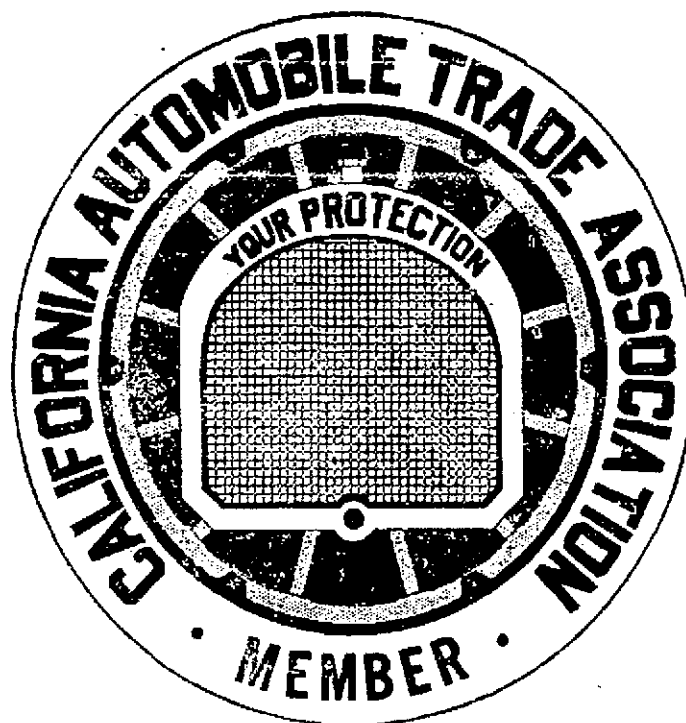

Rosenthal has had years of experience in the kind of work that he is now assuming, having spent seven years in the Chronicle editorial rooms before he assumed charge of the automobile department of Harry Elliott's San Francisco office for several years. Rosenthal has a host of friends in trade circles who wish him well in his new venture and who will go out of their way to make the new business path a pleasant one to travel.

He took to the cowl of each truck as it leaves the factory.

SERVICE

DICTIONARY:

SERVICE — "The performance of labor for the benefit of another."

NO more honorable term applied to mutual business relationship can be found than that one word "SERVICE."

SERVICE, as expressed in daily business ethics, does not contemplate the giving of "something for nothing" for no less an authority than the "Little Book" teaches us that "Every laborer is worthy of his hire" and SERVICE.

efficient, timely and courteous, must find its compensation.

One fallacy only too common nowadays is the idea that SERVICE is best expressed when coupled with the word "free."

Nothing could be farther from the real meaning and application of the term.

Little that is "free" is of value (in business), but all true SERVICE is both desired and valuable.

The mutuality of REAL SERVICE is best expressed in the desire, the availability, the capacity and the willingness to serve those dependent upon and appreciative of a trustworthy SERVICE courteously performed.

The millennium is neither here nor expected in the future, but that fact will not deter the down-to-date, conscientious, thinking business man from doing his bit toward reaching for that goal, or in propagating and extending a keener spirit of co-operative helpfulness and mutual confidence.

The California Automobile Trade Association—of which the local Association is a unit—firmly believes that the striving for and adherence to the above objectives and a more far-reaching sense of the real relationship which must ultimately exist between its members and the auto public can be most effectively realized in:

- the display and advocacy of reliable goods;
- the maintenance of clean and wholesome places of business;
- the upkeeping of adequate equipment;
- the employment of the very best employees possible;

The Battery That Meets Navy Requirements is—

WITH THE Dreadnaught PLATES

Bound to Make Good on Your Car

FIVE navies use Gould Storage Batteries for the same enduring qualities of Dreadnaught Plates that give power and long life to the Gould Starting Battery.

Hard plates, that hold the active material firmly, outlast soft plates, but only in the Dreadnaught Plates is this rugged hardness combined with high power delivery.

This durability is the result of direct control of all the factors of manufacturing—even to the production of the vitally important lead-oxide. Such care is found only in the Gould plant.

Have your next battery a Gould—there's one for your car. Meantime, get the most out of your present battery by using our expert Gould Service regularly.

NINETY MILE CLIP JIM'S NEW STUNT

A favorite stunt of Jim Gray, local manager of the Walter M. Murphy Motor company interests, in demonstrating the new Lincoln, is to take unsuspecting passengers over the Skyline boulevard in high gear at thirty miles an hour. He took some automobile men on the other day and when they were ready, from fear, to leap from the car.

Then to make the demonstration real, he drove them down the Thornhill grade, which is badly cut up now by water breaks, at twenty-five miles an hour.

The Lincoln takes this rough going like a master, with ease. Gray has not yet tested the car for speed because he cannot find a place where can let it out to its limit.

HUNDREDS RIDE IN CAR. Hundreds of motor car enthusiasts have ridden in the Lincoln since its arrival and the reception has been most gratifying, declares Gray. "We have had a constant crowd around the Lincoln masterpiece in the rear of our salesrooms, carefully looking it over."

"Our salesrooms will be completed in the near future and then we will be able to show the car in the fine setting it deserves. The decorators are putting the finishing touches in the salesroom and they will be out shortly. Then the lighting fixtures will be installed, and I hope we will be able to move in. The car is now displayed in the service station, in the rear, with the entrance on Twenty-third street."

"The reception accorded the Lealand-built Lincoln all over the country surely proves that fine workmanship is appreciated to the fullest extent. I find that the motor fans love a clean job. The motor design is clean throughout and this applies to every part of the chassis. By clean I mean that there are no loose parts or wiring or accessories, things that mar the appearance of many other fine motor cars."

"Take a look under the hoods of some automobiles, and you find wires running everywhere."

MANY ORDERS TAKEN. Many orders have been taken in the last few weeks and we are sure that models will be on hand in the near future for delivery.

"Since the Lealand are staking their reputation on this car, they refuse to hurry one single thing about its building, and they must know that every Lincoln which leaves the plant is as nearly perfect as man can make it. The infinite pains taken at their plant, is a revelation in thoroughness, in these days of slipshod workmanship."

HELPFUL HINTS

Q. What progress has been made recently in lug construction for demountable rims? It is somewhat of a nuisance to take off the nut and lug and scatter them all around, especially at night, and sometimes a nut will fit only a specific nut, although they should fit all, being a standard thread.

A. With the exception of one design I have seen nothing new in this direction. The new design I have in mind combines a nut and lug that always stay on the felloe of the wheel, so it never will be lost. I believe it is made in New York City by the Auto Ford Car Company, the New York Lost Lug Company. If you will simply address them, Broadway, New York, I think the letter will reach them.

Q. What is the meaning of the term thermo-siphon in reference to the cooling system of a car? A. Thermo-siphon cooling is the type which does not employ a pump. It is natural circulation, due to the fact that the hot water from around the cylinders rises and displaces the cooler water above, thus inducing a natural circulation.

Sales Branch of Auto Industry Is Now Big Factor

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Automobile manufacturers now contend that for the first time in the history of the industry the sales department is being looked to as a big factor in the business. With the demand for cars greater than the supply the sales department has set sailing. Now the salesmen must get out and hustle.

Another point brought out is that with the return of sane prices and manufacturing costs, but one factor will remain as a bar to competition. This is the excess profits tax which was referred to as an excessive burden, blocking initiative in business.

There have been few new announcements during the last week of further reductions in automobile prices.

That there may be an increase in the price of the Cole is hinted in an announcement made by the Cole Motor Car Company, Indianapolis.

Jas. L. Fullerton, Joplin, Mo., says: "My 5-ton White truck makes a round trip of 63 miles each day. This truck was using 17 gallons on this trip. I installed Zelnicker Ever-Tyte Rings and this truck makes the same trip on 12 gallons."

Jones Auto Supply Co. 2505 Broadway, Oakland, Cal.

BIG YEAR FOR TRUCKS SEEN

"I honestly believe that by the early months of next year there will not be enough trucks manufactured in this country to meet the demand and that there will be a general shortage."

Such is the opinion of General Sales Manager P. H. Mallory of the Moreland Motor Truck Company.

This will not be because of any slowing down of production, Mallory declares, "but from a vastly increased demand. As to production, speaking from our own standpoint, we are planning for an output in 1921 that will more than double that of last year."

This is not sales talk, Mallory insists, "but what I believe to be a fair statement of fact, predicated upon conditions as revealed by advances from all over the country and a generally careful study of the situation. The truck has come to be a widely recognized factor in every branch of transportation, and, as such, one of the solutions of many troubles which have confronted the country in recent years."

The past two months have been the best similar months in our history, although not as big in sales as the previous months of the year when we were striving with every energy to keep somewhere in sight of orders. Yet these are always quiet months. The foreign buying is steadily increasing, which is another fact to be considered as well as the constantly increasing demand here.

From every angle from which the situation may be approached I can see but one thing, that next year is to be the biggest year for truck demand the country has ever seen and the advice 'buy early' won't be just a Christmas slogan either, as next spring will prove."

RUBBER TIRES FOR TRACTORS

Tractors and pneumatic tires. The two would hardly be suspected of association, especially since tractors are supposed to require nothing but steel tires belted with steel cleats and spikes. Why use rubber tires in plowing and cultivating?

But tire engineers are versatile, as they must necessarily be in an industry constantly offering an abundance of complex problems for solution. Not that tire companies are attempting to fit tires to all new inventions merely for the sake of selling tires but they are continually taking advantage of opportunities that offer a greater field of service to the consumer when so equipped.

Just as tire experts expedited military movements in France by fitting rubber tires to artillery wheels, so tire engineers have now adapted pneumatic tires to Fordson tractors and by so doing have greatly broadened the field in which they may work.

Tractors of this type are now fitted with Goodyear pneumatic tires, 24 1/2 in front and 40 1/2 in the rear, and so equipped, are performing excellent service in operations heretofore considered outside the pale.

U. S. RULES TO GOVERN GRAND PRIX

The mechanical regulations governing the annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last May have not only been adopted at all of the leading tracks and saucers in the United States, but will also serve as the model for the next French Grand Prix race, the first big post-war speed contest to be held in Europe, according to dispatches received from W. F. Brerly, foreign representative of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Company.

The French Grand Prix is a road race over a distance of approximately 100 miles and will probably be held in Alsace, near Strasbourg. The date has not been set, but the race probably will be held in the middle of the summer and sufficiently late to allow American cars to appear and to permit the return of the large vanguard of foreign drivers who are planning to invade Indianapolis for the next 500-mile endurance derby, which will be held on Monday, May 30, 1921.

The maximum piston displacement of cars entered in the Grand Prix will be 2-liters and the minimum weight 800 kilos, or 1763 pounds. This approximates the restrictions regulating the entries of the last Indianapolis race, when only cars of 1.5 cubic inches piston displacement, or less, with a minimum weight of 1650 pounds were permitted to roll to the tape for the start of the thrilling race won by Gaston Chevrolet in a Monroe.

Sulu Sultan Paid In Mexican Dollars

Tired of cockfighting, horse racing, bull fighting and other wild diversions, and wishing to absent himself from Jolo during the honeymoon of his sixth wife, who had eloped with the chief of police of Jolo, the young Sultan hid himself over to Borneo, encased himself in the royal palace maintained for him there and presented his bill. After the necessary diplomacy to soften the blow, the British company informed the Sultan that the best he could hope for was $6,000 Mex., which at prevailing rates of exchange is about double what he normally receives. So the Sultan came back, solaced by the fact that he has but five wives to feed now.

OPTIMISM IN AUTO TRADE HELD NEEDED

"Optimism is what business and the automotive business specially needs just now," says Frank Darling of Long Beach. "I might add," he continued, "that it also needs hard work. There is nothing the matter with business on the whole. It is simply adjusting itself. It has been coming pretty easy in some times for the past year or so, but the supply and the demand have become more nearly equal so that everybody who has anything to sell has got to get out and sell it."

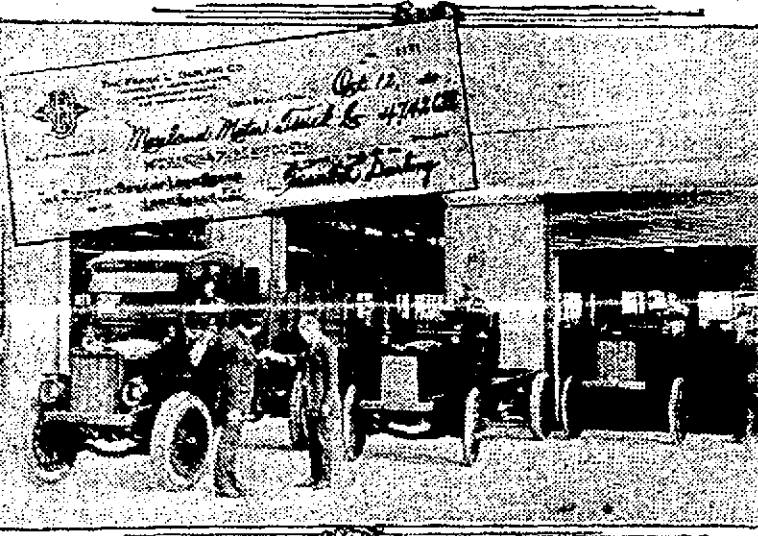

"The man who has a good product and is willing to buckle down, follow up prospects, study their needs, and keep everlastingly at it is going to keep right on doing a good business and a better business all the time."

Darling is the Long Beach dealer for Moreland trucks and a couple of passenger cars. On the truck proposition his territory is one of the smallest of dealers including that little fraction of California about Long Beach covering less than 140 square miles. He is fortunate in the fact that it is one of the fastest growing sections in the country. He radiates optimism and incidentally follows his own precepts in the matter of hard work.

Since taking on the Moreland agency some months ago he has had phenomenal success. In the first five months of business, his sales totaled fifty-one trucks amounting to about $157,000. Since that time he has been taking deliveries from the factory in Burbank in fleets. The past week he passed over a check for $47,426.25 to General Sales Manager Mallory of the Moreland company in payment for one drive-away of trucks for delivery to his customers in the Long Beach territory.

His experience is sufficient evidence that there is nothing to worry about in the future of the truck industry on the coast in any event.

KING MOTOR CAR CO. DISSOLVED

Dissolution of the King Motor company, of Detroit, and the appointment of a temporary receiver to take over the affairs of the corporation, pending the disposition of the property, has been asked by the five directors of the company through its attorney, Robert M. Brownson. The company has an authorized capital stock of $700,000, all of which is common stock of a par value of $100 per share. In the petition filed in the Wayne county, Michigan, circuit court October 18, the petitioners set up their inability to give personal attention to the affairs of the company, and lack of additional working capital to continue its operation, as reasons for asking dissolution and the receivership. The directors who joined in the petition were Artemus Ward Sr. of New York; Frederick L. Bennett, Boston; William B. Nesbit, New York; Frank W. Doolittle, New York, and Artemus Ward Jr. Artemus Ward Jr. is president of the corporation. According to the petition, his health will not permit his continuing in active charge of the company's affairs, and none of his associates are in position to take over the work. The statement of the company's financial position as set forth in the petition shows the company to have assets consisting of current assets, fixed assets, intangible assets, inventories and prepaid expenses totaling $1,835,712.91. Against these are liabilities amounting to $1,097,070.28. The directors have asked the court to appoint the etroit Trust Company as temporary receiver of the corporation.

PRICE CUT ANNOUNCED TO TRADE

A surprise is announced by Packard distributors throughout the country in that a lower introductory price had been set for the Single Six Packard.

The original price set prior to the first news and display of the car in a few eastern cities was based on a certain proposed production for the season but reports from the east where the cars have been shown state that an unprecedented demand for the cars has been shown which will necessitate a greatly increased output to fill it.

The factory estimated a saving in costs that would permit a lower price to the public and in conformity with the practice of long standing based the new list and a reasonable profit.

The first shipment of the new model has already reached Southern California and other shipments are being speeded to northern points in the state. The cars will be placed on display as soon as possible after arrival and orders now on file will be filled rapidly by following shipments.

Earle C. Anthony ascribes the interest in the little Packard to the fact that thousands of motorists have wanted a quality car that was not big. They were willing to pay a fair price for such construction and design as Packard was in the habit of building but they preferred a car that would squeeze through traffic easier than the Twin Six.

HELPFUL HINTS

Q. On my car I have a cone clutch and nearly every day now I have trouble throwing out the clutch. It seems as if something were caught. The sticking is so bad that at times it takes all the pressure I have in my left foot to disengage.

A. Probably the facing is very badly worn. This is usually the cause. A simple test is to cover the facing with neatfoot oil and if it works all right for a time, the facing needs replacement with new.

Q. I have an Overland model 82, and recently there developed some trouble in the rear axle, which, as you know, has the transmission in unit. In running in first or second speed there is a great deal of noise, as though the whole axle was falling to pieces. In high there is hardly any at times, and then again there is a great deal. Would you take the whole axle apart or is it something that can be remedied without much trouble?

A. Without question the countershaft bearings are "all shot" and you will have to replace them. I hardly think this can be done without removing the turbine, the transmission unit, together with the differential housing cover. The best job can be done with the entire axle detached from the car.

C.A.T.A. HAS MEANING TO AUTO TRADE

The meaning of the California Automobile Trade Association insignia was brought home to members and the public last week by the arrest of a man who was issuing bad checks and cheating garage and hotel men all over the state. This man was found in Bakersfield, but escaped in his fast car. He was traced to Oakland through the association headquarters here, and later arrested on a warrant from the southern city.

Things like this are happening time and time again, and go to show how co-operative effort among automotive experts has cut down the number of bad check passers and men of like affairs.

Then, too, the crooks have been eliminated from the automobile business. Men who run garages now are doing business on a business basis, where they formerly did it any old way.

Men who do not conform to the general rules of the association, and who do not want to do business along accepted lines are eliminated from the association.

The insignia of the association, the wheel and radiator, mean much to the motoring public, and the man with a car can be assured that if work is done on his automobile by men in the association it will be done right, and if not, he had better chance to air his grievances before the whole organization.

Men have found that they can benefit their own business and render better service to the consumer by organization and co-operation. Price cutting, long the bane of the automobile industry, has been practically eliminated, and the trade established on a sound basis.

Recreation Center is Detroit Jews' Plans

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Detroit Jews will in the next six months erect a $200,000 educational and recreational center which is planned to be the biggest and most up-to-date of its kind in the country. The site is at Kirby avenue and St. Antoine street. It will be built by the directors and board of education of the United Hebrew Schools of Detroit, and will serve as the headquarters for orthodox and traditional Judaism here and as a branch of the local Talmud Torah and Hebrew schools. The new center will be built in the shape of the Hebrew Daled, or the English "L" inverted, so that a big part of the site, which measures 102x165, may be used for a properly equipped playground.

The new building will accommodate between 1500 and 2000 children. The third floor is to be used as an auditorium.

Under the auspices of the United Hebrew Schools of Detroit a new kindergarten will be opened at the Farnsworth Talmud Torah immediately after Succoth. Registrations are being taken.

HERE'S WAY TO LOCATE A 'SQUEAK'

If your car develops body squeaks and rattles that refuse to be located, stand on the running board and rock the car. The elusive "birdie" will soon announce its exact whereabouts.

"A well-built car should not, however, develop this kind of 'music,'" comments A. W. Rawling, Marmora leader in the Eastway county. "Loose rattling doors, or tight, squeaky doors are particularly indicative of faulty design."

"If you want to test this out on your car, whether it be Marmora or any other make, run one wheel up on the curbstone some day. Then try each other. This test will show much more if a car that has seen considerable service is used, in preference to a brand new one."

"The doors should remain the same under all circumstances. If they show signs of looseness or tightness, the design is faulty."

"To make a real test, try the doors, both with and without the top up. Frequently when the top is down and the car loaded,

ESSEX

Transcontinental Victor Here Today!

One of the four Essex Touring Cars, all of which broke records between San Francisco and New York, carrying first U. S. Transcontinental Motor Mails, on view in our Salesroom today, tomorrow and Tuesday.

3347 Miles Each Way
San Francisco to New York	4 days, 14 hours, 43 minutes
Lowers record 12 hours, 48 minutes.
New York to San Francisco
4 days, 19 hours, 17 minutes
Lowers record 22 hours, 12 minutes.
San Francisco to New York
4 days, 21 hours, 56 minutes
Beats former time by 5 hours, 35 minutes.
New York to San Francisco
5 days, 6 hours, 12 minutes
Also broke former record by 11 hours, 19 minutes.
New York to Chicago—
This car also broke the record between New York and Chicago 2 hrs., 7 min., 10 sec., and covered the distance between the two points in 24 hrs., 15 min., 29 sec.
The average time for each car across the continent was 4 days, 21 hours, 32 minutes.

Isn't it a remarkable and convincing proof of Essex ability and endurance that every one of the four Essex cars that challenged for the coveted transcontinental records were successful?

These records had stood for four years. Hundreds of other cars had tried in vain to lower them.

We want you to examine this Essex. It is now on our floor, just as it finished. See how it stood the terrific abuse of 3347 miles of all sorts of going at high speed. See that it compares in every respect with every other Essex touring car built.

The same ability that broke the transcontinental records enabled Essex to set the official 50-hour endurance record of 3037 miles; the 24-hour road mark of 1061 miles; the 24-hour dirt track mark of 1261 miles; to surpass the records of multi-cylinder cars on Marin avenue, Berkeley; to climb Fillmore-street hill, San Francisco, in high gear, and to capture the Rim-o-the-World climbing record at San Bernardino.

Doesn't it show why 50,000 owners depend absolutely on Essex endurance?

BOYS' DEN!

Now and then a new pirate comes along into the den with such a lot of treasure and such a lot of...
There comes one today with the greatest scheme yet. I am going to let him tell you about it in his own words—and I am proud of him for the plan that I am sending him a special prize.

FRANK L. DOW

2410 Webster Street, Oakland.

I read your page in THE TRIBUNE every Sunday and enjoy it very much.

I am sending something about how to be a good salesman. I think our page should have a salesman's corner. I am sure it would prove very interesting because some boys and girls like myself are interested in salesmanship.

I am thirteen years old and work in an office where they are always selling. I made up the following notes myself. I hope very much to see them printed some Sunday.

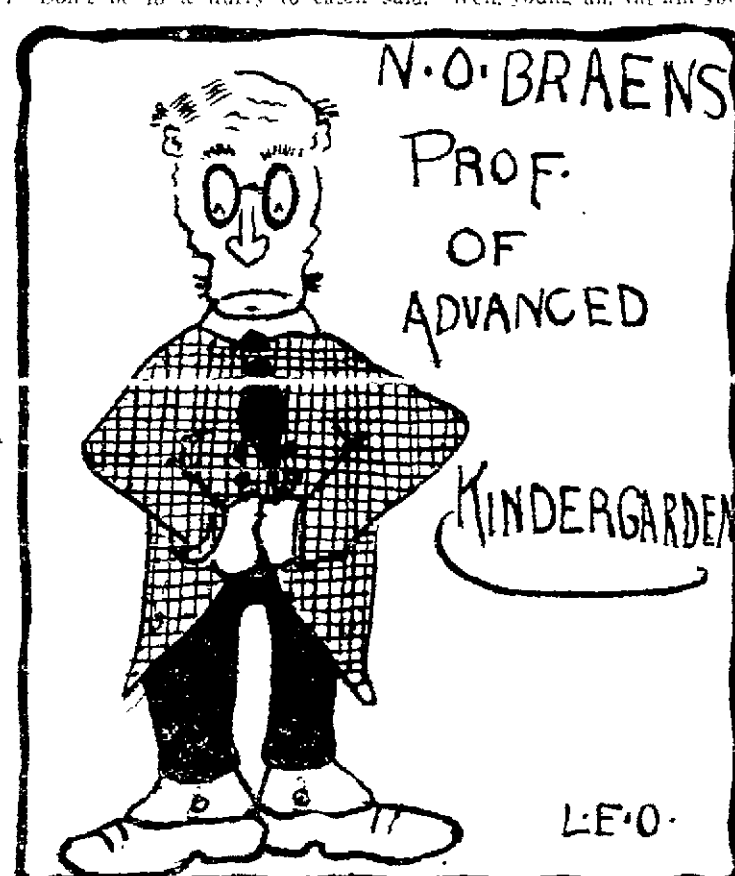

I will give different prizes to the one who writes the best tale, playing that I am the buying one.

All those who wish to join our club will have to write short and interesting tales. They will need to use proper grammar also. I would like to have all that are to join write to me. My name is Frank L. Dow, address is 2410 Webster Street, Oakland, Cal.

Sincerely, FRANK L. DOW.

- 7—Don't be in a hurry to catch up with the other fellow because he has lots of business. Take your time. They can't keep a fool man down.

8—Advertise good clear ads, giving all the good facts.

FRANK DOW.

Here is a letter from a pal who has written me some tales. We are going to start back December the tenth on the New Amsterdam from Rotterdam.

JOHN C. BINNEWAY

Molendijk, Nederland.

Dear Aunt Elsie—

I received your letter and I thank you very much for getting me in touch with some collectors.

I am sending you two stories to be put in the paper. These are translated from a Dutch book. I can send you some every three weeks until we come back. We are going to start back December the tenth on the New Amsterdam from Rotterdam.

Yours sincerely,

JOHN C. BINNEWAY.

An Italian salesman.

It was early in the morning. An Italian salesman saddled his horse for a long ride. He saw a nail was loose in the horse's shoe. But he said:

"I guess that will hold for today. When I get there I will have that horse shod," and he started away.

When he got a fourth of the way, he saw that the shoe was hanging by a few nails and when he got a little further he saw the shoe fall off. There was not a house to be seen so he could not get the horse shod until he got to his destination.

The road was very rocky and the horse began to limp. He wasn't half way when it began to get dark. There were bushes along the road and he saw three forms run out. One came and held him while the other two robbed him of everything he had, even his horse.

If he had only let the horse's hoof get fixed he could have run and got away, but he thought it would do for the day, so this came because one little nail was loose.

The Crimes of Ibykus.

Ibykus is a poor man and he is liked by everybody in far away Athens in Greece.

He was once walking along a lonely road outside of Athens. Suddenly two rough-dressed men seized him and began to beat him to death. When he was almost dead he said:

"You will both be punished for this."

One of the men laughed over this, while the other one said, "Nobody can see us so they can't do anything. Nobody will ever find out."

Just then a flock of cranes flew by.

"There cranes will spill the beans," and then died.

Two years later a carnival came to town. A well known man was going to speak. The men that killed Iby-lus were there, too. A flock of cranes flew by and one of the men said, "Do you think those cranes could be the cranes of Ibykus?"

The other one gave him a little shove and answered, "Keep still, you words—and I am proud of him for the plan that I am sending him a special prize."

A detective was standing near and to the surprise of the murderers, put handcuffs on their hands.

The next day they were both taken into a different room and questioned. One said that he did not know what the other said, and the other one said something else.

A few days later, one owned up to it and they were both given their earned punishment.

THE END.

John wants anyone who has South American stamps in perfect condition and wants to trade them for European stamps, to write to him, sending all traders.

Harry, a boy of seven, lived in Chicago. He was going for adventure. One day he went to his widowed mother and said:

"Mother, I am going to the Mexican border for adventure while you are visiting at Uncle Charlie's."

His mother laughed for she thought he was joking. But he was in earnest, so at last she gave her consent. In the morning he was gone.

In a few days he was on the sunny desert of Arizona saying over and over to himself, "Now for the time of my life!" He had on chaps, cartridge belt, bandana and two pistols.

Suddenly a bullet whizzed by his head and a deep voice said, "Up with your hands—deja hear me, huh?"

Harry turned around and saw nothing but a bush. But he threw up his hands and said, "Come on out and show yourself a little!"

Immediately a Mexican with a bandana around his nose jumped up and said, "Well, young un, what are you so anxious about, huh?"

Harry suddenly fell, knocked unconscious by a blow from the Mexican. When he came to he looked around and said "Where am I?" But soon he remembered being hit. He found himself in a cave with the bandit asleep. Creeping up he hit him with a chair and knocked him out. He then searched his clothes and found a key. He opened a little door and found a trunk and several gunnysacks full of gold. He went out and got help and brought the money bag. He and his mother lived happily ever after with much ease. Later Harry married and had a son who took after his father and got in many adventures.

The Two Boys.

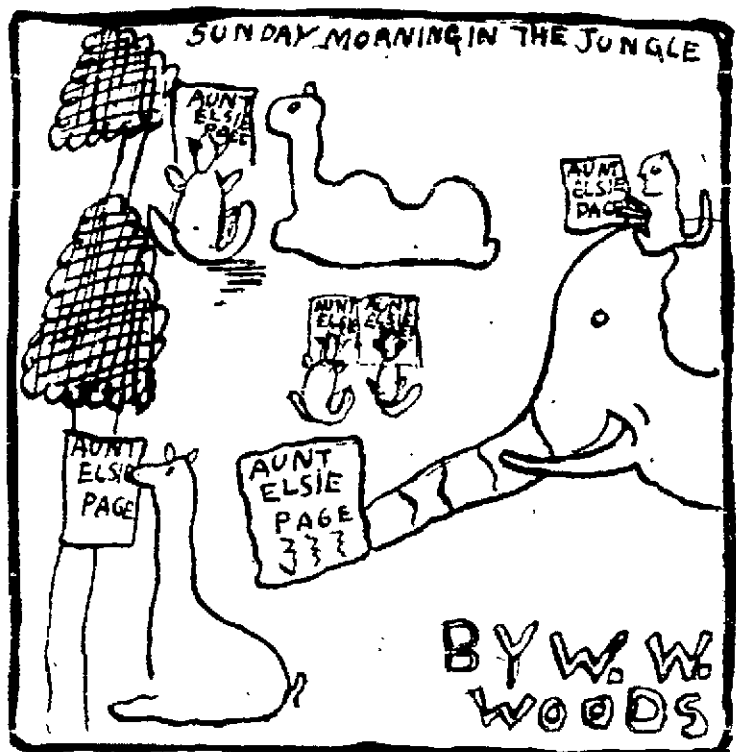

Jack and Tom were two boys who lived near an aviation field.

One day they were near the barn where the airplanes were stored. They saw one of the airplanes caught on fire. The boys ran in and pushed the plane out of the barn. When the men saw the blazing fire they spotted a soldier working with something. The Americans had been treated.

Jack crawled over by the man who was wounded. Then he saw a switch which would blow up the American trench which the Germans had just taken, but before the trench could be blown up the main switch had to be turned on, and it was fifty yards away.

Jack had sixteen seconds to do that in. So he picked up a rifle which would blow in it. If he missed the shot all would be over. Bang! He had hit the switch.

Then he turned on the switch. A

The BATTLE

of TROMPELOUP

How Army of Shovelers Razed a Town

When the anniversary of the signing of the armistice rolls round this week there will be more than one blue-jacket recall the "battle of Trompeloup." And we know our war history and stories of conquest will think and then wonder what new victory is this. Then when the Hudson is gone we will know that sometimes the pick and shovel are as mighty as the land battery and that the digging of holes in the ground was not always done to make trenches.

The story of this battle has come to the Navy Recruiting station at Twelfth and Broadway, and present and former members of the navy who fought there discuss this and other battles much to the edification of those who would be coming to Uncle Sam's fighting craft.

TOWN OF HUTS LEVELLED

Surely no point of vantage in France was ever attacked so viciously and so vigorously as was this little town of huts with the fancy name, and so surely was the victory and so complete the transition from a seafaring settlement to the largest and most active air station of the United States Navy, Aviation, in France.

When the Navy began to carry out its plans for aerial warfare overseas a location was at once sought for a base, a suitable and accessible port for a source of supply for the aerial branch of the sea service. Navy aviators were about the first Americans to arrive in France. Much important work awaited them. Eyes were needed for the Navy as well as for the Army. Long stretches of shore and sea had to be watched and patrolled from the air. The Navy was a part of the incoming convoys just as was most necessary the hovering above the sea of vigilant flyers.

SMILES

"My friend," said the inquisitive man, "when I was your age I thought nothing of working fourteen hours a day." "Yes," replied the companion, "in those days there were no moving pictures and no golf. What else was there for you to do with your time?"

"A remarkable case of business enterprise, I call it." "What now?" "Here's a fellow manufacturing a puppy biscuit shaped like an old shoe."

"Fancy your getting married again, Mrs. Smile. I hope you have done wisely." "Yes, indeed, I reckon. You see, I have so much business to take home now. If I didn't get to I should have been forced to buy a donkey, sure 'nough."

Briggs—Ought a man to give up his strap in a surface car to a lady? Griggs—Certainly. If she is young and handsome, he may be forced to cling to her going around a curve.

"Europe is not at all the same," said one tourist. "Not at all," echoed the other. "For years Europe was on the verge of war. Now she keeps lingering on the verge of peace."

The Professor—A collector, did you say? Did you tell him I was out? The Factotum—Yes, sir; but he wouldn't believe me. The Professor—Rumph! Then I suppose I'll have to go and tell him myself.

"So Freddie is engaged to that homely dysstiller girl, eh? What's he marrying her for, her money?" "Sh! When prohibition came in old man Dysstiller was left with three million gallons on his hands that she'll inherit some day."

who could look down and bid in to be rolled. It was built by a set of legions, were at it. The non-com-

Southern Frenchmen, who perhaps had fed and through the influence and nearness of the Gironde of Spain had builded well, but not watched with all the interest of the too high, their structures alike to possessors of claims for future Rio Grande.

The southern part of France, near Bordeaux, was selected as a site for this base. When the scouting party came down along the Gironde river, below Bordeaux, they found this location on deep water, fine for handling and launching seaplanes and most accessible as a port for ships bringing equipment and supplies from the States. It was a picturesque rolling country with large estates and extensive vineyards, among them the richly covered grapeplains of the house of Rothschild. It was not hard to negotiate through the French government for the land cessions. Between Bordeaux and the river lay Pauillac, and still closer to the water was Trompeloup.

TOWN IS IN THE WAY

Scouting found Trompeloup in the way and succeeding surveys proved it. There was but one thing to do, "Trompeloup had to be moved. Over here we would have put the houses on wheels and rolled them back out of the way, but Trompeloup wouldn't be rolled. It was built by a set of legions, were at it. The non-com-

PLANT STILL IN EVIDENCE

The air station at Pauillac, Gironde, France, was first occupied on November 17, 1917, by two officers and twenty-six men. The officers were Ensign Ralph F. Nourse, U. S. N., and Assistant Paymaster Russell D. Thomas, U. S. N., who also made use of Trompeloup laundry, converting it into quarters. By July 1, 1918, the station had expanded so rapidly that the complement numbered 109 officers and 4532 men. They were housed in splendidly constructed knock-down houses which had been brought from the States and set up on streets which were lined with board walks. Great buildings were erected at the water's edge for the assembly and repair of the big sea planes. These looked at one time as if the British were in charge of an organization of former experts in civil life who were brought into the service and committed. This assembly and repair was brought together and for part of the time directed by Lieutenant-commander Benjamin Briscoe, U. S. N. R. F.

In this time the air station had grown into a city, with the continual hum of its shops and the buzz of the Liberty motors in the planes being tried out over the station. A theater which would seat the entire complement was built and a company and band organized that was so good that they were housed in splendidly constructed knock-down houses which had been brought from the States and set up on streets which were lined with board walks. aviation in France. It was all the work of sailors.

Operations of this supply station, were mainly concerned with assembling and distributing of seaplanes, this work coming under the assembly and repair department. The first shipment of Liberty motors was received April 22, 1918, and the first planes arrived May 25, 1918. The initial flight of an American Liberty motor machine was made from this station on June 12, 1918. The first HS-1 seaplane, to have a flight made this successfully on June 13 and was delivered to the U. S. naval air station at Montic, This department up to November 1 had assembled eighty-two seaplanes and overhauled 322 motors. This department also cooperated with the army and the French military authorities.

Southern France will always remember the battle of Trompeloup and how from it grew a wonderful navy plant through the skill, hard work and go-at-it-ness of the American sailor.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

What Katherine's Letter Wrought from Harriet's Lips.

"Dearest Girl," Katherine's letter began, and the sight of the familiar words brought back to me many times I had heard the phrase, her favorite appellation for me, from the lips of my little friend.

Next to Lillian, I care more for Katherine than for any other woman in the world. I am genuinely fond of my mother-in-law, but there is not quite the same bond between us that grips my affections so securely to Lillian first of all, and then to Katherine. We have been through much together, we three women, experiences that we will never forget, recollections that bind us into more than the usual feminine friendship.

I had asked the usual perfunctory permission of my sister-in-law to read the letter, she had consented as conventionally, but I knew that behind her placid air lay an agony of impatience to know the contents of the epistle. Therefore I hurried through the reading of the communication, which was little more than a note, and showed every evidence of having been written hurriedly. "Your letter was delayed in reaching me—the mail service in this section would be a disgrace to an African jungle—therefore I am mailing my reply directly to Marvin, hoping it will be waiting for you upon your return."

"Of course, we were planning to see you before we left. Did you dare to think for a moment that I would go so far without seeing you first? But we had meant the meeting to be a dinner in town with us. However, it so happens that your invitation—you see, I am accepting it as freely as it is given—solves two or three pretty domestic problems for me, besides the greatest pleasure it will give me to be with you, so I have gained Jack's consent and we will be with you Thursday, to stay until the following Tuesday, when we leave for the West."

"Madge, dear, I do not know quite how to word this, but would you mind having no one to meet us for dinner, or anything like that? Jack has been terribly nervous since he came back, and he dreads meeting people. I know you will understand. Until I see you."

"Lovingly yours, Katherine."

I tried not to let my face show my dismay at this last paragraph and made a pretense of continuing to read the letter for several seconds after I had finished it in order to decide what was best to do. Finally I decided to show it, just as it was, to my sister-in-law, and accordingly laid it in her lap.

Despite her accustomed poise, her hands trembled perceptibly as she

MOTHER WEEPS
FAREWELL NEARSFifty Apply for Little Tad
Mrs. Barrieau Wants to Have Happy Home.

With more than fifty applicants for her three-year-old baby, Donald, whom she yesterday offered for adoption, Mrs. Barrieau is facing the problem of selecting from some of the most prominent homes in the city. Though her lips tremble and her eyes fill with tears, she has not wavered from her original decision to part with the little blue-eyed boy that she may have the home of comfort which she is unable to give him. She says that she dares not waver, even though it grows harder and harder for her to face the men and women who come to see the child.

Because her health has failed and her husband, the baby's step-father, is unable to work regularly, Mrs. Barrieau, 2716 Doyle street, Emeryville, sought a home for the young son of her three children.

The baby himself, with bright unsuspecting smile, meets the applicants at the door and with friendly little hand leads them to seats. It is this friendliness which is helping to reconcile the mother to the parting.

"I know that he will win his way into anyone's heart and be happy himself," she said with a catch in her voice.

The question that Mrs. Barrieau asks over and over again of the people who have besieged her is: "Are you sure that you wouldn't tire of him?"

The love in the eyes of the fathers and mothers as they look at the healthy, beautiful baby should reassure her.

Many are the stories of aching hearts that have been told by the applicants. Most of them want the little boy to be the place of a child who has died and left the home empty and the heart inconsolable.

One of the most touching of these was that of Mrs. Louis Slater, 3814 Outer street, East Fruitvale, who was attracted to little Donald because of the fact that her only son, who died at Letterman hospital March, 1918, while in the aviation service, was also named Donald. She brought the picture of her son when he was about the age of little Donald, and another taken in the uniform of the aviation service, and showed them to the other mother as she made her plea for the baby.

"It seems to be the only way to get him," she said.

She explained yesterday, "I have tried it over with my two daughters and we agree that it would be selfish for us to try to keep him when there are so many empty hearts and homes into which he would fit."

The daughters, unusually attractive girls of 12 and 15, are devoted to the baby, and are as sad as the mother at the thought of parting with him. The elder, Mabel, is employed at the Pacific Multigraph Book Company, and the younger, Phronia, is a pupil at the San Pablo school.

Mrs. Barrieau, who is a niece of former Senator Warren of Wyoming, was divorced from her first husband in Kansas City about a year and a half ago and was awarded the custody of her four children. A few months later she met with another tragedy when her little son, Frank, fell from the fourth story of a hotel and was instantly killed.

Panther in Hills Alarms
Alameda County Ranchers

Gentlemen in the eastern part of Alameda county, whose grazing lands flank the road that leads from Livermore into the manganese mines, have organized a hunt for a soft-footed animal which has descended from the high mountains into the lower hills in search of prey.

Twice its weird cries have been heard by the ranchers. One night last week it sent out its screams from the head of a creek. The next day the half-eaten carcass of a sheep was found in the panther's wake.

Its lank brown form was seen by John Fells of Livermore only yesterday evening. "It was almost dark, according to Reis, when he rounded a curve on horseback near the Overlook place, which is about half way between Livermore and the mines, and the huge form shot across the road and into the brush. He experienced considerable difficulty in persuading his pony to pass the spot.

Ten minutes later, Reis said, he looked back and saw the animal following stealthily in his horse's tracks. He urged his pony to a gallop and put several miles between himself and his pursuer.

According to old-timers about Livermore and throughout the range country, a panther has never been seen in recent years below the mines. Some are of the opinion that the huge cat may have at some time feasted upon human flesh and that its boldness has been encouraged by the scent of man.

While old hunters and experienced cutthroats take little heed of the signs and reports of the cat's presence, fear is running rampant in some parts of the eastern end of the county for school children who pass over some of the mountain highways to and from school.

Varmint dogs, consisting of a pack of wirehaired dogs owned by a Livermore hunter, are to be put on the trail and an end put to the animal's existence.

DEGREE CONFERRED.

SCOUTS' SUNDAY

November 7 has been designated as Girl Scout Sunday in the churches of New York and throughout the United States. It is the day of a nation-wide Girl Scout campaign. Prominent clergy of various denominations will preach sermons in the interest of the Girl Scout campaign.

During the ten-day national campaign, beginning with the Girl Scout Sunday of $1,000,000 to be raised, this sum having been determined by a board of experts as the minimum amount essential to carry on the work. Of the amount to be raised, $100,000 is for expansion. The Girl Scouts number 82,176 in 114 cities and towns throughout the country, and an average of 4000 girls monthly apply for membership and are admitted because of lack of trained leaders to take care of increased membership. Other items on the budget are: $500,000 for Girl Scout camps in 150 cities; $122,400 for equipment; $5,000 for office salaries; and $7,000 for salaries for field organizers. There are now 211 paid and 7200 volunteer workers.

With a letter of encouragement from President Wilson to spur their endeavors, 150 nationally prominent Jews left New York today for a tour of the entire country to bring the message of regenerated Judaism to all American Jewry. The tourists make up a "flying squadron" of speakers who will officially open the campaign of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for $3,500,000 to carry out a ten-year extension program. The squadron is headed by Julius Rosenberg of Chicago, Congressman from New York, and Mortimer Schiff of New York.

The squadron will address meetings in 200 cities throughout the United States, and will explain the union's plan.

The date upon which the speakers will reach the Pacific Coast is not definitely known, but it is thought that they will arrive in Oakland some time in the latter part of December. Preparations are being made for their reception and for a huge mass meeting.

HAYWARD BANKER
ILL AFTER MOTOR
KILLS BICYCLISTCapitalist, Reported in Serious Condition. Under Arrest for Death.

Joseph Vargas, prominent Hayward capitalist and store owner, lies unconscious and in a serious condition at the Oakland Emergency hospital as a result of the automobile accident in which he ran down and killed Martin Anderson, 50 years old, one and one-half miles from Hayward on the Niles road, Friday night.

Vargas has been unconscious for more than twenty-four hours and, according to the G. D. Hadden, it is impossible at the present time to determine just what the matter with him. He is under arrest.

Dupont Sheriff C. H. Blagburn, who with Deputy Scanlan, was sent to bring Vargas in, said that when Vargas hit Anderson his machine swerved across a deep irrigation ditch, through a fence, and turned over. The deputies found Vargas at his home, where he had been taken following the accident.

Anderson, who was an employee of the California salt works at Alameda, was riding on a bicycle toward Niles when Vargas ran him down about 9 o'clock Friday night.

Blagburn said Anderson had been drinking and that he had been ordered to leave town by the marshal. He said Anderson left Hayward pushing his bicycle, apparently with no intention of trying to ride it.

Vargas was brought in from Hayward by L. E. Pratt this morning and was registered as under arrest.

U. C. Bleachers
Catch on Fire;
Panic Averted

The Washington State-California varsity football game yesterday at the university grounds afforded something besides the usual excitement. During the last quarter the crowd in the north stand was thrown into a miniature panic when someone shouted "Fire!"

From down among the throng there appeared a column of smoke and flame. There was a surging in the crowd and excitement as a high pitched, swiftly the news was passed up the aisle that the grandstand was on fire underneath.

W. D. Donald, University of California graduate manager, sensed the danger of a stampede in the grandstand and rushed to the scene with a bucket of water and a spongewich he got from one of the attendants on the field. With the spongewich and water and the aid of dirt gathered from under the structure the blaze was extinguished.

The fire was started from a lighted cigarette.

WARRANT ASKED BY MAN BEATEN
AT PAJAMARINO

BERKELEY, Nov. 6.—Warrants for the arrest of three students who, he claimed, beat him and his son during the pajamarino rally at the Greek theater last Thursday night, were asked at police station today by Harry M. Pittman, living on Lincoln street.

According to Pittman, a group of students mistook his son, Henry C. Pittman, a lieutenant in the British army, who was in civilian clothes, for a freshman student. When he remonstrated in his son's behalf Pittman declares that both he and his son were attacked.

Pittman claimed that he was knocked down and severely beaten. He refused to leave the matter in the hands of the students' affairs committee, asserting that the students should be prosecuted in court. As yet the warrants have not been issued.

THOUSANDS WILL PARADE HERE ON ARMISTICE DAYGovernor Stephens, Others of Prominence Invited to Celebration.

Governor William D. Stephens, Senator-elect Samuel Shortridge, Senator Hiram Johnson, Herbert Hoover and President David P. Barrows of the University of California, have been invited as honor guests to the Armistice day parade and celebration here next Thursday.

With probably the largest Armistice day celebration in California occurring in Oakland on November 11, plans are being arranged to have the most prominent people of this section of the state in attendance. Invitations were sent out by Harry H. Williams, chairman of the arrangements committee, last week and responses from these five prominent Californians are expected tomorrow.

20,000 IN PARADE
More than 20,000 persons will be in the great victory parade through Oakland's streets on Thursday morning. In addition to practically every veteran of the city being in the line of march large contingents will also be supplied by many of the civic, patriotic, educational and fraternal organizations.

The Oakland Lodge of Elks will be represented by 500 marchers in addition to their famous band of forty pieces. Similar representations will be contributed by the Moose and Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Delegations from many of the schools and the entire personnel of the Oakland high school order body will represent the school department.

1000 BOY SCOUTS
About 1000 Boy Scouts, headed by a band and special detachments of troops from Mare Island and the Presidio will be included. Pictorial and spectacular floats and features will represent the French, British, Chinese and Italian colonies of the city. Floats will also be entered by the women and girl workers of the civil war and other veteran auxiliary organizations.

Following the parade a public barbecue will be held in Lakeside park. It will be followed by appropriate talks, athletic events and entertainment being arranged by the recreation department.

Utility District Will Vote On Amendment Nov. 13

BERKELEY, Nov. 6.—With national and State issues already decided, residents of Berkeley, Albany and the outlying regions in the northern end of the county will turn their attention to local question at a special election called for next Saturday.

Five charter amendments and the joining with Albany and the incorporated region in a public utility district to acquire a water supply will be the issues submitted to the voters of Berkeley. Albany will vote on the public utility question alone, while in addition to the water district residents of the unincorporated territory will decide whether or not they will annex themselves to Berkeley.

As unusual interest is being taken in the election, a large vote is anticipated. The election is one of the most important held in Berkeley and adjoining territory in recent years, and marks the first time that the question of annexation has ever brought a vote. Under a recent annexation law, residents of the outlying district alone decide the question of amalgamation, no balloting on the issue being required in the city to which annexation is desired.

FIVE AMENDMENTS
That the closing days of the campaign in behalf of Berkeley's five proposed charter amendments will be marked by arguments on certain issues is indicated in developments of the past few days. The five amendments sponsored by the present city administration are:

Increasing of tax limit from $1 to $1.25.
Increasing terms of office of mayor and auditor from two to four years.
Increasing auditor's salary from $1500 to $3000 per annum.
Adoption of preferential system of voting similar to that in San Francisco.
Granting to Berkeley certain rights of municipal government as provided under recent State enactments.

Clashes between Mayor Louis Bartlett as sponsor of an increased tax rate and Samuel C. Irving, former mayor of Berkeley, with City Attorney Frank V. Cornish as a third debater, have marked the campaign to secure a $1.25 limit for Berkeley.

IRVING'S ARGUMENTS
Former Mayor Irving's argument against the proposal is as follows: "I declare in all earnestness that it would be a crime against the people of Berkeley to raise the tax limit from $1 to $1.25, as advocated by our city attorney."

"The increase is not needed and would put an unnecessary burden on our city that would handicap us and interfere with the prosperity of the community."

"You will remember the history of San Francisco, when even under the control of supervisors who were not considered very highly, still remained on a cash basis with a dollar limit on the tax rate and controlled by what was known as the one-twelfth act. The same thing may be accomplished here by good management and careful attention to the business of the people. The chief excuse suggested for boosting the tax rate is the high cost of living. Well, we had that expense before the present administration came into office, yet we handed over to our successors more than $30,000 in cash. The former administration added more permanent improvements than has been even attempted by the present regime. And the cost of living is going down, there is not a peg on which to hang the cost of the present administration for more money. Such an increase would be unjust and ridiculous."

CORNISH ANSWERS
Answer to Irving's argument is made by City Attorney Cornish in the following statement: "Obligations of the city incurred during the Irving administration makes it necessary for the present administration to seek more revenue."

"Our water rate for fire hydrant rental was boosted from $7000 annually to $12,000 annually with the consent of the Irving administration. This charge alone will take 14 cents of the proposed increase of 25 cents."

"Improvements, needed for years before the election of Mayor Bartlett, should be made by the city. If this administration remains as passive to the real needs of the city as did the last, then possibly we might get along without a tax rate."

WHITES' TO MAYOR
Concerning the proposed public utility district, the following letter has been received by Mayor Bartlett from S. M. Augustine, director of the Marin county water district and now a resident of Berkeley:

"I cannot refrain from a word of encouragement to you in your campaign for municipal ownership of your water supply."

"In Marin county, some years ago, we were confronted with the same serious problem that now threatens the prosperity of Berkeley. The situation became so acute that we were obliged to organize for municipal ownership to avert impending disaster. Our experiment, as you no doubt know, has proven a gratifying success. In spite of the increased and unprecedented cost of labor and material, we have been able to complete construction without increasing the water rates."

WISHES HIM SUCCESS
"The natural reluctance of our people to take on so serious a responsibility as a three million dollar bond issue was readily dispelled when they were made to understand that they were already but little less directly responsible for bonds issued by our private companies, and that by taking over the water business, they might, in forty years, be the owners of an unnumbered plant, which would otherwise belong to the stockholders of our private companies who would profit by the unearned increment resulting from increased population."

"Being now a permanent resident of Berkeley, I am looking forward hopefully for the success of your efforts, and I am confident that when you people understand the question they will vote almost unanimously in aid of the Marin county people for municipal ownership."

THE RECTOR SYSTEM OF GAS HEATING fills a long-felt want for a convenient means of heating homes and one that is, at the same time, economical in operation.

It starts and stops at the touch of a button in the same manner as the electric lights are turned on and off. Could anything be easier than that?

Gas is the fuel used and heat is generated at the radiator. Thus, there is no heat lost through transmission from a distant central heating plant.

All burned gases are drawn through vent pipes by mechanical draught and discharged to outside air. Therefore, there is absolutely no odor in the room.

The economy of the system is a result of its unequalled efficiency and the ease with which the fuel consumption may be controlled. No big outlay of money in advance is required to insure your winter supply of fuel.

You owe it to yourself to investigate the Rector System before deciding on a heating plant for your home or place of business. We will gladly furnish an estimate and descriptive literature free upon request.

TAX REVISION.

While no official word has been given in support of it, the assumption is quite general throughout the country that shortly after President-elect Harding is inaugurated next March a special session of Congress will be called to consider the many pressing questions that await legislative action. At least Mr. Harding will be importuned from many quarters to convene the new Congress at once instead of waiting for the regular session in December, 1921, and it is not expected that he will desire to resist.

The most important task before the Congress and one in which all the people are vitally interested is the revision of the existing tax schedule. Many mistakes were made in the devising of the revenue law, which in the first place was intended mainly to raise money to finance the war and was never expected to serve as a peace time revenue measure. There is a determined and concerted movement in the country directed toward revision at the earliest practicable moment and so long as the revision is not undertaken thousands of business and industrial projects will be held in abeyance.

In the discussions by the delegates to the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association recently held in Washington the sentiment of all business interests was pretty accurately reflected. The bankers adopted resolutions in which it was stated:

"The present tax situation requires immediate revision at competent hands. The present position does not square with the principle of equity of taxation as among taxpayers, and it causes important uncertainties for any one taxpayer. The revenues from it are necessarily fluctuating, thus introducing into the Federal fiscal system grave elements of uncertainty, and governmental experience with this tax proves conclusively that it cannot be successfully administered. This tax should be repealed forthwith, a more just and certain tax taking its place. The surtax system also operates in a way militating against the country's economic welfare, and likewise should be given immediate attention. Congress must not delay in the important matters and should summon to its councils the representatives of finance, industry and commerce in order that a more equitable and workable system be devised without delay."

It is estimated that the excess profits tax for the fiscal year ending next June will yield the government about $1,300,000,000 in revenue. For the year following that, no definite estimates can, of course, be given, but it has been assumed that the yield from this tax would drop well below $1,000,000,000, and if business conditions should happen to be bad, income from this source might almost disappear. There is no question but that the revenues of the government must be maintained at practically their present level for the next few years. It is vitally important that some headway should be made towards the reduction of the enormous debt of the country.

On September 30, 1920, this gross debt was approximately $24,057,000,000. Of this amount, $2,347,000,000 was in the form of a floating debt, as evidenced by short-term treasury certificates. In May, 1923, the Victory notes, amounting to about $4,250,000,000, come due. In the same year approximately $800,000,000 worth of war savings certificates mature. Thus, within a period of less than three years, there will become payable about $7,500,000,000. It will, of course, be impossible for the government to meet all of these payments, but it is highly important that a big reduction should be made.

In his recent address before the American Bankers' Association, Secretary Houston stated that in the absence of unforeseen contingencies he believed it would be possible to retire the whole of the present floating debt by the end of the fiscal year 1922. Through the operation of the sinking fund and other means, he believed it would be possible to reduce the amount of the Victory loan to about $3,000,000,000 at maturity. If we are to make any headway against our present debt, it would seem that this program must be carried out.

This means that if the excess profits tax is repealed, it will be necessary to provide some measure to take its place. There have been many proposals along this line and there has been some very excellent constructive work done by committees outside of Congress. These proposals will be placed before Congress at its coming session in December and strong pressure will be brought to bear to secure some action during the short session. The introduction and passage of a major revenue bill during the short session would be almost without precedent and next to impossible.

President Wilson in his congressional message last December recommended that the tax schedule, which his own partisans in Congress had framed, be readjusted and he pointed out several of the inconsistent and repressive clauses which ought to be repealed. The need of revision is more evident today than ever and will become increasingly so as the country struggles to get back to a pre-war basis. If there are no other reasons for a special session of the new Congress the tax problem is sufficient.

A STUPID POLICY.

Apparently the opposition of Commissioner Soderberg of the Oakland city council to the development of a terminal on the western waterfront by Mr. Frederick Parr has become a personal obsession which leads him to such extreme efforts to obstruct and retard the development work that the whole community is being injured. Commissioner Soderberg's policy is stupid—if his actions can be said to reflect a policy—and it is time for the other two members of the machine clique to say whether they are for such a program or separate themselves from it.

At a council meeting last Friday Commissioner Soderberg made statements that constituted nothing but scandalous acts or persecution against Mr. Parr and his terminal project. It seems that Commissioner Soderberg has held up the accounts of the terminal company with the city for dockage tolls and other items. After two months of incomprehensible delay Mr. Parr went to the council to ask for an adjustment. This provoked Soderberg to scurrilous and untruthful statements, plainly calculated to harm the business of the western terminal and the reputation of Mr. Parr, and to interfere with the development of maritime business in Oakland.

This newspaper holds no brief for the head of the Parr Terminal Company. It merely has observed that that project has brought much new business to Oakland. It has been for several months unloading and loading ships from and destined to all parts of the world and thus brought positive recognition of the fact that the Eastbay harbor is an international port of call. The western waterfront docks and warehouse are now handling more shipping business than any other dock in the Eastbay district and expansion of the business is certain if given a fair and just opportunity.

But Commissioner Soderberg seems unable to control his ugly disposition in the matter. If hostility seems to be fixed. While everyone wants him to perform his duty to protect the city's interests, there is no excuse for him going to every limit to embarrass and humiliate the director of a great business enterprise.

What is wanted is business and more business at the Parr terminal and on the industrial sites included in the Parr leasehold and elsewhere on the western waterfront. Instead of trying to encourage business and achieve an increase in the volume of shipping and industry, Commissioner Soderberg is devoting his efforts to harassing business and so misrepresenting public and private sentiment of the community as to drive business away.

If Commissioners Morse and Edwards conceive their political working agreement with Soderberg to bind them to approve such conduct and permit it to be accepted as the official attitude of the entire council they also must accept a share of the responsibility for injuring the city and obstructing its prosperity.

CONSULTING THE PEOPLE.

President-elect Harding has taken an early opportunity to prepare to carry out his campaign pledge to invite the best thought and opinion in the country to consult with him on the matter of a concert of nations to preserve the peace. He announced from his home at Marion Friday that he would hold conferences on this subject before he reached a final decision on the make-up of his cabinet.

In this discussion there are expected to be representatives of the several contentions regarding the League of Nations covenant written into the treaty of Versailles by President Wilson. It goes without saying that former Secretary of State Root, who represented the United States at the Hague conference to organize the International Court of Justice; Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, former President Taft, Mr. Herbert Hoover, former Attorney General Wickersham, and Senator Lodge will be in attendance.

Certainly Hon. Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State and a member of the American peace delegation and who was asked to resign from office because he did not let his mind go along with President Wilson's, and other Democrats will be invited. Mr. Harding will want to hear the plans of both the pro-leaguers and anti-leaguers before final decision on the substitute for the Smuts-Wilson covenant.

This plan of the next President is to be hailed as a desirable innovation in the formulation of government policies in which the people have so lively an interest as the prevention of future wars. It will strike a popular response in the form of a hope that the leaders of the various opinions on a society of nations will be able to reach an agreement acceptable to all in the best interests of America.

NOTES and COMMENT

We, the people, are considerably given to fads. A while ago it was overalls. It has been other things just as weighty at various times. Now in some degree it is carry-your-lunch. Men who go to business have a lunch put up at home and take it along against the noon hour. The movement is more sharply defined in the East than here. Doubtless there are those who welcome it, in affording opportunity to practice an economy without attracting attention. It is a fad that may have a considerable run.

The possibility of Holland becoming a republic is treated in the news despatches. At a distance it would seem that the idea is fanciful. The psychological time for that step would seem to have been when war was raging all around it. Having weathered that period its sudden determination in these comparatively prosaic times doesn't ring as probable. Still, the Hollanders are not swift to take a momentary step, such as this would be.

It was stated in the early despatches that Kentucky had gone Democratic by its usual majority. The fact is that the Kentucky majority is 70.1. This divided showing has implicated the chairman to raise the cry of fraud. The cry apparently is to forestall further falling off. Republican managers refuse to admit the defeat of Senator Backham. There seems to be interesting times in Kentucky.

Senator Dodge, General Wood, Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover are mentioned in connection with the cabinet. It is an indication that the country expects the incoming President to surround himself with men of national stature. All of them except Roosevelt have performed in the large national way, and the country can afford to take Roosevelt on what it has seen of him and on his breeding.

That Chester Rowell has been offered the post on the United States Shipping Board declined by Gavriel McNab is interesting political news. The appointment would have to be confirmed by the United States Senate, and on the fourth of March an altogether different situation will exist. There ought to be good odds in a wager that he will not accept; still, it is remembered that he is out of a job.

One would think from the amount of complaint before election day that the voters of the nation with legislative provisions that the proposition to abate the possibility of such abuse in a single instance would carry handsomely; but the initiative designed to head off the single tax effort, increasing the number of signatures from eight to twenty-five percent, was most decisively beaten, though the recurring single-tax provision was used.

An Oregon town has emphasized the Nineteenth amendment by electing an entire municipal ticket of women. Perhaps it is a wise move. Anyhow it is different. The intelligent woman should be able to manage municipal affairs as well as the average man, especially in minor towns.

Already there is concern over immigration, present and prospective. Notwithstanding the effort of certain "nests" to show that Americans are all slaves, the peoples of the earth are looking this way, and those who can manage it are coming, undiluted by the probabilities of an inundation are disquieting. It is honestly felt that something will have to be done in the way of a check.

According to the San Leandro Reporter, the marshal hasn't found anybody to arrest, but needs help. "City Marshal Joseph Peralta has been 'needed' to handle the Broadway section in quest of burglars. He has stopped several people while walking along and requested of them their business, etc., but has made no arrests, for satisfactory answers have been received. Peralta is doing everything he can, but needs more assistance."

Ralph Glidden left for the mainland Friday, to plan for a trip to San Nicholas Island to collect Indian curios. The proposed trip will be made from Avalon to Corral Harbor, San Nicholas Island, in the Godfrey from Blimp. It is a fact that is often forgotten that under the statutes of 1915 the merchant who with intent to sell, publishes in a newspaper an advertisement which is false, untrue, deceptive or misleading, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known to be false, untrue, deceptive or misleading is guilty of a misdemeanor.—Chico Enterprise.

VANDERBILT SAID IT

"The public be damned." Most people have heard that phrase, not so many years ago exemplifying the attitude of certain railroad magnates. Few, however, know when it was first used, and how it was coined into a catch phrase. The story is told by Charles Chapin, the famous city editor of the New York Evening World, who is now serving a term of life imprisonment in Sing Sing prison. It appears in his book, "Charles Chapin's Story," just published by Putnam's, which describes his extraordinarily varied career and the tragic events which terminated it. "I recall that memorable night at the Chicago Tribune office when a reporter who had been sent to interview Mr. Vanderbilt, strolled languidly into the office and reported that the railroad man refused to talk," writes Chapin. "It was just at the time when a crowd of financial pirates had paralleled the Vanderbilt line between Chicago and Buffalo with the Nickel Plate Road, and were holding him up to buy it from them. "I was there chatting with Ted Collier, the night editor. After reporting 'no story,' the reporter sat down to chat with some poker players to whom he casually remarked that in answer to his request for an interview as a matter of 'great public interest,' Vanderbilt had snapped out at him, 'The public be damned,' pushing him out of the car and slamming the door in his face. "That was enough for the night editor. The most striking story was headed 'The Public Be Damned,' and the expression has been going ever since."

RISE AND FALL OF PRICES IN 1920

By DR. FRANK M. SURFACE.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The fact that wholesale prices are, on the average, actually falling is best shown by price indices which represent the averages of a large number of commodities and are expressed as the percentage of the price at some past period taken as a base. Usually the prices entering into an index are weighed according to their importance. Thus in food prices it makes a great deal of difference to the ordinary householder whether flour has risen 10 cents a pound or whether tea has increased that amount. Hence in forming an index it is usually desirable to multiply each price by a quantity which represents the relative importance of that article. The accompanying diagram shows the average change in five recognized price indices for each of the first nine months of this year. The figures are plotted to show the percentage increase each month over the average pre-war level, usually the year 1913.

Taking the middle curve in the diagram which represents the wholesale index of the United States department of labor, it will be seen that in January wholesale prices were 145 per cent above the pre-war level. Prices increased for the next four months and in May wholesale prices were 172 per cent above the pre-war, or an increase of 24 points since January. Since May prices have declined as shown by this curve and in September they reached a level slightly below that of January. Each of the indices given indicate the same general course of events—a rise during the earlier months of the year and a decline since May or June.

The upper line in the figure is an index of English wholesale prices published by the London Economist. It is inserted here to show that the rise and fall of prices in England this year has corresponded almost exactly to the change in prices in the United States. Indices for other foreign countries might be used which would show the same general trend of events. It will be noted that the English index shows a much greater increase over the pre-war level than do those for the United States. Indices for Continental European countries would be still much higher than that for England.

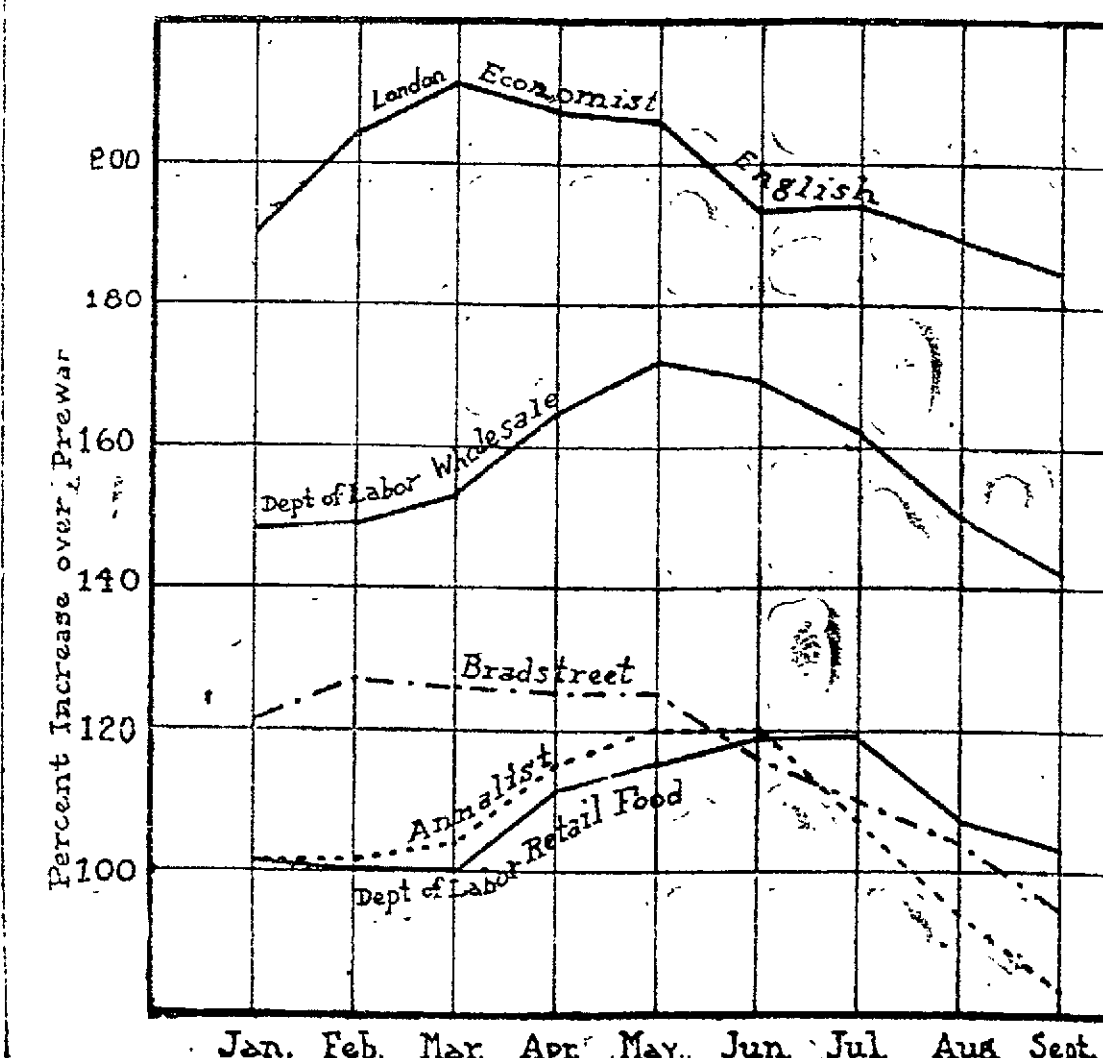

The wholesale price index of the department of labor includes quotations on 327 commodities covering a wide range of raw and manufactured materials. The prices are weighted according to the estimated quantity of each article marketed in the census year 1909. This index, because of the large number of articles and the care exercised in averaging quotations and weighting, is the most representative index in this country.

The retail food index issued by the department of labor consists of quotations on twenty-two representative food commodities so chosen as to represent an average family budget. It will be noted that the retail food price index shows a much smaller increase over the pre-war base than does the wholesale index, although the shape of the two curves is not essentially different. The wholesale index, of course, includes other items than food.

The Annual Index is published by the New York Times Analyst each week. It represents the simple averages of the whole price of 25 food commodities. The base used in the original index is the average for the years 1890-1899. The figures used here have been reduced to a 1913 base and the averages of the week taken for each month.

Bradstreet's index is published in the financial journal by that name. The index is merely the aggregate in dollars and cents of the wholesale cost of 1 pound of each of the commodities quoted. The prices are taken at the first of each month. Ninety-six articles including all kinds of materials are used. This method, of course, gives the same importance to a change in the price of borax that it does to a change in bread or meat. The figures used here have been reduced to percentages using the average of 1913 as a base.

In spite of the wide variation in the kind of material used and the methods of treatment, the indices all show the same phenomena, and all agree in showing a marked downward trend in recent months. (Copyright, 1920.)

AMERICAN LEGION ASKS WORD OF 15 MISSING MEN

The war department reported months ago that there were no more cases of missing men on the records of the American Expeditionary Forces. Today the American Legion asks fifteen missing men. They have been reported to their parents, wounded, then missing in action and dead. The cases cited here, according to the American Legion Weekly, which announced them, are the names of those men reported missing by the parents or relatives, are typical of the Legion Weekly of hundreds of others.

Sergeant Frederick H. Barnes, Company G, 104th Infantry, and P. W. Boynton, Company G, 7th Infantry, both were reported killed in action. Months later friends informed the parents that they saw these men in hospitals in France. Did they die later, did the shock of their wounds, or were the friends who saw these men mistaken? These are the questions the Legion asks, and the parents who are trying to find out for their loved ones are still alive.

SAW HIM ALIVE.
Barnes was reported killed in action October 12, 1918. A letter to his mother he saw Barnes alive on April 7, 1919. Anyone who can verify either report is asked to communicate with Mrs. F. A. Barnes, 937 Broadway, New York City.

N. J. Boynton was reported killed in action on July 15, 1918. He was reported seen on December 21, 1918. In Base Hospital, No. 56, his mother's address is Mrs. James Boynton, Monroeville, Pa.

Other cases of mysterious disappearance of service men, that readers may be able to throw light on, follow.

EDDIE FLYNN. Company M, 14th Infantry, arrived in France December 25, 1917. He was last heard from June 12, 1918. No word received from the war department that he was killed. Address Mrs. B. L. Flynn, 419 Cherry street, Alameda, Mont.

NORMAN O. LARSON. formerly private Company M, 94th Infantry, was reported killed in action October 19, 1918. He last wrote to his family on October 15 that he was about to be transferred to another company. He died in the hands of the enemy. Address Mrs. L. Larson, Twin Lakes State Bank, Twin Lakes, Minn.

FRENCH PROPOSE TAX ON PISTOLS TO HALT CRIME

By Universal Service.
PARIS, Nov. 6.—A tax on revolvers is being proposed in France in order to put a stop to the increasing aggressions and attacks. In order to purchase a revolver a man would require a permit from the police, as the new measure is applied, and a receipt for the payment of a tax of $10. Any person found with a revolver which had not been bought under the above conditions would be severely fined or even imprisoned.

It is calculated that about ten million revolvers are carried in France by persons of different social categories, from the man who wishes to protect his home to the apaches whose purpose is different. The tax, at any rate, is expected to net a considerable sum.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan county, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 6.—Before a crowd of over 20,000 the California Varsity swamped Washington State College this afternoon on California field by the score of 49-0. The defeat was the most complete registered in the Pacific Coast Conference, the Blue and Gold showing amazing superiority in all departments of the game and after the first five minutes of play the outcome was never in doubt. Washington State came down to meet the Bruins with the reputation of being the most powerful football machine in the Northwest and while they still retain that distinction after this afternoon's game, public opinion has it that there can be very few strong teams in the Northwest. It was not the powerful machine of last year that California beat, although the Staters trotted onto the field supremely confident.

But they failed to daunt the Bruins, and were soon thrown into complete demoralization when they failed to gain for downs through the Bruin line. From that time on it was all California, both on offense and on defense. The Golden Bear ruled supreme and tied many records in the game. The Bruins' home field advantage was of no avail, for the Staters started out bravely enough, but failed to make good on their first attempt at a drive and instead of advancing toward California and no power could stop it.

MISLANS HELPED IT.

Had Andy Smith left his regular place in the line for the last time, the score would have mounted up much higher, but as it was he concluded that he had plenty of work to do and the regular at the end of the third quarter and for the first time the second string came in to play in the Washington State eleven.

MORRISON IS STAR.

Morrison, the plugging back, took a fullback's place in the Bruin line. As a line plunger Morrison ran out and put the ball far down into the W. S. C. territory every time California felt inclined to let up on her offensive. For a total of eleven kicks Morrison gained 168 yards, an average of 42 1/2 to a punt, which is but two yards per punt less than the renowned Templeton did against Oregon and for which he has been so widely heralded. Morrison registered the first two California touchdowns and showed a wonderful knack at picking holes in a line that was rated as the best on the coast.

SPROTT IN LINELIGHT.

Next to Morrison Pesky Sprott comes in for a share of the honors of the game. The Bruin halfback got many chances to shine yesterday and alternated with Morrison to take the bulk of the Bruin yardage from the line of scrimmage. Sprott was not out to carrying the ball much yesterday, but made good gains and returned punts for good gains. Sprott put over two touchdowns and Toomey picked up the third.

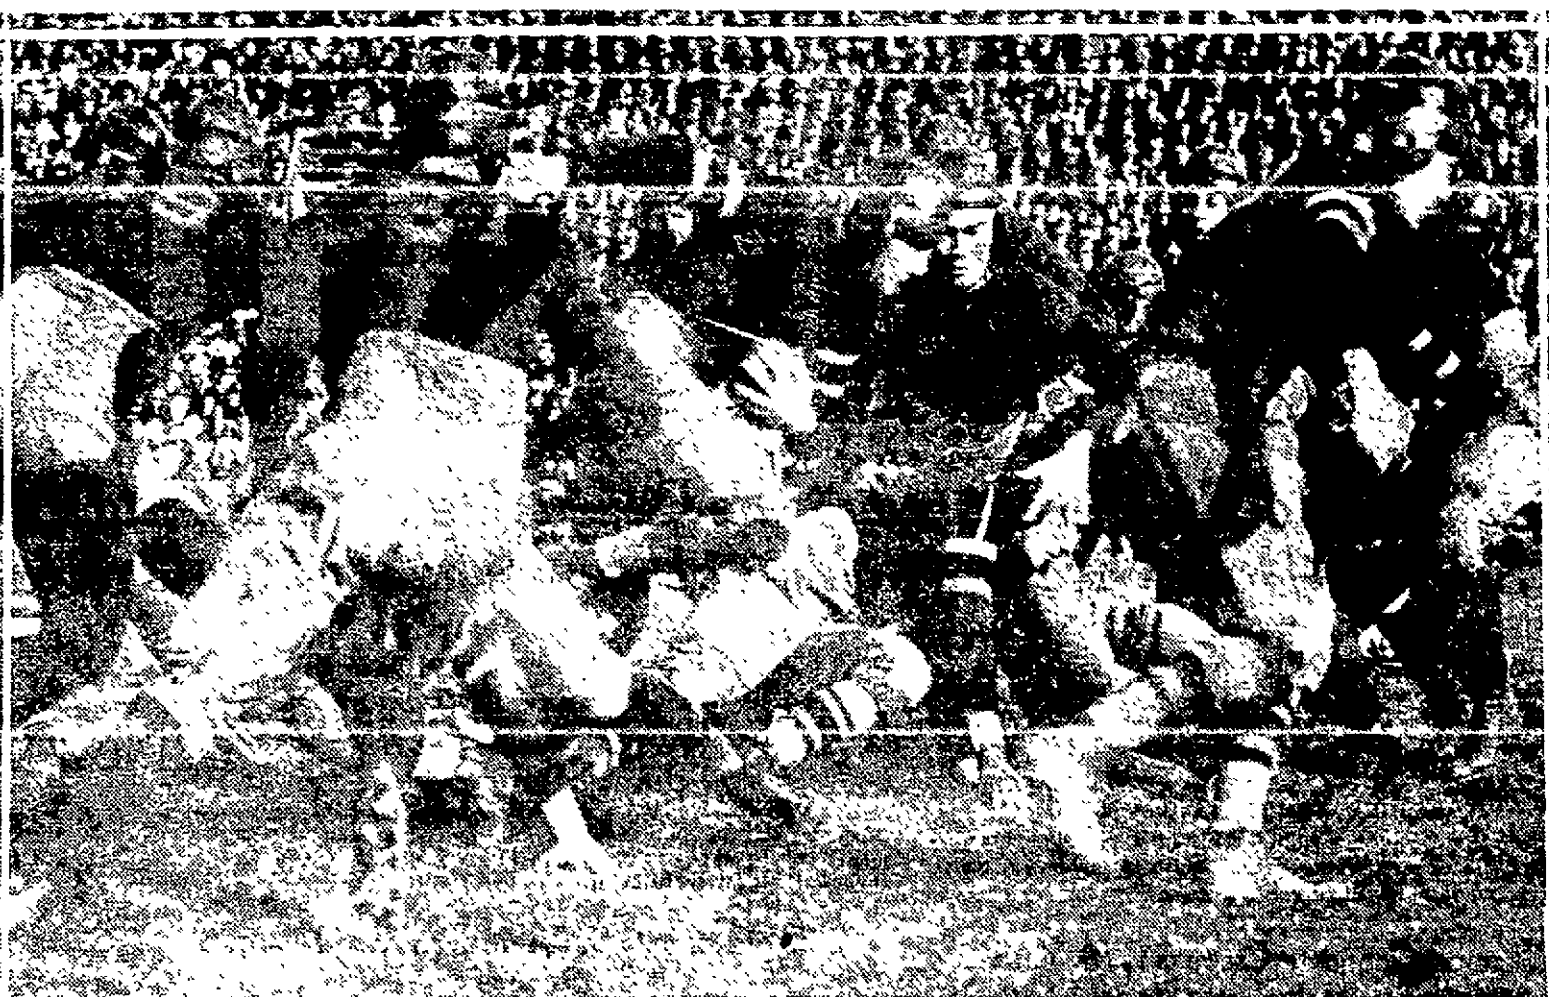

To Charlie Erb, the Bruin quarterback, goes much of the credit for the game. Erb, who was injured in the first stages of the game where a single score was looked to be the one needed to win.

Washington State started a move, shift backfield with the star, Tenn, on the bench with an injured leg. Tenn did not get into the game. Skadan took the field at quarterback in place of Sax, but the diminutive Northern back was not at the end of the first quarter and from then on proved one of the strongest players on the field. Sax and Erb, who were the first for the victors, Gillis with his line plunging, which suited the yardage, and Sax for his cleverness in returning the ball on punts and on open field running. Two light to gain through the line, Sax was used constantly in the later stages of the game on shifting backfield play.

MORRISON MAKES TOUCHDOWNS.

Washington State's last play of the game was a punt to the California 10-yard line. Pesky giving the punter a "shell" hit, forcing him to cover to return it. Morrison, who had been injured in the first quarter, was named by Berkeley. Gillis on two plunges carried for first down and then Erb, who had been injured on two plunges, carried for first down. Morrison, who had been injured on two plunges, carried for first down. Morrison, who had been injured on two plunges, carried for first down.

Drop Kick by Templeton is Only Tally

Princeton and Harvard Play A Bitter Draw

Stanford Scores in the Second Half and Holds Off the Enemy.

40,000 Fans Root for Ancient Rivals in Annual Grid-iron Battle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—"Dink" Templeton's educated toe was all that counted for Stanford today, as he dropped a kick in the second quarter giving the Cardinals the only score, while his long punts and his running back of Wilson's punts kept Washington in her own territory throughout the game. The score was Stanford, 7, Washington, 0.

Two wonderful forward passes placed Stanford in position for Templeton to drop-kick the only score of the game. With the exception of Wilson's punts, the game was a battle of attrition, with both teams battling back and forth in the field with neither being able to get inside of yard line with the ball in position to score.

The score came early in the second quarter. Stanford got the ball on the 42-yard line. A pass, Schaudemann to Patrick, was successful. Stanford making 13 yards on the play. Another pass failed and it was Stanford's turn on Washington's 25-yard line. A pass from Schaudemann to Adams was completed for 10 yards. Patrick made first down through left guard. Wilcox and Schaudemann failed to gain and on the fourth down Templeton drop-kicked from the 27-yard line.

TOO MUCH TEMPLETON.

Aside from this one punt by the Stanford team, it was never really dangerous. It could not gain through Washington's line and it had little better success around the ends. But when it came to the end of the game, it was more than made up by Templeton's wonderful kicking and his return of punts. Adams and again after receiving Wilson's punts, he eluded two of the tacklers adding yards to the effect of the long punts in himself would have been almost the very next play. Twice he eluded all of the Washington team but Eckmann. This was a very dangerous man was a tower of strength himself. He was tackled by Templeton, who was one of the best players of the game. He gained yard after yard on off-tackle runs and played play after play around this end.

Reboux and Adams worked well on Stanford's ends, having the edge on dangerous Beckman well after Templeton's kick.

Harvard evened the count toward the end of the final period when a series of beautifully executed forward passes carried the ball to midfield where Buell heaved a ten-yard pass to Erb, who ran 40 yards. Buell hurried a short forward pass to Crocker behind the goal line for a touchdown. Faxon kicked goal.

SKYLINE B'VD AS A SALE FORCE

The Skyline Boulevard, Oakland's scenic highway reputed to be one of the most fascinating of its kind in America, has no longer the exclusive use of a pleasure boulevard. Now the roadway is being exploited commercially in the movements of large quantities of Oakland real estate as described by Fred B. Reed, Oakland realtor.

According to Reed, many dealers, before showing their property to out-of-town prospects, now take the prospect on a motor trip over the boulevard. Invariably the buyer, seeing the entire San Francisco bay region stretched before him and visualizing the opportunities of the communities below, is so impressed that the purchase of a home site here is then easily consummated.

One such purchase was negotiated recently by Reed to Albert Schaefer, wealthy lumberman of Grays Harbor, although here solely on a pleasure trip. Schaefer, after motoring over the Skyline boulevard, purchased Rockridge property from Reed.

Reed's sales continue to be on the increase, according to the reports of dealers generally.

Chesebrough Enlarges Music Store

The entire building at 1448 San Pablo avenue will, after November 10, be occupied by Harry Chesebrough, wholesale and retail dealer in pianos, players and phonographs. This store was originally built by the owners and fully equipped for the needs of a music emporium. It is ideally located opposite the city hall and immediately adjacent to Kohn Brothers department store.

The new location has a frontage with an area of more than 13,000 square feet, will be devoted exclusively to the display of pianos, phonographs and musical merchandise. Chesebrough says: "The phenomenal growth in all branches of the music business during the past year has rendered our present location entirely inadequate to our present needs and in order to meet the ever-increasing demand we have been forced to enlarge our facilities and business equipment accordingly. I attribute this enthusiasm for music to the development of the phonograph and player piano by which any one can bring the great artists into the home at will. These instruments have shown the way to people who might never have known otherwise the wonders of fine music and has stirred in them the desire to interpret the best works for themselves. Music undoubtedly, after food, raiment and shelter, is the fourth necessity of life."

Mr. Chesebrough entered business in Oakland less than a year ago, but already he is established as one of Oakland's music merchants. He is erecting a beautiful residence at Arimo avenue and is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Exchange and Progressive Business Men's Club. He is actively identified with their activities.

Stage Line Business of R. R. Com.

M. Passalacqua's Benicia Vallejo Stage Line has applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to put in effect a new schedule of passenger fares. The proposed rates are slightly higher than the rates now being collected except on the school ticket and one-way ticket. It is proposed to discontinue round-trip tickets.

Carl D. Allen and D. Moyers, who are partners in the Benicia Vallejo automobile stage line between Fresno and Firebaugh, North Dos Palos and Firebaugh, and Dos Palos and Los Banos, have agreed to discontinue their partnership. Approval of the agreement with a transfer of operating rights to Moyers is asked of the Railroad Commission.

W. J. Cavit, one of the three owners of the San Jose-Los Gatos bus line, has applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to sell his interest in the line to his partners, W. W. Monk and H. J. Elkins. His interest is valued at $27.25.

Claiming that Gilroy merchants were regularly receiving service established between their city and San Francisco, C. C. Newton has applied to the Railroad Commission for a certificate of necessity under which to establish such a service. Newton says that the service given by the Southern Pacific is inadequate.

O. A. Moon, H. A. Cross and Henry T. Campbell have applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to establish an auto service for the transportation of passengers between San Jose and Sacramento via Mission San Jose, Sanoli, Dublin, Danville, Walnut Creek, Martinez, Benicia, Cordelia, Fairfield, Dixon and Davis.

A. C. Woodard, operating an auto truck business between Oakland and San Jose under the name of the Oakland-San Jose Transportation Company, has asked the authority of the Railroad Commission to operate a truck once a week between Mission San Jose, Alvarado and Mount Eden in connection with his

Montclair Made Famous By Joaquin Miller

Sales in the New Townsite Are Many and Property Is Going Fast.

To Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, Montclair, the 2500-acre Realty Syndicate tract just back of Piedmont, owes much of its popularity in the current sale. James H. L'Honnede, engineer of the company, declares, Montclair's distinctive scenic beauty, its forests of Monterey pine, cypress, poplar, oak and eucalyptus and its magnificent view of the San Francisco bay and the Golden Gate have been told by the poet to virtually the entire world by the poet of the Sierras, but of course not under the newly adopted name of Montclair.

The famous old bard's home of which he sang was just south of the 2500-acre Syndicate tract which has come on the market. Both are in Oakland, both are in the Contra Costa hills and both bear the same general aspects. What Joaquin Miller said of his home, L'Honnede says, is equally applicable to the one-half and one-acre sites in Montclair. Armed with a knowledge of the properties, either through the poet's praises or through actual visit to the tract by automobile over the Moraga road or other splendid highways or by electric rail on the line of the San Francisco-Sacramento railway, hundreds of home buyers have hastened to select home sites on the acreage. Home seekers by the score are visiting the tract daily and making the tours specially arranged by the Realty Syndicate Company. Montclair enjoys one distinctive advantage over the poet's home. Montclair is more accessible. By electric rail it is only 41 minutes to San Francisco, closer than Piedmont, and by automobile it is only a trip of eleven minutes to Fourteenth street and Broadway, Oakland.

FAMOUS MEEK ORCHARDS BEING SOLD

The "A Street Apricot Orchard" of the Meek Estate that is now being offered for sale in small pieces.

The Meek Heirs Have Decided to Sell Off the Wonderful Ranch That Has Made Hayward Famous

The famous Meek estate at Hayward is to be divided and put on the market in small tracts. This property is probably the most famous in the country and is one of the most highly developed ranch and residence tracts in the bay district. For more than sixty years the property has been in the possession of the Meek family, who lived in small Meek homes at Hayward and San Lorenzo, cultivating the splendid land and wonderful orchards that have made the Hayward section famous. Now the property is to be divided and sold and the sale begins today.

The first piece to be put on the market is close in to the town of Hayward and is known as the "A Street apricot orchard." This is on the outskirts of Hayward and a part of it is in the town limits. This is sixty acres in size and last year produced a crop of "cots" that brought a revenue of $1000 an acre. The Meek heirs have placed G. C. Barnhart in charge of the sale and will offer the property in small pieces under liberal terms.

"This is unquestionably one of the finest apricot orchards in the state and the public should consider it a privilege to purchase it in small pieces," says G. C. Barnhart. The plan of subdivision calls for one-sixth, one-third and one-half-acre pieces, all containing full quota of trees, at prices ranging from $675 to $1875 per piece, on terms of 10 per cent down, with no interest and no taxes for one year. It is the intention of the Meek estate to run heavily wooded thoroughfares throughout this property, every piece will have sewer facilities and in all probability electric water, although water at from 50 to 80 feet is obtainable and will probably be preferred by most buyers.

"There is no finer finer land anywhere in the state," as is proven by the record-breaking crops not only of fruit, but of berries, vegetables of every description, melons, etc., that for three generations have been famous. The trees in this 60-acre piece are right in their prime and in wonderful condition. The property we sell Sunday is the closest in place of the estate, being partly within the city limits of Hayward. The eastern end of the subdivision is directly across the street from a public school, while the western end is within 100 yards of the Southern Pacific trains to San Francisco.

It takes 15 minutes to go from this property to Oakland via the Southern Pacific trains. Commutation rate $4.25 per month, and it takes one hour to go to San Francisco.

his application for a permit to operate an auto freight and express service between San Francisco, Oakland, Pinole, Hercules, Redwood, Elmhurst and Crockett.

William E. Biedosek has applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to operate an auto truck service between Alviso and Hollister. He now operates between San Jose and Hollister. He proposes to have his line meet the freight beat service between San Francisco and Alviso, established by the Santa Clara Valley Steamship Company.

THE GEN RETURNS
Max Thelen has resigned as chief of the liquidations and claims division of the railroad administration to resume practice in California. Thelen will be succeeded by E. M. Alvord, assistant to the director general.

FRED E. REED CO. TO SELL OAKLAND TO THE COUNTRY

Fred E. Reed was host at an informal dinner given Friday evening at the Hotel Oakland to the members of his company, the staff of which has recently been reorganized. Thirteen men and five women of the company attended. There was no ill luck because of the thirteen men who attended, except that A. W. Stevenson has lost his speech upon "How to Make Friends in Business." "Plan for an intensive campaign, not to carry out some plan for spreading the name of Oakland throughout the country," was made. "The Fred E. Reed Plan" was formed under the chairmanship of Richard H. Randall of the "Larkin Homes Department" of the Reed Company. Meetings will be held every Thursday evening in the office of the Reed organization, and every member will be expected to carry out some plan for spreading the name of Oakland throughout the State and Nation, as well as to sell individual pieces of real estate. Fred E. Reed was presented with a handsomely engraved gold pencil by the staff.

RECENT REALTY DECISION

LANDLORD'S RIGHT TO RECALL NOTICE TO QUIT.

(Ninety-ninth case in a series of recent real estate decisions affecting tenants and owners, summarized for THE TRIBUNE by Attorney Charles G. White, of the Oakland law firm of Dunn, White & Aiken, formerly lecturer in law at the University of California.)

Among the recent decisions of interest to owners and agents is the case of Downing vs. Cutting Packing Company, which was originally heard in the Superior Court in San Francisco, then affirmed on appeal by the District Court of Appeals, and thereafter re-heard in the Supreme Court, in which, on rehearing, the decision of the Superior Court and of the Court of Appeals were both reversed.

The point decided arose in this case for the first time in California, and the decision of the Supreme Court, settling as it does, the law for California on the question involved, is of decided practical importance.

GUARANTEE FUND.

In 1914 T. W. Butler leased certain premises to two partners for a period of five years at the rental of $500 monthly. Thereafter in 1915, Butler sold the premises to the Cutting Packing Company, subject to the lease, and the new lease provided for the sale. One Downing executed an agreement, under which he deposited $5000 in a San Francisco bank as a guarantee that the rent of the premises would be paid to the Cutting Packing Company. The agreement, in substance, provided that if the tenants failed to pay any monthly rent, the Cutting Packing Company could demand each month $500 from the fund deposited by Downing.

The installments of rent for the last three months of 1915 and the first month of 1916 were not paid by the tenants, but were paid by the bank out of said fund on demand as provided in the agreement. Because of this default of the tenants, Downing became interested in obtaining a new tenant for the premises, and began negotiations with the Cutting Packing Company to that end, and secured a prospective tenant who agreed to take the premises at a rental agreeable to all, provided the existing lease could be terminated, either by voluntary agreement or by proceedings in unlawful detainer.

NOTICE TO QUIT ABANDONED.

Believing that these negotiations would solve the difficulties by the execution of a new lease with the prospective tenant, the Cutting Packing Company as owner of the premises, on February 2, 1916, caused a statutory notice to be served on the tenants requiring them to pay the rent due or surrender possession within three days thereafter. However, the Cutting Packing Company immediately thereafter discovered that it would be impossible for them to carry out their intention of entering into an agreement, and decided to abandon the proceedings in unlawful detainer, and on February 4 it demanded from the bank and received the payment of the rent then due, and the tenants continued in possession.

GUARANTOR OBJECTS.

On February 5, Downing demanded of the Cutting Packing Company that it immediately proceed to oust the tenants, and to cause the Cutting Packing Company to collect from the bank from the guarantee fund deposited by Downing, rent for the months of March, April, May and June, 1916, notwithstanding his objections. Downing commenced an action in the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco for the recovery of the money collected by the Cutting Packing Company from the bank over his protests, and the question involved in the case is whether or not, after having given the notice of February 2, 1916, to pay rent or quit, the Cutting Packing Company had the lawful right to abandon the proceedings under said notice, and collect the rents for subsequent months from the fund deposited by Downing as security therefor, notwithstanding the protests of Downing against its so doing.

THE SUPERIOR COURT AND THE DISTRICT COURT OF APPEALS held in favor of Downing, who contended that the Cutting Packing Company could not withdraw or waive the notice to pay rent or quit and could not abandon the proceedings to terminate the lease and commence to hold Downing liable as guarantor, unless he himself consented to their so abandoning and withdrawing such proceedings. The Cutting Packing Company then sought and obtained a rehearing in the California Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court, the respondent, Downing, stated his position as follows: "Where a valid notice to quit is given by a landlord to his tenant, the effect of such notice

Is to terminate the relation of landlord and tenant between the parties as of the date limited in the notice; that a notice to quit is a notice that cannot be withdrawn or done away with at the option of the party giving it and without the consent of both landlord and tenant; and even if so withdrawing a new tenancy is thereby created; consequently, a guarantor of the rent under the original tenancy is not liable for rent which becomes due after the time the notice would have expired or actually did expire.

DECISION OF SUPREME COURT

In deciding against that contention, Justice Shaw in the opinion of the Supreme Court, states its following: "The appellant calls attention to the fact that there are two classes of notices to quit. First, where the tenancy is from year to year, from month to month, or for a term of years, the notice must be given in accordance with the provisions of the Civil Code, Section 1161, Subd. 1. Second, where the law allows the landlord to terminate the lease because of some default by the tenant in the performance of its conditions or covenants, by giving a notice to the tenant to perform within a specified time or deliver the possession. (Civil Code, Sections 2 and 3.)

TWO KINDS OF NOTICES.

"It is claimed that the authorities relied on by the respondent relate exclusively to notices of the first class, that a different rule is applied in those of the second class, that in such cases there is a forfeiture of the remainder of the estate, which forfeiture occurs only when a second condition or act has supervened in connection with the notice, and that such a notice may be withdrawn and the proceedings for forfeiture abandoned, by the party giving the notice without the act or consent of the party to whom it is given, provided the withdrawal occurs before the expiration of the time therein fixed for the forfeiture."

THE APPROVED RULE.

"This theory is that when a notice to pay rent within three days or quit, as provided by section 1161, is served, no change in the legal relations between the parties takes place at that time or during that period, that the tenant may pay the rent within the time, in which case the lease continues in force unchanged; or he may allow the rent to remain unpaid, and then, at the expiration of the three-day period, but that if, while the time is running, the landlord elects to recall or waive the notice, and to abandon the proceedings for a forfeiture, he may do so and the lease will continue in force thereafter."

"(1) The language of the section shows that the appellant's theory is correct. Subdivision 1 applies only to cases where the tenant holds over after the expiration of the term for which it is let to him and to tenants at will which have been entered by a 'three days' notice. (Civil Code, Sec. 739.)

last clause of subdivision 3 shows that the object to be attained by a notice under subdivisions 2 and 3 is a forfeiture of the lease. If the tenant, or other person interested, shall pay the stipulated rent, he may thereby save the lease from forfeiture. The lease in such cases is not terminated by the expiration of the term fixed therein or by any provision therein for its termination by the parties, but solely because of the default in the payment of rent, the subsequent notice, the lapse of three days, and the ensuing forfeiture.

where the right to a forfeiture is created by contract or by law it has always been considered that it was necessary to restrict it to the most technical limits of the terms and conditions upon which the right is to be exercised. Under this rule it must be admitted that the forfeiture claimant, the landlord, is not bound by the acts which are to create it has occurred. It, therefore, does not take place until there has been a failure to pay the rent during the three days allowed by the statute. It follows that if the lease is not terminated by such forfeiture, it remains in force for the remainder of the term, or until it is ended in some manner by some subsequent act of the tenant."

WAIVER OF FORFEITURE.

"The landlord could not have accepted the rent during that period and at the same time have claimed that the notice itself forfeited the estate and terminated the lease. Since forfeitures are not favored in law, the consequence of these principles would be that if the rent was paid in any manner or from any security provided therefor, or by any other persons, during the three days, the forfeiture is thereby waived and the lease will remain in force."

"After the giving of the notice to quit they (the tenants) still remained in possession and continued therein until the payments here in controversy were made. It must, therefore, be presumed that they consented to such payments. The bank stood in the position of their agent with respect to the matter of making the actual payments of the rent, and the payments operated to their benefit. The forfeiture, as we have seen, had not occurred at the time the payment of February 4 was made."

TENANTS DID NOT VACATE.

"If the notice had terminated the lease or created the forfeiture, or if the tenants desired that it should have that effect, it was their duty to vacate the premises on or before the expiration of the three-day period and also to give notice to the bank to withhold further payments of rent accruing after the last of February. Since they did not do either of these things the conclusion must follow that they acquiesced in the payment and that the lease was not forfeited, but remained in force as completely as if no proceedings for forfeiture had been begun and that the security deposited for the payment of rent remained available to the bank for the payment of the rent."

It is apparent from these considerations that the court erred in holding that the lease was terminated by the giving of the notice to quit and that the security deposited was not available to the appellant as a fund for the payment of the subsequent rents.

Reis Banquets His Staff of Employees

The employees of the Reis Shoe Company were banqueted by Reis at the Saddle Rock restaurant on Saturday night of last week as the result of a friendly wager between Reis and Manager Graham. The wager arose over whether the time was opportune for a special sale of stock. Reis had just returned from a business trip to the East.

It was expected to carry well through the year. Manager Graham advocated a special drive and sale and the question was one as to the psychology of the event. Graham offered to back his judgment with a dinner for the entire staff and Reis agreed. The sale was held and proved to be one of the big events of the year and the biggest in the history of the company. The result was the dinner to the staff. Those who participated were C. Ward, C. Smith, J. Lottman, J. Lopez, H. Smith, J. Lottman, J. Weller, E. Rapp, W. Lee, Manager C. Graham and L. Reis, the proprietor.
